Challenges Continue for State's Corn Crop

By Linda Breazeale
MSU Ag Communications

If Mississippi's corn growers thought planting season was a wild ride, they better fasten their seatbelts for harvest time.

Erick Larson, corn specialist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service, said wet fields and cooler temperatures last spring resulted in less-than-desirable corn stands, and these conditions often delayed or prevented growers from planting their intended corn acreage.

"Corn has little ability to compensate for the limitations, so we are just hopeful the rest of the season and harvest go smoothly and we harvest a decent crop. We are seeing some issues connected to the cool, wet conditions during the planting and seed germination periods," he said. "The biggest story now is that we are significantly later than normal. Corn's maturity is connected to heat unit accumulation, and we are about seven to 10 days behind. Last year, we were two to three weeks ahead of schedule, making this year drastically different from last year."

Larson said later harvest dates open the door for many other problems or challenges.

"This crop will be much more dependent than normal on July and August weather," he said. "That is not good, because July and August are typically hot and dry, which will reduce productivity."

Larson said since the crop is late, it may also be more vulnerable to fall rains or even tropical storms that can result in yield losses and field damage during harvest.

"Our typical stale-seedbed tillage system also depends on suitable conditions for fall tillage, which may be restricted if we have a wet fall, as well as late crops," he said.

Larson said early-July rains were helpful around Lowndes and Noxubee counties, but the Delta and most hill counties have remained dry with only isolated showers.

"Showers have been very localized, mostly in the east-central part of the state and extending south," he said. "Rainfall is beneficial, even in fields with irrigation, because rains usually bring cooler temperatures, wet the soil more efficiently, and save energy."

Jerry Singleton, area agronomics crops agent based in Leflore County, said corn has made significant progress since the first of May, but that is not necessarily saying much.

"Considering the weather we were dealt in March and April, we are doing pretty well," he said. "We don't have the corn crop that we had this time last year. Some fields are almost that good but not overall. It is going to be hard to improve much more in the days ahead."

Dennis Reginelli, area agronomics crops agent based in Oktibbeha County, said early corn has grown well despite struggles farmers had applying nitrogen, which could have impacted ear diameter, and reduced yields.

"Farmers planted a few fields in March if they could get into them. Then rains started and delayed planting until mid-April. Then more rain delayed other fields as late as the middle of May but only if they had access to irrigation," he said.

Reginelli said producers switched some fields to cotton or soybeans.

"Some farmers opted for a fallow year to let the field rest a season," he said. "Insurance payments give farmers that option with a little income without wasting time, money, and effort for a gamble."

HARVEST PERMITS

As we enter the harvest season for many different crops, the Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) reminds everyone to have their Harvest Permits for hauling agricultural products.

Harvest Permits entitle a vehicle to haul sand, gravel, fill dirt, agricultural products, or unprocessed forestry products at an authorized maximum gross weight NOT to exceed 84,000 pounds.

The permits are not valid on Interstate Highways or low weight roads. Any vehicle weighed in excess of 80,000 pounds on an Interstate Highway will be penalized $0.05 per pound for all weight in excess of 80,000 and $0.15 per pound for all weight in excess of 100,000 pounds. The cost for a Harvest Permit is $25.

Fresh Corn Recipes

MEXICAN ROASTED CORN SALAD WITH BUTTERMILK DRESSING

3 tablespoons fresh lime juice
4 teaspoons olive oil, divided
1 1/2 teaspoons ancho chile powder
1/2 teaspoon paprika (regular or smoked)
1/2 teaspoon salt, divided
5 ears shucked corn
1/2 cup low-fat buttermilk, well shaken
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 cup seedless red grapes, halved
6 cups mixed greens
Handful of flowering herbs, such as tarragon flowers for garnish

Preheat oven to 450°. Line a rimmed baking sheet with aluminum foil. Whisk together the lime juice, 2 teaspoons olive oil, ancho chile powder, paprika, and 1/4 teaspoon salt in a small mixing bowl. Place corn on the prepared baking sheet, and brush with the lime mixture. Roast the corn for 30 minutes. Remove corn from oven. Adjust oven rack 4 inches from heat, and turn on broiler. Return the corn to oven, and broil, turning, for 3 minutes or until browned in patches. Whisk together buttermilk, grated Parmesan cheese, and remaining 2 teaspoons olive oil and 1/4 teaspoon salt in a small bowl. With a small, sharp knife, cut corn off the cobs into a serving bowl; gently toss kernels with grape halves and mixed greens. Divide salad among 4 dinner plates. Garnish each with flowering herbs, if desired, and drizzle evenly with dressing.

SWEET CORN ICE CREAM

2 ears corn
1 cup heavy whipping cream
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup sugar
4 egg yolks
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

Set a box grater in a large bowl. Using the large holes, grate corn kernels (and their "milk") off the cobs; discard cobs. In a medium saucepan over medium heat, combine cream, milk, and corn, and bring to a simmer. Meanwhile, in a medium bowl, whisk sugar and egg yolks until pale and thick. When cream mixture reaches a simmer, slowly ladle 1/2 cup of it into the egg mixture, whisking constantly. Repeat with another 1/2 cup ladleful. Reduce heat to low, whisk warmed egg mixture into saucepan, and cook, whisking until mixture thickens a bit, about 5 minutes. Pour mixture into a medium bowl, stir in vanilla, cover with plastic wrap (letting the wrap sit directly on the mixture's surface), and chill at least 2 hours and up to 1 day. Freeze in ice cream maker according to manufacturer's instructions. Serve immediately or transfer to an airtight plastic container and freeze up to overnight.

ROASTED FRESH CORN, POBLANO, AND CHEDDAR PIZZA

2 poblano peppers
Cooking spray
2 cups fresh corn kernels (about 4 ears)
1/2 cup chopped green onions
1 garlic clove, minced
1/2 cup 1% low-fat milk
2 large egg whites
1 large egg
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese
1 13.8-ounce can refrigerated pizza crust dough
2 tablespoons fat-free sour cream
2 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro

Preheat broiler. Place poblano peppers on a foil-lined baking sheet; broil 10 minutes or until blackened and charred, turning occasionally. Place peppers in a heavy-duty zip lock plastic bag, and seal. Let stand 10 minutes. Peel and discard skins, seeds, and stems of peppers; chop peppers. Lower oven temperature to 425°. Heat a large nonstick skillet over medium-high heat, and coat with cooking spray. Add corn, green onions, and garlic; sauté 2 minutes or until lightly browned. Stir in milk; cook over medium heat 2 minutes or until liquid almost evaporates; cool slightly. Place egg whites, salt, and black pepper in a bowl; whisk well. Stir in peppers, corn mixture, and cheese; line a baking sheet with parchment paper. Unroll dough onto parchment paper; pat dough to form a 13 x 8-inch rectangle. Spread corn mixture over dough, leaving a 1-inch border. Fold 1 inch of dough over corn mixture. Bake for 12 minutes or until set. Serve with sour cream, and sprinkle with cilantro.

BEAN AND CORN SALSA

3 cups chopped seeded tomato (about 3 medium)
3/4 cup chopped sweet onion
1/2 cup chopped tomatillos (about 2 medium)
1/4 cup canned black beans, rinsed and drained
1/4 cup fresh corn kernels
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh parsley
2 tablespoons fresh lime juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1/2 teaspoon hot sauce

Combine all ingredients in a large bowl; cover and chill at least 2 hours.

Boutique Chickens

By Lise Foy, Director
 MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

Having your own backyard chicken coop seems to be very in vogue lately. Even Mississippi Magazine did a story on selecting the best architecture for your chicken's house to fit your personality and decorating taste. P. Allen Smith has done a couple of segments on his MPB show, The Garden Home, about creating your own chicken tractor from a retired cotton trailer and about choosing the best breed of chicken for your needs or taste.

I had chickens growing up. We had twelve Rhode Island Red hens in a re-purposed dog kennel in the back yard. My brothers and I each named one; mine was Indian. My grandfather bought me a little galvanized bucket, which I still have, for egg collection. I can remember those big, double yolk, brown eggs and how good they were for breakfast and how yellow they made my Momma's pound cake.

At the Ag Museum, there is an old fashioned chicken coop on display in the Fortenberry-Parkman Farmstead. The collection of buildings that make up the Farmstead is a designated Mississippi Landmark by the Mississippi Department of Archives and History. The Farmstead was moved from Jefferson Davis County during the development of the Museum in the 1980s. The farm was in operation from 1860 until 1960 at its original location.

While the coop that is part of the Farmstead is made of simple slat construction and laid out with a square footprint containing only roosting boxes and a feeder typical of the time period, the backyard coops of today are just as fancy as they are functional. For example, the three featured in the July/August issue of Mississippi Magazine include an adorable transformed playhouse, a recycled antique baggage cart once used by the Illinois Central Railroad and a very artistic coop including elaborate mosaic windows made from stained-glass, mirror pieces and rocks.

According to the newly unveiled Farm Families of Mississippi Exhibit located in the Ag Museum Heritage Center Lobby, today's chicken is a descendent of the Red Junglefowl. The Red Junglefowl was first domesticated at least 5,000 years ago in Asia. Today, the domestic chicken is raised around the world as a food source for both meat and eggs. There are about 25 billion chickens in the world, which is the largest population of any bird species.

On the commercial production side of the industry, poultry is Mississippi's top agricultural commodity, and is responsible for about 36 percent of the state's entire agricultural revenue. Approximately 758 million broilers were produced in 2012 from 1,478 farms in Mississippi.

While poultry is big business, the backyard chicken is definitely making a comeback across the country as people are seeking the opportunity to raise their own food or to eat locally grown products. It is also a returning form of family entertainment. My brother, who lives in the Teoc neighborhood, built his two children a somewhat elaborate coop this summer. It is a highlight of the day for my niece and nephew to check for eggs along with gathering vegetables from the backyard each day. The kids also get to experience feeding and caring for chickens. That is a great way to teach responsibility and about where our food comes from.

It is becoming a common topic of conversation in social settings to discuss your new coop or chicken tractor, or to make a special visit to the neighbors to view the chickens. My father-in-law has given me a cotton trailer to create my very own piece of poultry housing yard art. Now I just need to convince my husband to put his inventive juices to flowing. This girl needs a backyard chicken boutique to keep up with the social scene!

The Ag Museum is located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson and is open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. In addition to our gallery and exhibit spaces, the Ag Museum also has room for your event, whether it's a meeting, a wedding, or other special event. DISCOVER MISSISSIPPI'S PROUD AGRICULTURAL LEGACY

Natchez to Host Grazing Lands Conservation Initiative Conference

By Wesley J. Kerr
NRCS Area Conservationist
USDA-NRCS

Natchez, Mississippi is playing host to the 1st annual Grazing Lands Conservation Initiative Conference, September 9-10, 2013 at the Natchez Convention Center.

The conference, sponsored by the South Area Grazing Land Conservation Initiative (GLCI) Committee, a Conservation Grazing Lands Initiative of the Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS), is inviting all livestock producers of South Mississippi to attend, according to Conference Chair Robert Collier, and NRCS Area Conservationist Wesley Kerr.

"This conference will afford participants a golden opportunity to learn more about prescribed grazing, grazing management systems, layout of grazing management systems, the economics of different enterprises, such as dairy enterprises, small ruminant animal, and beef cattle enterprises," Kerr said. "It will help those who are considering going into one or more of these enterprises from an economic standpoint."

The Grazing Lands Conservation Initiative Committee is hosting this event to improve the management, productivity, and health of the state's privately-owned grazing lands in South Mississippi.

"The livestock industry in South Mississippi, and in Mississippi as a whole, is an important part of agriculture in this state," he said. "In order for producers to have the latest technology designed to make their operation much more profitable, attending this conference will give them better insight, better management, and better knowledge of issues regarding their operation."

The conference is free; however, participants must pre-register by August 26, 2013. Persons requiring overnight stay and live greater than 50 miles from the Natchez Convention Center will have their lodging paid at a reduced rate. Registration forms can be downloaded from: http://www.nrcs.usda.gov/wps/portal/nrcs/detail/ms/technical/ecoscience/?cid=nrcs142p2_017187 or by requesting a form from the NRCS in Hattiesburg at 601-296-1173 or 1174 ext.110.

Completed registration forms should be mailed to USDA-NRCS Office, 113 Fairfield Drive, Suite 110, Hattiesburg, MS 39402 no later than August 26, 2013.

Annual Muscadine Field Day Set For August 24

By Keri Collins Lewis
MSU Ag Communications

Muscadine grape growers can hear about the latest research and see fruit on the vine at Mississippi State University's McNeill Experiment Station in Pearl River County on August 24.

"The McNeill Station is the traditional location for the Muscadine Field Day," said Eric Stafne, Extension fruit crops specialist. "Last year an experiment was in place that couldn't be disturbed so we had to move to the Beaumont Experiment Station, but this year we are back to McNeill."

Experts from the MSU Extension

Service and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service will discuss a variety of topics, including insects and diseases, best production practices and cultivar selection.

This free program is from 9 to 11 a.m., and registration begins at 8:30 a.m. The MSU Extension Service and Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station will host the event. The McNeill Experiment Station is located at 7 Ben Gill Road in Carriere.

For more information, contact Stafne at (601) 403-8939 or estafne@ext.msstate.edu.

Ag Museum Holds Ribbon Cutting to Showcase New Exhibit

By Paige Manning
Director of Marketing and Public Relations - MDAC

Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Cindy Hyde-Smith, along with members of Farm Families of Mississippi, held a ribbon cutting ceremony to showcase a new agriculture exhibit on display in the Heritage Center of the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum. The exhibit, made possible by the Farm Families of Mississippi, showcases the importance and contributions of Mississippi agriculture. The exhibit features information about Mississippi's farmers, farmland, forestry, crops, livestock, poultry, and catfish. The exhibit also features interactive activities including two iPads with information and educational videos about Mississippi agriculture and a kiosk featuring My American Farm, an interactive game that teaches agriculture in America.

Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Cindy Hyde-Smith stated, "We are very appreciative to the Farm Families of Mississippi for allowing the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum the opportunity to display this exhibit. With the addition of this exhibit, we can give visitors a better understanding of how agriculture has progressed. While much of the Museum focuses on the history of agriculture and the role it plays in our economy, this exhibit portrays the significance of modern-day Mississippi agriculture and how agriculture is just as important today as it was in the past."

Farm Families of Mississippi, a non-profit consisting of a group of organizations, companies, and individuals, was created for the specific purpose of promoting Mississippi agriculture to the general public. Daryl Burney, Chairman of the Farm Families of Mississippi Committee, said, "We are so proud to unveil our display at the Ag Museum promoting the farmers of Mississippi and all they do for us each and every day. Educating our young people about the benefits that agriculture provides is a very important task." Burney added, "We are very grateful to the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and to Commissioner Cindy Hyde-Smith for letting us put this display here at the premiere focal point of agricultural history in the state."

The Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Museum, which features the National Agricultural Aviation Museum, portrays the important role that the agriculture and forestry industries have played in Mississippi's history and how these industries have shaped Mississippi's economy through the years through both indoor and outdoor exhibits.

The Museum, located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson, is open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. For more information about the Museum, call (601) 432-4500, visit www.msagmuseum.org, or visit the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum on Facebook.

Mississippi Cattlemen's College

By LeAnne L. Peters
Director of Communications
Mississippi Cattlemen's Association

Mississippi cattlemen and women won't want to miss this year's Mississippi Cattlemen's College, to be held Wednesday, August 28 at Cain Cattle in Pickens and on Thursday, August 29 at JRW, LLC in Seminary.

The event, which is sponsored in part by Zoetis, will feature speakers and sessions encompassing a variety of topics important to farm and ranch owners and managers.

"Once again, the Mississippi Cattlemen's College promises to be an excellent opportunity for Mississippi cattlemen and women to learn more about the most current management practices, as well as industry issues that could impact their beef business," says Jacob Megehee, Mississippi Cattlemen's Association (MCA) president. "We know our producers must be experts in their field in order to continue to be successful, and that's why we strive to provide the most current topics and foremost speakers in our state Cattlemen's College event."

Acclaimed stockmanship and stewardship instructors, Curt Pate and Dr. Ron Gill, will share with attendees behavioral principles of cattle, stockmanship skills and tips, and methods for reducing stress during cattle handling.

Also on hand will be Dr. Robin

Falkner of Zoetis, who will talk about the animal health practices in a successful cattle operation and discussing forage management practices with producers will be Dr. Hugh Aljoe from The Noble Foundation.

NCBA President Scott George, a dairy farmer and cow-calf producer from Wyoming, will join us as well.

"The Mississippi Cattlemen's College not only provides producers with an opportunity to learn more about the most efficient and practical ways to run their businesses, it also is an excellent networking opportunity," Megehee says. "Attendees have the chance to communicate with fellow producers and speakers about management and animal health practices that can benefit their own operations."

Producers interested in attending the event should register on the Mississippi Cattlemen's website, www.ms cattlemen.org or contact MCA at 601-354-8951. The event is free to the public, but registration is required for meal planning.

Mississippi Cattlemen's Association has joined with sponsors; Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), Mississippi State University Extension Service and Zoetis to promote and provide this important seminar series to the cattle industry across the state.

A ribbon cutting ceremony was held at the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum to showcase a new agriculture exhibit on display in the Heritage Center of the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum. Members of Farm Families for Mississippi were joined by (third from left) Vic Sexton, Office of Economic Development with the City of Jackson; Randy Knight, President of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation; Cindy Hyde-Smith, Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce; and Lise Foy, Director of the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum.
