Helpful Tips for Your Thanksgiving Turkey

By Reprinted with permission from the National Turkey Federation

The Thanksgiving turkey is usually the center of all Thanksgiving meals. Even though cooks have been preparing these birds for years, each year there is still question as to is it done, how long can we store leftovers, what about the stuffing, etc., etc., etc. Listed below is information from the National Turkey Federation that may serve as a guide to help with any turkey cooking dilemmas or questions that may arise during this holiday season.

For more information from the National Turkey Federation you may contact them at: National Turkey Federation 1225 New York Avenue NW, Suite 400, Washington, D.C. 20005. Email: info@turkeyfed.org. Telephone: 202-898-0100, www.eatturkey.com.

Turkey is available in many different forms; everything from cutlets, deli meats, sausage or the whole birds. Traditionally, we think of using the whole birds for most feasts. Turkey is a low-fat, high-protein, nutrient-dense food; so in addition to being an excellent dinner choice, it is a healthy choice.

Is it better to buy a fresh or frozen turkey?

There is no quality difference between a fresh or frozen turkey. Frozen turkeys are flash frozen immediately after packaging to 0 degrees °F. or below and are held at that temperature until purchased. Once the birds are defrosted, the meat is practically as fresh as the day it was processed. Fresh turkeys are deep-chilled and have shorter shelf lives. Also, fresh turkeys are perishable and require special handling and merchandising, so they may be a little more expensive than frozen turkeys. Purchasing a frozen turkey allows you to get it in advance and take advantage of special sales. Fresh turkeys are convenient because they do not require thawing.

What size turkey do I need to buy?

Purchase at least one pound of uncooked turkey per person when purchasing a whole turkey. You will have enough for the feast and for leftovers.

How do you properly thaw a turkey? Turkey can be thawed in the refrigerator, in cold water, or in the microwave. A whole turkey takes about 24 hours per five pounds to thaw in the refrigerator. In cold water, changed every 30 minutes, turkey takes about 30 minutes per pound to thaw. When using a microwave to thaw a turkey, follow the manufacturer's instructions for the size turkey that will fit in your oven, the minutes per pound, and the power level to use. Never defrost turkey on the counter. Once thawed, keep turkey refrigerated at 40 degrees °F. or below until it is ready to be cooked. Thawed turkey in the microwave should be cooked immediately.

What are the steps to safely stuff a turkey?

Stuffing should be prepared and stuffed into the turkey immediately before it is placed in the oven for cooking. If preparing the stuffing ahead of time, wet and dry ingredients should be refrigerated separately and combined right before stuffing the turkey. Stuff the turkey loosely, about 3/4 cup per pound of turkey. Use a two-step test for turkey doneness: first insert a meat thermometer into the deepest portion of the thigh, not touching the bone, and allow it to come to temperature for an accurate reading. Second, once the thigh has reached 180 degrees °F. move the thermometer to the center of the stuffing. Once the stuffing has reached 160 to 165 degrees °F. the turkey should be removed from the oven.

How should leftovers be stored and how long will they keep?

Leftovers should be stored in shallow containers and refrigerated or frozen within two hours of cooking. Remove the stuffing and carve the extra turkey meat from the bones. Use cooked turkey and stuffing within 3-4 days and gravy within 1-2 days. Cooked turkey keeps 3-4 months in the freezer. When using leftovers, reheat the foods thoroughly to 165 degrees until hot and steaming; bring gravy to a boil before serving.

Follow these 5 easy steps to a perfectly roasted turkey:

1. Thaw the turkey and remove the neck and giblets from the neck and body cavities.
2. Preheat the oven to 325 degrees °F. for conventional or 300 degrees °F. for convection ovens.
3. Place turkey breast side up on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. If cooking stuffing inside the turkey, fill the body cavity with stuffing now.

4. Insert a meat thermometer into the thickest part of the thigh, not touching bone.

5. Roast the turkey, uncovered, until the meat thermometer registers 180 degrees °F. Use the roasting timetable to estimate approximate cooking time. If stuffed, make sure the temperature of the stuffing has reached 160 to 165 degrees °F. before removing the turkey from the oven.

Preheat oven to 350° F. Stud the whole oranges with cloves, and bake for 30 minutes. In a large saucepan, combine the apple juice and cinnamon stick. 3/4 cup packed light brown sugar
1/2 cup chopped pecans

Preheat oven to 350° F. Lightly grease a 9x13-inch baking dish. Bake sweet potatoes 35 minutes in the preheated oven, or until they begin to soften. Cool slightly, peel, and mash. In a large bowl, mix the mashed sweet potatoes, salt, 1/4 cup butter, eggs, vanilla extract, cinnamon, sugar, and heavy cream. Transfer to the prepared baking dish. In a medium bowl, combine 1/4 cup butter, flour, brown sugar, and chopped pecans. Mix with a pastry blender or your fingers to the consistency of course meal. Sprinkle over the sweet potato mixture. 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1/4 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese

In a skillet over medium heat, combine the corn, cream, salt, sugar, pepper, and butter. Whisk together the milk and flour, and stir into the corn mixture. Food Enough and Simple Things

By Lise Foy, Director
MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

On any given day, as I walk the grounds of the Mississippi Agriculture & Forestry Museum, one thing resonates with me. Mississippi is made of tough people.

We are a people who hacked out an existence in the wilderness, survived the loss of husbands and sons through the Civil War, suffered the loss of an entire labor force through Reconstruction, sustained the loss of homes and crops following the Great Flood of 1927 just as we entered the Great Depression of the 1930's, endured judgement of a nation and scars on our souls during the Civil Rights Movement in the 1960's, and still face today the loss of history and homes that Katrina washed away in 2005. Our history is not an easy one, from any view point you take.

William Faulkner once said, "To understand the world, you must first understand a place like Mississippi." At the ground breaking on October 24, 2013, for the Museum of Mississippi History and the Mississippi Civil Rights Museum, remarks from Speaker Pro Tempore Greg Snowden, former Governors Haley Barbour and William Winter and Myrlie Evers Williams brought the crowd to its feet more than once as they talked about their own ancestors and the history that makes us Mississippi. The two museums will be a gateway for visitors to learn about other museums, historic sites, and cultural experiences all over the state. The Ag Museum plays a key role in telling the story of Mississippi history as a partner to these long anticipated new additions. True to its mission, the Ag Museum provides an environment that communicates the value of the past and present of Mississippi agricultural lifestyles, relationships, and practices and their relevance to the future of all people.

The Heritage Center features exhibits on the story of the logging industry, the rise of cotton production, and the life of a share cropper. Artifacts on display include inventions developed by people of Mississippi brought forth out of necessity and survival. The Gullett cotton gin, Lindsay log wagon, go-devil, caralog, and walking planter are just a few examples of the vast collection of objects that entice visitors into the world of the past generations who built our great state with blood, sweat, and tears.

Before 1890, ax men, known as "choppers," felled trees, using a double bit ax with two cutting edges. This double-bladed ax replaced the pole ax which had only a single cutting edge. Expert choppers who possessed great endurance and a high degree of skill could fell fifteen to twenty trees a day.

Use of these tools required great strength and physical endurance. My daddy tells a story about learning to use a cross-cut saw and getting in trouble for 'riding' his end of the saw because it made the work harder for my grandfather who was on the other end. The ax men known as 'choppers' in the 1890's could fell fifteen to twenty trees a day. Just take a minute to think about that. Using nothing but a double-bladed ax and pure determination, they cut down fifteen trees of enormous diameter day after day. Tough people...

Through every snatch of our history, we have managed to keep our traditions alive and to care for one another through sharing what we have to share and being thankful for what we have. The things we share are usually things borne of our rich soil, like a mess of butterbeans, a jar of homemade muscadine jelly, or an ear or two of corn. My family remembers a rutabaga that was given to my grandmother by a neighbor. She tried to 're-gift' it to all of us because she didn't want it, but it was too good to throw away. My grandparents survived the Great Depression and saved every rubber band, piece of aluminum foil, scrap of cloth, and tiny bite of peach from trees in their yard. I don't remember the final fate of the rutabaga, but Mamaw was thankful and could not bring herself to be wasteful; she probably ate it.

The people of Mississippi always manage to find thanks for what we do have and not to dwell on what we don't have or what has been lost. The Ag Museum offers a wealth of opportunity to contemplate the spirit of Thanksgiving and to develop a deep respect for those who came before us and survived by 'pulling up their boot straps' to persevere in hard times. My great grandmother who gave birth to thirteen babies, including two sets of twins, lived during a time in our history which is represented by the Fortenberry-Parkman Farmstead exhibit located at the Ag Museum. It tells the story of a rural Mississippi family who worked their farm with mules, churned their own butter, gathered eggs from the back yard, put up potatoes for the winter, and cooked every meal on a wood burning stove. There was no electricity or indoor plumbing. As I walk through that set of buildings, I think of my great grandmother and the nine children, that survived of the thirteen, that she raised. I am in awe of that generation of Mississippians and thankful for the heritage they left behind them. Tough people...

There is a campaign on Facebook challenging users to participate in 30 Days of Thanksgiving during the month of November. If we consider for just a moment the blessings of life, I think we find that it is not hard to be thankful for at least thirty things. I am thankful for the Ag Museum and the opportunity it offers for generations to come to learn about Mississippi and the vital role agriculture played in our history and the sheer existence of our ancestors.

Reasons for Thanksgiving

To have food enough and a place to dwell,

To have work to do and do it well...

To find the comfort when things go wrong,

In a bit of prayer or snatch of song...

To know the pleasure a kind act brings,

To see the beauty of simple things...

To know good books and share their worth,

To plant bright flowers in rich brown earth...

To have true friends..this is living,

And reason enough for Thanksgiving.

Ag Museum "Arti-Facts"

In the early 20th century, Mississippi loggers were in need of a device to help them transport lumber. An innovative Mississippi craftsman invented the caralog, a two-wheeled cart with attachments at the rear that could hold logs. The caralog was meant to be pulled by mules or oxen that were strong enough to pull the heavy loads near riverbanks. This caralog was made by Barney Pierce for George Campbell. Mr. Campbell passed it on to his son-in-law John D. Williams, who used the caralog to bunch logs and carry them to the creek where they were tied together in cribs during high water and floated downstream to the Chickasaw River. The logs were then taken to the mill at Moss Point. The caralog was used up until the 1950s by the Williams family. It is on display in the Heritage Center gallery.

Advertising Guidelines

The Mississippi Market Bulletin is published on the 1st and 15th of each month by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce. The Mississippi Market Bulletin is an important way for the Department to disseminate news and information about issues affecting Mississippi's agriculture industry and the Department's operations.

Through its classified advertising section, the Bulletin provides a forum for Mississippi residents to buy and sell agricultural related items while also giving statewide exposure to small farmers who might not normally have the economic resources for such widespread advertising. The Bulletin does not publish commercial or display ads and all items offered for sale must have been produced, raised, grown or operated on the seller's property. Businesses, corporations, dealerships, brokers or other commercial enterprises are not allowed to advertise in the Mississippi Market Bulletin.

Advertising rules and guidelines have been established for the Mississippi Market Bulletin in order to comply with regulations enforced by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce and to maintain the objectives of the publication. The staff of the Mississippi Market Bulletin reserves the right to edit, revise or reject any advertisement.

The Mississippi Market Bulletin assumes no responsibility for any notice appearing in the Bulletin nor for any transaction resulting from published notices. Advertisers are cautioned that it is against the law to misrepresent any product offered for sale in public notices or advertisements carried in any publication that is delivered by the United States Postal Service.

- In order to advertise in the Mississippi Market Bulletin you must be a subscriber. To place an ad, you must include your name, mailing address and account number that the subscription is listed under on each ad that you submit (this information will not be printed). Each subscriber is allowed to advertise two ads in the Bulletin, listing one ad per category.
- All listings must be agriculture related (raised, grown, produced or operated on your farm). At the top of your ad, write the category that the ad should be listed under. We reserve the right to edit, revise or reject each ad. Please print or type your ad.
- There is a 30-word limit for classified advertisements, this includes: price (on the item you are selling), your city, county and telephone number or name and complete address must be included in the ad if you do not list a telephone number. Ads cannot be held over from one issue to another. You must submit them for each issue.
- Out-of-state residents are not eligible to advertise with the following exceptions: Out-of-state ads are allowed in the "Wanting To Buy" category. Out-of-state ads are allowed for individuals owning farm property within the state that is being offered for sale (consisting of 10 acres or more).

Advertising Deadline Dates

DECEMBER 1 ISSUE....DEADLINE MON., NOV. 18, 2013 • 12:00 NOON

DECEMBER 15 ISSUE.....DEADLINE MON., DEC. 2, 2013 • 12:00 NOON

You must submit your ad for each issue. We do not hold ads over for multiple insertion.

Advertisement Submission Form

MSU Horses for Sale in First Online Auction

By Keri Collins Lewis
MSU Ag Communications

Mississippi State University is moving a popular horse sale into cyberspace with a special online auction.

More than 20 horses from the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station's (MAFES) herd will be sold from November 1 to 21 at <http://www.auction.msucare.com>. Buyers can also bid on the stud fee for one 2014 breeding to gray American quarter horse stallion UGA King of Aces.

Prospective buyers can view photos, videos, and registration papers on the individual webpage for each horse up for bid. The auction is similar in style to eBay, each lot having a minimum bid, and a registered bidder can enter a maximum bid for the horse he or she wants to buy.

Payment is due when winning bidders arrive to transport horses and can be made by cash, check, money order, or credit card. Registration papers will be held until personal checks clear the bank. An $8 per day boarding fee will be charged for all animals picked up after November 25.

Prospective buyers can set an appointment to view horses in person at the MAFES Horse Unit by contacting Ryann Campbell at rs640@msstate.edu or 918-917-0735.

All but one of the MAFES horses are registered or are eligible for registration. American quarter horses, thoroughbreds, one breeding stock American paint horse, and one grade Welsh Pony stallion will be for sale.

MAFES, the MSU Extension Service, and the MSU Department of Animal and Dairy Sciences are collaborating to conduct the sale.

More than 20 horses from the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station's herd, such as this 2-year-old gray mare, will be sold in an online auction from November 1 to 21 at <http://www.auction.msucare.com>.
