Hyde-Smith Honored With Distinguished Service Award

By Greg Gibson
Member Services Director
Public Relations/Multimedia Coordinator
Mississippi Farm Bureau® Federation

Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Cindy Hyde-Smith of Lincoln County is the recipient of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation's 2013 Distinguished Service Award. The presentation was made during the organization's annual membership meeting in December.

Commissioner Hyde-Smith, who is a former senator and chair of the Senate Ag Committee, says that throughout her years of service to the people of Mississippi, she has talked with farmers who share a lot of the same concerns and dreams she has for Mississippi agriculture.

"They told me they wanted a market where they could sell their crops for a reasonable profit and with sensible regulations that promote a safe product and ensure sustainability," she said. "That is our goal at the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce.

"We have a lot of very ambitious goals for the Ag Museum," she said. "We are looking to make vast improvements to the Coliseum, Trade Mart and show barns. The renovation of the Coliseum depends on legislation, and we look forward to the legislative session and those opportunities.

"There will be new restrooms on the midway for the 2014 Mississippi State Fair," she said. "We just signed a new contract with North American Midway that includes many improvements. They also refurbished the carousel at the Ag Museum, which is a beautiful piece of history. It was built in the 1920s and is restored for our visitors."

Commissioner Hyde-Smith is proud of the 154th Mississippi State Fair.

"My goal for attendance was 700,000. I was told that we had never reached that milestone," she said. "With sincere prayers for good weather and a little Internet finesse, we had 706,588! We broke the historic record. For a state that has a population of 2.8 million, that's pretty good. For the first time in the United States, we had a mobile app for Apple and Android devices just for the fair. We had close to 9,000 downloads. We live in a changing world, and our agency adapts quite nicely. We have great employees."

Commissioner Hyde-Smith says she feels that production agriculture will face challenges with radical groups who want to control many areas of livestock farming. Farmers must be prepared.

"We know the significance and challenges of producing enough food to feed this country and many others," she said. "Although farmers and ranchers are easygoing by nature, I feel that it's time to establish the efforts necessary to take these groups to task and protect the harvest."

In conclusion, Commissioner Hyde-Smith says she is blessed to be raising her daughter, Anna-Michael, a fifth-generation farmer, on a family farm in Brookhaven. Lincoln County Livestock, the family's cattle auction, also provides them an opportunity to work as a family, along with Michael's parents, in a profession that they all love.

"It has been an extra blessing to me, as a mom, to have Anna-Michael showing reining horses, and that provides such special family time. Family time is so important, whether at the horse show or the stockyard.

"It has been an awesome journey, and I am so honored to serve you as your commissioner," she said. "It is very inspiring to be a part of the future of agriculture in Mississippi. I want to provide programs that will enhance and benefit not only production agriculture but the state as a whole. Agriculture is our state's number-one industry, so we have a lot of opportunities to capitalize on what we do so well.

"Mississippi has been blessed for the past two years with superb crop seasons. Records in row crop yields and high prices have benefited many of our farmers across the state. The main components of these successful seasons have been attributed to not only hard work and dedicated farmers but the assistance of favorable weather from the good Lord up above."

The Distinguished Service Award is the highest honor Farm Bureau bestows on an individual, and it is reserved for someone who has truly made a difference in the lives of Mississippi farmers.

Duck! Rabbit! Duck!

By Lise Foy, Director
MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

Around my house, varmints beware! My people hunt! Some members of the family participate in just about every season. While there is always the ongoing plot against the trophy buck, we also enjoy dove and turkey season and the occasional squirrel hunt. I am particularly fond of bird hunting, the kind where you walk with a dog, like quail or pheasant hunting. And, I have a personal goal to try out duck hunting.

The first occupants of the Mississippi River Valley found sufficient food and materials for survival through hunting and gathering. Food was collected from the forests by hunting animals and fish and by gathering seeds, fruits, and berries. The most common sources of meat were deer, raccoon, fish, shellfish, and waterfowl.

At the entrance to the Heritage Center Gallery at the Ag Museum, an exhibit highlights Native Americans who lived along the Mississippi River and the lower ends of its tributaries about 800 AD referred to as the Mississippian Tradition. They migrated from place to place, hunting animals like ducks, squirrels, rabbits, and deer to use for food, the furs for clothing, bones for tools, and weapons and feathers for arrows. They also subsisted on food like hickory nuts, pecans, berries, and roots from the wilderness.

The Mississippian Tradition increased the use of river transportation which influenced cultures throughout eastern North America. These people introduced cultivated crops, flat-topped mound construction and the use of shell to temper pottery. As this culture developed, its people became more settled, farming corn, squash, and pinto type beans. Included in the exhibit is an illustration showing the use of a dibble stick being used to plant corn. This method was done at random on a planting site, meaning they did not plant in rows.

In the collection housed at the Ag Museum, related to the story of hunting, we can fast-forward a bit from the Mississippian Tradition to the assemblage of firearms located in the Fitzgerald Collection. The four display cases feature Winchester Carbine rifles, Springfield muzzleloaders, and various shotguns dating from 1880's to 1920's. The Fitzgerald Collection is an amassing of memorabilia composed by Frank Stanley Fitzgerald and his wife, Erva Mae, of Inverness, Mississippi.

The shift from hunting and gathering to agriculture as our food source was a slow process. Today hunting in Mississippi is more of a social activity than a subsistence

one. It is controlled by state law with requirements for hunter education. Regulations include legal shooting hours, restrictions on weapon types and loads, and applications for use of dogs, decoys, bait, and boats. There are management zones, bag limits, and protected species. There are even fashion guidelines! Even so, wildlife management has a direct impact on farmers today. Some species of wildlife cause nuisance situations in livestock areas, ponds, crops, and gardens. I know the deer around my house think we have an open salad bar every spring and summer in the gardens and soybean fields. These animals have a direct impact on crop yield and the livelihood of the producer. From this point of view, the hunter is the farmer's friend.

In my family, we eat what we harvest. Recently, there was a discussion about how to cook a rabbit and need for a hasenpfeffer recipe. If the rabbit could talk, he might say, "Look, Doc. Are you looking for trouble? I'm not a stewing rabbit. I'm a fricasseeing rabbit."

The Ag Museum is located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson and is open Tuesday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. In addition to our gallery and exhibit spaces, the Ag Museum also has room for your event, whether it's a meeting, a wedding or other special event. Make Four Resolutions For Better Gardens in 2014

By Gary R. Bachman
MSU Horticulturist
Coastal Research & Extension Center

As we begin the new year, here is my list of four resolutions to help make your landscape and garden more enjoyable and productive in 2014.

1 - Get those pesky landscape and lawn weeds under control.

Believe it or not, the middle of winter may be the perfect opportunity to do this. Applying pre-emergent herbicides is an easy way to control many annual weeds that will start to germinate in our landscape and lawn early this spring. Always read and follow the label instructions.

Several different compounds will do the job. If you want to stay organic, corn gluten meal is an effective alternative to synthetics. If you are planning on doing any direct seeding of the garden or lawn, pay particular attention to application timing. Pre-emergent herbicides will also block the germination and growth of plants you may be starting in the garden from seed.

2 - If you are not already a member, join your local garden club to learn what everyone is else is doing.

It's never too late to teach an old dog new tricks, especially in the garden and landscape. These clubs usually have guest speakers ranging from members with a particular expertise to local industry professionals. Gardeners are some of the most generous people you will ever meet.

Take the annual training and become a Master Gardener through the MSU Extension Service. You will get to know others with a mutual interest in learning, and you will meet many of MSU's specialists in entomology, plant pathology, weed and soil science, and horticulture.

The MSU Extension Service also provides other opportunities across the state for increasing your horticultural knowledge. Contact your local county Extension office for more information on regional workshops and learning events.

3 - Keep a photo journal of your garden and landscape.

With digital photography, this is not a difficult task, and sharing your accomplishments gets easier every day. Online services allow you to upload pictures and share a link to them with your friends. Or you can take the plunge and post pictures to your Facebook account, letting the whole world enjoy your garden.

4 - Grow a new vegetable this year, something you think you would not like in a million years.

One thing I've noticed about gardeners through the years -- and this includes me -- is that we all have certain ideas of what our vegetables should look like. Break that mold. I'm not saying you have to take a huge leap, but if you like zucchini, try a yellow zucchini like Butterstick or a round variety like Eightball. They have the same great zucchini taste but very different appearances.

Making any kind of New Year's resolution recognizes that we could be doing better. The landscape and garden is no different than any other area of our lives. Try these resolutions I've outlined or make some of your own for a better and more enjoyable landscape and garden in 2014. Happy New Year!

USDA Reminds Producers of Approaching Sales Closing Date For Non-insurable Crops

By Aaron Robinson, Sr.
Public Affairs/Outreach Specialist
USDA-FSA

USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Executive Director, Mike Sullivan, urges producers who want to purchase coverage through the Non-insurable Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) to do so before the sales closing date of the crop. When the sales closing date falls on a weekend or public holiday, applications for coverage filed on the next business day will be considered timely filed. Applications submitted by mail must show a USPS postmark of no later than the next workday.

NAP provides financial assistance to producers of non-insurable crops when low yields/grazing loss, loss of inventory or prevented planting occur due to natural disasters including, but not limited to, drought, freeze, hail, excessive moisture, excessive wind, or hurricanes.

The following crops have NAP application closing dates that are quickly approaching:

1/15/2014 - Broccoli, Cabbage, Greens, Potatoes (except Sweet)

2/01/2014 - Beans, Cantaloupe, Cucumbers, Eggplant, Honeydew Melon, Lettuce, Pecans, Peppers, Radishes, Squash, Tomatoes, Turnips, Watermelons

2/28/2014 - Corn, Cotton, Millet, Okra, Peanuts, Peas, Pumpkins, Rice, Sorghum, Soybeans, Sudex, Sugarcane, Sweet Potatoes

"NAP allows producers to protect their investment by purchasing coverage for non-insurable crops," said Sullivan. "Natural disasters are an unavoidable part of farming and ranching and FSA programs like NAP help producers recover when they experience a loss," added Sullivan.

In order to meet eligibility requirements for NAP, crops must be non-insurable, commercially-produced agricultural commodity crops for which the catastrophic risk protection level of crop insurance is not available.

In the event of a natural disaster, NAP covers the amount of loss greater than 50 percent of the expected production based on the approved yield and reported acreage.

Eligible producers can apply for coverage using form CCC-471, "Application for Coverage." Producers must file the application and pay a service fee by the closing date. The service fee is the lesser of $250 per crop or $750 per producer per administrative county, not to exceed a total of $1,875 for a producer with farming interests in multiple counties.

Limited resource farmers may request a waiver of the service fee at the time the application for coverage is filed. Producers must recertify their limited resource status for each year that a waiver is requested.

For information about FSA programs, visit your county USDA Service Center or go to www.fsa.usda.gov/.

Advertising Guidelines

The Mississippi Market Bulletin is published on the 1st and 15th of each month by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce. The Mississippi Market Bulletin is an important way for the Department to disseminate news and information about issues affecting Mississippi's agriculture industry and the Department's operations.

Through its classified advertising section, the Bulletin provides a forum for Mississippi residents to buy and sell agricultural related items while also giving statewide exposure to small farmers who might not normally have the economic resources for such widespread advertising. The Bulletin does not publish commercial or display ads and all items offered for sale must have been produced, raised, grown or operated on the seller's property. Businesses, corporations, dealerships, brokers or other commercial enterprises are not allowed to advertise in the Mississippi Market Bulletin.

Advertising rules and guidelines have been established for the Mississippi Market Bulletin in order to comply with regulations enforced by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce and to maintain the objectives of the publication. The staff of the Mississippi Market Bulletin reserves the right to edit, revise or reject any advertisement.

The Mississippi Market Bulletin assumes no responsibility for any notice appearing in the Bulletin nor for any transaction resulting from published notices. Advertisers are cautioned that it is against the law to misrepresent any product offered for sale in public notices or advertisements carried in any publication that is delivered by the United States Postal Service.

- In order to advertise in the Mississippi Market Bulletin you must be a subscriber. To place an ad, you must include your name, mailing address and account number that the subscription is listed under on each ad that you submit (this information will not be printed). Each subscriber is allowed to advertise two ads in the Bulletin, listing one ad per category.
- All listings must be agriculture related (raised, grown, produced or operated on your farm). At the top of your ad, write the category that the ad should be listed under. We reserve the right to edit, revise or reject each ad. Please print or type your ad.
- There is a 30-word limit for classified advertisements, this includes: price (on the item you are selling), your city, county and telephone number or name and complete address must be included in the ad if you do not list a telephone number. Ads cannot be held over from one issue to another. You must submit them for each issue.
- Out-of-state residents are not eligible to advertise with the following exceptions: Out-of-state ads are allowed in the "Wanting To Buy" category. Out-of-state ads are allowed for individuals owning farm property within the state that is being offered for sale (consisting of 10 acres or more).

JANUARY 15 ISSUE....DEADLINE MON., DEC. 30, 2013 • 12:00 NOON

FEBRUARY 1 ISSUE.....DEADLINE MON., JAN. 20, 2014 • 12:00 NOON

MSU, 4-H Alum Named National Rodeo Queen

By Linda Breazeale

Paige Nicholson has a new personal illustration to use in speeches about dusting yourself off and getting back on the horse, and she will have many opportunities to use it as she travels the country as the 2014 Miss Rodeo America.

Nicholson, who recently graduated in agricultural information science from Mississippi State University, earned the national crown December 9 in Las Vegas. She was the reigning Miss Rodeo Mississippi.

Deshannon Davis of Meridian, Mississippi's national director for the competition, said the crowd was on the edge of their seats when Nicholson's horse fell during a special run around the arena.

"It's a very scary moment when a horse goes down, but she immediately reassured the crowd that she was OK. Paige just dusted herself off and got back on to finish her run," Davis said. "She really proved her horsemanship skills. We were very proud of the way she handled the fall. The judges really appreciated the recovery."

Competitors for the national title present a speech about their states, answer an impromptu question, and demonstrate their horseback riding skills. Nicholson used Mississippi music for her speech theme.

Davis said this is the third contestant from Mississippi to be in the top 10 since 2010, when Kelli Jackson won the national title. Nicholson shadowed her during her reign as a teen queen.

Nicholson grew up on her family's farm and showed cattle in the Newton County 4-H program. Her love of horses and rodeo activities lead her to pursue the national title to help her promote agriculture in general and the sport of rodeo in particular.

LeAnne Peters, director of communications for the Mississippi Cattlemen's Association, said Nicholson is very proud of her Mississippi roots.

"Her platform is to advocate for agriculture. An additional goal is to reach out to different demographics to bring them into rodeo and develop or expand rodeo's fan base," Peters said.

The official Miss Rodeo America press release reported that Nicholson enjoys horseback riding, team roping, barrel racing, fishing, boating, and working on her family's beef cattle and row-crop farm. She also writes for Cattle Business in Mississippi magazine. She has served as a volunteer for the 4-H horse project, participated in Relay for Life, and assisted as a special-needs horse show instructor.

"Volunteering has allowed me to build connections in several communities in my state," Nicholson said in the press release. "Service fosters camaraderie and fellowship in groups of volunteers while giving hope and support to recipients."

Nicholson is a former intern with the Mississippi Beef Council and Mississippi Cattlemen's Association. She won Miss Dixie National in 2012. While a student at MSU, she was selected as Miss Maroon and White.

Kirk Swortzel, a professor in the Department of Human Sciences, said even as a student, Nicholson was an advocate for agriculture.

"She was active in campus and professional organizations and really blossomed as a student in this program," he said. "Her people skills and ability to communicate about agriculture are her strengths."

New Year's Pasture Resolutions

By David Annis

A new year! Each January we make New Year's resolutions with the best of intentions. Of course, we all promise to eat better and exercise more, but have you ever given any thought to making resolutions about your pastures? Let's plan now to practice better pasture management this year. Assuming a good stand of introduced forage (such as bermudagrass), most of our management decisions for pasture forage production revolve around fertilizer, weed control, and weather.

Most of us would like to spend the smallest amount of money on our pastures and get the greatest return on our investment. Therefore, let me tell you about a great, money saving secret for pasture fertilization: soil-test and fertilize your pastures according to the soil test recommendations. Rank your pastures according to productivity, and spend your fertilizer dollars on the highest yielding pastures first.

For those of you who apply a 17-17-17 or complete fertilizer each year without having a current soil test, you may be spending way too much. Why purchase nutrients if your soil is capable of supplying the necessary nutrients to the plants? Soil tests usually run around $6 per sample, not counting your time and effort.

As an example, if your soil analysis shows adequate potassium and you've been applying a complete fertilizer all these years, you will save money by not applying this nutrient. That money can be spent on other projects around the ranch or farm.

One of the important parts of the soil test is your yield goal. If you provide a soils consultant with a realistic yield goal for your pastures, they can better determine how much fertilizer to recommend. You'll still need Mother Nature to help you out with timely rain and seasonable temperatures, but you will have done everything in your power to stack the odds in your favor. A word of advice on yield goals: If the pasture has never achieved the yield goal that you write down, you most likely will not achieve your goal no matter how much fertilizer or rain you receive..

Weed control in late January and early February is another often overlooked decision point. If you have a problem with thistles in your pastures, consider an application of about one quart per acre of 2,4-D amine formulation while the thistles are still in the rosette stage. When the thistles are in the rosette stage, they can be easily and inexpensively controlled with 2,4-D.

The rosette stage is the vegetative stage of the thistle before it "bolts" or puts up a stem and seed head in the spring. Once the thistles start to bolt, it's all over.

Weather is the most consistently uncertain factor we have in agriculture. We can only say for certain that it will be cold in winter and hot during the summer. Most of us in agriculture are optimists - we believe that we will have an average year with average rainfall. Regardless, you won't get the forage production you expect if you don't have the fertilizer on your pasture when the rain arrives.

In summary, if you haven't had a soil test on a pasture in the past three years, take one. If you have thistles, control them in the very early spring. Finally, have fertilizer on the pasture before the rains come.
