Juicy Watermelons Beat Summer's Heat

By Keri Collins Lewis
MSU Ag Communications

As summer temperatures soar, Mississippi's sweet watermelon crop is satisfying to both growers and consumers.

"Everyone wants watermelon, from the beginning of harvest in June right up until the Fourth of July, when demand peaks for holiday picnics," said Dr. Rick Snyder, Extension Vegetable Specialist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service and Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station. "Mississippi has an ideal climate for many vegetables, and watermelons are one of those that thrive in the heat. They need a steady supply of water, but ideally, the last few days before harvest will be dry so the sugar content will be high.

Wait a minute – watermelons are a vegetable?

Snyder said watermelons could be classified as either a fruit or vegetable, depending on the definition used. They are a fruit because they contain seeds and are the reproductive organs of the plants. They are a vegetable because they are from the cucurbit family; closely related to cucumbers, muskmelons, gourds and squash; and planted and harvested like vegetable crops.

"Watermelons are about 92 percent water, and a lack of water while the melons are filling out will result in misshapen produce, with one bulbous end and one narrow end," Snyder said. "A quality watermelon will be heavy for its size and uniform in shape."

Snyder explained how consumers can tell when a watermelon is ripe.

"You can tune your ear to the watermelons," he said. "I will usually select five watermelons and slap them with my fingers, and I take the one with the lowest pitch – you're looking for a low, hollow sound like it has a big empty stomach. We're looking for a bass, not a soprano."

Gardeners and growers have two more ways to determine ripeness.

"Look at the tendril or curl on the vine closest to the melon that you're checking for maturity," Snyder said. "If that tendril is dry, brown or black, it's an indication that it's ready. If it's green, it is probably not ripe."

"The third test is the ground spot, the part of the watermelon that is in contact with the ground. Roll the watermelon over -- careful not to break the attachment to the vine. If it's still green or greenish yellow, it's not ready. If it's yellow, bright yellow or creamy yellow it's probably ready," Snyder said.

If it is not ready to harvest, Snyder said gardeners should roll it back onto the existing ground spot.

For home gardeners who wish they had planted watermelon, it's not too late, said Wayne Porter, Extension horticulture specialist in Lauderdale County.

"Why not plant some now for Labor Day? Typically you would plant early to mid-April, but it's possible to start now. I recommend the old standard varieties -- 'Jubilee' and 'Crimson Sweet' are still good choices," he said.

The 36th annual Mississippi Watermelon Festival will be July 18 and 19 in Mize, a small town in southwest Smith County, which includes watermelon eating contest, seed spitting contest, and the biggest watermelon contest. It's a time to eat all the watermelon you can handle, compete in watermelon games, contests, great music, and enjoy the warm days of summer. For more festival information contact: Terresa Stewart at 601-733-5647 or the town of Mize at 601-733-2221.

Refreshing Watermelon Recipes

Chunky Watermelon Lemonade

2 cups water
1/3 cup raw sugar – or to taste
2 cups seedless watermelon puree
1 fresh lemon, thinly sliced
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 cups chopped seedless watermelon flesh – optional for the “chunky” element

In a half-gallon pitcher with lid, mix 1 cup of the water with the sugar until sugar is completely dissolved. Stir in the rest of the water, watermelon puree, sliced lemon, lemon juice, and vanilla extract. Stir to mix well and chill thoroughly. For the chunky watermelon lemonade, stir in the 2 cups of chopped watermelon at the end.

Minced Pork and Watermelon Lettuce Wraps

1 pound lean ground pork
1 tablespoon fresh minced garlic
1 tablespoon fresh minced ginger
1 teaspoon soy sauce
1 cup fresh chopped scallions
1 cup Hoisin sauce
1 cup toasted pine nuts
1 cup minced seedless watermelon
8 large Bibb (or iceberg) lettuce wraps

In a heavy, non-stick skillet over high heat brown the pork until well done. Reduce heat to medium and add the garlic, ginger, and soy sauce to the pan. Stir for a few minutes and then add the scallions. Remove from heat and add the Hoisin sauce and pine nuts. Stir to mix well. Fold in the watermelon. Divide among the lettuce leaves, wrap, and serve immediately.

Watermelon Strawberry Mint Salsa

1 cup diced watermelon – seeds removed
3/4 cup diced strawberries
1/4 cup diced red onion
2 tablespoons chopped fresh mint leaves
2 tablespoons diced seeded jalapeno chile
1 tablespoon lime juice
1 teaspoon sugar – optional, to taste

Gently stir together all ingredients in a bowl. Let stand to blend flavors, about 1 hour. For a dynamic combination, serve salsa with Caribbean or jerk seasoned grilled items, or with pretzels or tortilla chips.

Chipotle Maple Citrus Watermelon Wings

Watermelon Glaze
2 cups watermelon puree
Juice from 3 fresh lemons
1 tablespoon lemon zest
1/2 cup maple syrup
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground chipotle pepper – or to taste

Chicken
Chicken wings or drumettes – desired amount
2 cups pineapple juice
1/2 cup soy sauce
1 tablespoon minced fresh ginger
3 cloves minced fresh garlic

For the watermelon glaze, simmer ingredients together in a heavy saucepan for 20 minutes or until sauce is thick; keep sauce warm. Place the chicken in a large zipper lock bag with the rest of the ingredients and seal tightly. Allow the chicken to marinate at least 2 hours or up to 12. Grill until cooked and arrange on a warm platter. Pour the glaze over the chicken and serve immediately.

Watermelon and Peaches Dessert

4 cups watermelon cubes
2 peaches
Juice of 2 lemons
1/8 cup raw or organic white sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 cups vanilla yogurt
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup slivered almonds

In a saucepan over medium heat, melt the butter, and then add almonds to the pan. Stir the almonds until they are toasted and golden. Remove the almonds from the pan onto aluminum foil or heatproof plate to cool. Thinly slice the peaches and place in a bowl with lemon juice. Add the watermelon cubes to the peaches and toss to mix. Combine sugar, cinnamon, and yogurt and pour over the watermelon and peaches. Sprinkle almonds over the top. Serve immediately.

2014 Mississippi Hay Contest

Hay and baleage samples will be evaluated in the following categories:

1. Warm-season Perennial Grass Hay (e.g. bermudagrass and bahiagrass).
2. Mixed, Annual Grass, or Other hay (e.g. clover/tall fescue, clover/annual ryegrass, millet, annual ryegrass, sorghum-sudangrass, sudangrass, crabgrass, tallfescue/bermudagrass, bermudagrass/bahiagrass/dallisgrass).
3. Grass Baleage (high moisture grass forage ensiled in wrapped bales).

Hay entries will be judged using NIR testing procedures by the MSU Forage Quality Lab. The entries will be ranked using the Relative Forage Quality (RFQ) evaluation system, which accounts for protein, energy, and fiber digestibility.

Lab analysis samples must be taken from a single lot of hay and from a minimum of 5-10 randomly sampled square or round bales (total of 20 cores). Forage samples for analysis and contest entry (display) must be collected using a hay probe.

To qualify for entry to the 2014 Mississippi Hay Contest, the producer and submitting Extension Agent must complete the Contest Entry Form. The form along with the hay sample and a $15.00 check made payable to MSU Forage Program, must be submitted simultaneously to:

The Summer Ham

By Lise Foy, Director
MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

This 'ham' has nothing to do with a pig really. It's a Southern summer tradition – particularly on the 4th of July. It's a watermelon - the summer ham!

We had to eat ours in the yard because of the sticky, red, juicy mess we made, and we were instructed to spit the seeds in the driveway because Momma did not want vines all in her flower beds. There was nothing better on a hot summer day than an afternoon of swimming, a break with a slice of watermelon, and then more swimming to wash off the juice.

During the Small Town Country Fair at the Ag Museum on July 5, visitors can enjoy a slice of watermelon (included with admission), participate in a watermelon seed spitting contest, and enter their prize watermelon in the 'Grow the Largest' competition.

The watermelon seed spitting contest will take place at 4:00 p.m. on the lawn in front of the Small Town Cotton Gin. The championship event is open to all ages with five divisions; 4 and under, 5 to 7 years, 8 to 11 years, women's open and men's open. The entry fee is $1.00 per person, and each division winner will receive a gift from the General Store.

Watermelon Seed Spitting Rules:

- Each contestant will select three seeds for entry.
- The longest distance of any one seed spit will be judged as the final score.
- Seed spitting contestants will be divided into 5 divisions for scoring.
- All contestants may run towards the spit-off line or stand on the spit-off line.
- All competition seeds must fall within the designated playing field.

Farmers, gardeners, produce enthusiasts, and back yard horticulturalists are invited to enter the largest watermelon competition. Entries will be received between 1:00 p.m. and 2:00 p.m. in the Education Center located at the main pedestrian entrance to the Ag Museum campus. In addition to the watermelons, we are also looking for the largest tomato. Competitors entering a watermelon or tomato will receive free admission to the event. Winners will be announced by the Honorary Small Town Mayor at 5:00 p.m.

The Small Town Country Fair is part of the LeFleur Museum District first joint event, 'Summertime Wonder Time.' Members of the District, in addition to the Mississippi Agriculture & Forestry Museum, are the Mississippi Children's Museum, the Mississippi Museum of Natural Science, and the Mississippi Sports

Lise Foy with her award winning 30 foot watermelon seed spitting on the lawn of the Historic Canton Courthouse Square during the 2012 season of the Canton Farmers Market.

Hall of Fame and Museum. Tickets to the July 5 joint event activities can be purchased at www.lefleur-museumdistrict.com at a 25 percent discount.

To make a complete weekend, the annual Farm Bureau Insurance Watermelon Classic, the largest 5K Run/Walk in the state, we be held on July 4. Over 165 awards are presented along with ice cold watermelon and beverages. The entry fee for the race, hosted by the Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame, is not included in the joint ticket, but it does offer another opportunity to enjoy a slice of watermelon!

I hold an award in watermelon seed spitting. It was earned on the lawn of the Historic Canton Courthouse Square during the 2012 season of the Canton Farmers Market. The competition was stiff, as I am sure it will be at the Ag Museum on July 5. My winning spit was around 30 feet or so. I challenge you!

Buzz Off: Fly Control Tips and Tricks For Horses

By Laura Scaletti
Southern States Cooperative, Inc.

The temperatures are rising, the days are getting longer, and we all want to spend more time at the barn with our horses. Unfortunately, humans aren't the only ones itching to get out to the barn during this time of year. Flies are getting ready to make your barn their home.

Not only are these insects annoying, but they can spread disease. In order to protect both your horse and barn from fly infestation, it's important to understand the fly life cycle.

Understanding The Fly Life Cycle

While many types of flies can bug your horse during summer, you will most likely be dealing with house flies and stable flies. These thrive around horse barns as they prefer horses and manure for both feeding and breeding locations.

Adult flies typically lay their eggs on fresh manure and moist organic material. Depending on the species, the eggs hatch within 1-3 days and the larvae feeds on the manure where they hatched. After 2-4 weeks in pupa stage, the adult fly emerges ready to bite our horses.

Effective equine fly control is accomplished by using a combination of control methods that target each stage of the life cycle.

Equine Manure Management

Manure piles are fly breeding heaven. Did you know the average 1000 pound horse generates 50 pounds of manure a day? Therefore, proper manure management is essential in the prevention of fly breeding. Getting manure out of the stall as quickly as possible is the first step. You don't want to inadvertently create a fly breeding ground in your horse's stall. So, the more manure removed from the stall the less desirable area for egg deposition. Once you remove the manure, make sure to store it as far away as possible from your barn.

Areas where horses congregate such as water troughs, shady areas, run-in sheds, and gates should be cleaned weekly at a minimum to diminish fly breeding and control parasites. Remember, it's easier and more effective to prevent fly breeding than to control adult flies. So, the quicker you can remove their habitat, the less likely you are to see these pests.

Insect Growth Regulator (IGR)

Another way to break the fly life cycle is through feeding your horse a supplement containing Insect Growth Regulator (IGR).

IGRs work by disrupting the pupa (molting) stage in the fly life cycle. Cyromazine, the active ingredient of Solitude IGR, safely passes through the horse's system and is excreted in the manure. The cyomazine prevents the new exoskeleton from forming properly, causing the insect to die and never reach adulthood.

Although it is nearly impossible to remove all potential fly breeding grounds from your farm, IGRs are a great way to help reduce the fly population. If you are planning on introducing an IGR component to your fly prevention program, all horses on your property should be fed the IGR for maximum effectiveness.

Horse Fly Repellent

There are two types of fly repellent available to protect your horse from adult flies, spray on and feed through. There are a number of fly spray products on the market that can be used to repel and kill flies. Although these products can be pricey, you can use them to meet the fly protection needs of your individual horse.

An alternative to external fly repellent is to feed your horse an internal fly repellent. There are several products out on the market that have been specially developed to deter flies from landing on your horse. Internal fly repellent works by having the horse secrete oils that will repel flies and keep flies from biting.

Horse Fly Spray Systems

A more comprehensive approach to fly repellent is to install an insect control system in your horse barn. The system automatically delivers a fine mist of insecticide at preset intervals throughout your facility. You can design the system to meet the needs and configuration of your barn to ensure that you have nozzles placed strategically over stalls, aisle ways, or wherever you have an insect control problem.

Once the system is installed, it works 24 hours a day giving you peace of mind that regardless of whether or not you are at the barn, you are actively controlling your insect population. These systems are designed to be virtually maintenance free.

Equine Fly Gear

Regardless what fly prevention strategies you put in place, there will most likely always be some bugs around your horse this summer. If you have a horse that is especially sensitive to bug bites, you may want to consider dressing them in equine fly gear.

A horse fly mask can be used to protect the horse's eyes from flies. Flies are attracted to the moisture around horse's eyes as well as goop that comes out of the horse's eyes. A fly mask can help prevent the flies from irritating not only your horse's face, but it can also help reduce the stress level associated with constant bugging by flies.

Fly sheets are another great clothing option for horses while they are turned out. Like fly masks, the tightly weaved material that makes up fly sheets prevents flies from being about to bite the horse through the material.

General Barn Keeping

Now that you have unleashed your fly prevention arsenal, it's important to re-evaluate your daily cleaning and maintenance around your horse barn. Make sure your garbage cans have tight fitting lids, lined with plastic bags. Make sure you sweep out the feed room each day to avoid having spilled feed lying around. Store horse feed in a tightly sealed container or bin that won't let the odors out and will prevent flies from getting in.

There is no single fly control program that can completely eliminate flies from your barn, pasture area, and horse, however using the tips above, understanding basic fly control, and creating a fly management program for your barn, can help reduce the population. Not only are horses happier when there are less flies, but they are healthier too.

Fire Ant Control

By MSU Ag Communications

Fire ants are the most common pests of home lawns in Mississippi. They are not welcome guests! Unknowingly stepping in a fire ant mound can ruin an otherwise pleasant time in the yard.

Fire ant stings are always painful, but, when they occur in large numbers, they can be especially threatening to young children or people suffering from health problems. People vary in their sensitivity to fire ant stings. For the very small portion of people who are hypersensitive to fire ant stings, even a few stings can be life threatening.

Many homeowners view fire ant control as an unattainable goal, and if you try to control fire ants by only treating individual mounds, it is difficult to make much progress. Control one mound and two more pop up in its place. But it is possible to control fire ants without spending too much time or money. The key to successful fire ant control is to use a combination of control methods and to treat preventively.

Baits: Use granular baits as the foundation of your fire ant control effort. Baits work slowly, but they are quite effective. Baits work best when used preventively. If you don't want to have big fire ant mounds in the yard, you have to treat before you have big fire ant mounds in the yard! Broadcast baits over your lawn one to three times per year. Once per year may be enough in urban areas, but you may need to apply baits two to three times per year in rural arreas. Mound Treatments: Use mound treatments to spot treat any mounds that survive the bait treatments. Dry mound treatments are a quick, convenient way to treat fire ant mounds. Keep a can of one of the dry mound treatments handy for mounds you notice while doing lawn chores. Liquid drenches are messier and more time-consuming, but they are the quickest way to control mounds that need to be eliminated immediately.

Broadcast Insecticide Treatments: Broadcast insecticide treatments are contact insecticides that kill fire ants as they travel through treated soil. Some of the granular broadcast insecticides are quite effective and long-lasting. Because they are more expensive than baits, some homeowners use them only on especially sensitive sites and use baits in the rest of the yard.
