2014 Outlook is Mixed for Timber Industry

By Keri Collins Lewis
MSU Ag Communications

Markets for Mississippi's sawtimber and pulpwood are bouncing back from the economic recession, but the industry is not improving across the board.

"Slowly but surely, markets for sawtimber are beginning to grow again after the sharp declines seen after the collapse of the U.S. housing market and the ensuing recession," said James Henderson, associate Extension professor of forestry at Mississippi State University. "But the closing of the International Paper mill in Courtland, Alabama, will have an impact on north Mississippi's pulpwood markets."

Henderson said that in 2013, the Mississippi forest industry harvested and delivered $1.128 billion worth of forest products to mills and other processors.

"This value is determined from a timber severance tax paid by producers and harvesters and reflects the timber harvest delivered to the point of first processing, such as a sawmill or pulpwood yard," he said. "A combination of higher harvest volumes and prices for both pine and hardwood sawlogs and pulpwood resulted in a harvest value that is 10.8 percent higher than in 2012."

New home construction rates continue to rise, which bodes well for Southern pine lumber, Henderson said.

Southwest Mississippi may see an increase in the demand for pine pulpwood and eventually for logging slash and forest residuals, such as pine tops, when production ramps up at the Amite BioEnergy pellet mill in Gloster. Drax Biomass International is building the mill in Amite County to produce wood pellets for a power plant in Great Britain.

Ann Davis, Wilkinson County coordinator for the MSU Extension Service, said about 120 landowners, loggers, and foresters attended an informational meeting about the mill March 24 at the Centreville Civic Center. Rusty Booker, the vice president of procurement for Drax Biomass International, previewed the company's fiber needs and quality standards.

"The timber economy in southwest Mississippi has been struggling for more than a decade, so any new development is going to help," Davis said. "I'm excited to see the mill go in here and the anticipated increase in the area's economy. Most of our residents work outside our county. The mill will open jobs and give our timber industry a closer buyer for their products."

Randy Rousseau, Extension professor and forestry research professor in the MSU Forest and Wildlife Research Center, said the Amite County mill and other pellet mills in the state and Southeast will provide an outlet for the abundant material available in Mississippi.

"Mississippi has nearly 20 million acres of forest land," Rousseau said. "Different pellet mills use different materials, ranging from pine pulpwood and hardwood to secondary wood from the furniture industry."

"The Drax mill wants pine pulpwood, which will help counter some of the downsizing of the pulp and paper market in the United States, as this industry has moved to South America and China," he said.

With a grant from the Mississippi Forestry Commission, Rousseau and his colleagues are working with stakeholder groups to develop biomass best management practices for the state of Mississippi.

Mississippi's timber industry may see increasing demand for Southern pine lumber as new home construction rates continue to rise. This pine was growing in Monroe County on September 12, 2013. (File photo by MSU Ag Communications/Linda Breazeale)

Fruit-Filled Summer Desserts!

Blueberry Pie

- 3/4 cup white sugar
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 4 cups fresh blueberries
- 1 recipe pastry for 9-inch double crust pie
- 1 tablespoon butter

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Mix sugar, cornstarch, salt, and cinnamon, and sprinkle over blueberries. Line pie dish with one pie crust. Pour berry mixture into the crust, and dot with butter. Cut remaining pastry into 1/2 - 3/4 - inch wide strips, and make a lattice top; crimp and flute edges. Bake pie on lower shelf of oven for about 50 minutes, or until crust is golden brown.

Lemon Sorbet

- Peel of one lemon, thinly diced
- 1 cup water
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 1/2 cup carbonated mineral water
- 6 strips of lemon zest, for garnish

In a saucepan, stir together the diced lemon peel, 1 cup of water and sugar. Bring mixture to a boil, reduce heat to medium, and simmer for 5 minutes. Remove from heat, and allow cooling. In a pitcher or bowl, stir together the lemon syrup with peel, lemon juice, and mineral water. Pour into an ice cream maker, and freeze according to the manufacturer's instructions. Garnish each serving with a twist of lemon peel. If you do not have an ice cream maker, you may freeze the mixture in a tall canister. Freeze for 1 1/2 hours; remove and stir with a whisk. Return to the freezer and stir about once every hour for about 4 hours. The more times you stir, the more air will be incorporated, resulting in a lighter finished product.

Grilled Pineapple with Mascarpone Cream

- 1 tablespoon chopped hazelnuts
- 1 lemon, juiced & zested
- 2 8-ounce containers mascarpone cheese
- 3 tablespoons honey
- 8 slices of peeled fresh pineapple, 1/2 -inch thick

Preheat an outdoor grill for medium heat, and lightly oil the grate. Place the hazelnuts into a small saucepan over medium heat, and shake the pan until the nuts turn golden and fragrant, about 3 minutes. Remove from heat, and set aside. Mix the lemon juice, lemon zest, mascarpone cheese, and honey in a bowl until well combined. Grill the pineapple slices on the preheated grill until the slices show brown grill marks and the fruit is hot and juicy, about 3 minutes per side. Serve 2 slices per plate with a generous dollop of sweetened mascarpone cheese and a sprinkling of toasted hazelnuts on each serving.

Single Crust Peach Pie

- 3/4 cup white sugar
- 2 tablespoons butter, softened
- 1/3 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 6 fresh peaches, pitted, skinned, & sliced
- 1 recipe pastry for a 9-inch single crust pie

Cream sugar and butter (or margarine) together. Add flour and nutmeg; mix until mealy. Spread 1/2 of mixture in pie crust. Arrange peaches on top of crumb mixture. Sprinkle remaining crumb mixture on top of peaches. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees, and continue baking for 40 minutes, or until golden brown.

Baron's Blackberry Cobbler

- 1/2 cup white sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 6 cups fresh blackberries
- 1/4 cup melted butter
- 2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 cups white sugar
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups milk
- 1 tablespoon vanilla extract
- 1/4 cup melted butter

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly oil a 9 x 13-inch baking dish. Whisk 1/2 cup sugar with the cornstarch in a small bowl; set aside. Place the blackberries into a mixing bowl, and drizzle with 1/4 cup of melted butter. Sprinkle with the cornstarch mixture, and toss to evenly coat. Spread the berries into the prepared baking dish. In a separate bowl, whisk together the flour, 1 1/2 cups sugar, baking powder, and salt until evenly blended. Stir in the milk, vanilla extract, and 1/4 cup melted butter until combined but still slightly lumpy. Pour the batter over the berries. Bake in the preheated oven until the berries are tender and the crust is golden brown, 55 minutes to an hour.

Strawberry Angel Food

- 1 10-inch angel food cake
- 2 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
- 1 cup white sugar
- 1 8-ounce container frozen whipped topping, thawed
- 1 quart fresh strawberries, sliced
- 1 18-ounce jar strawberry glaze

Crumble cake into a 9 x 13-inch dish. Beat the cream cheese and sugar in a medium bowl until light and fluffy. Fold in whipped topping. Using your hands, gently mash the cake down a bit, and spread the cream mixture over the cake. In a separate bowl, combine strawberries and glaze until strawberries are evenly coated. Spread over cream cheese layer; chill until serving.

An Ocean of Calamine Lotion

By Lise Foy, Director
MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

When I was nine, I wore pink calamine lotion on my legs instead of panty hose for the dance recital because I had poison ivy so bad that the only way to cover it up was just to paint me solid. So Momma did just that!

The Ag Museum Nature Trail is a 300 yard wood trestle trail running through ten acres of trees along a creek bottom that educates visitors on how the environment plays an important role in agriculture. As we enter the last stages of renovating the Ag Museum Nature Trail, we are preparing to install interpretive signs that identify twenty-three tree and plant species growing near the trail. Each sign will list characteristics and uses, wildlife value, and facts about each specimen.

For educational purposes, we have a poison ivy specimen among the trees, located off the trail where you cannot touch it, but close enough to view and learn how to identify it by its clusters of three leaflets. While I personally find no use whatsoever for this particular plant, animals eat the leaves, and birds eat the seeds. Now, that just makes me itch just thinking about it! I am one of the lucky people who experiences a painful itching rash when in contact with the clear liquid compound called urushiol that is secreted in the sap of poison ivy.

The Ag Museum has many exhibits in addition to the Nature Trail that tell the story of the timber industry in Mississippi. Inside the Heritage Center Gallery, visitors are introduced to the virgin forest of Mississippi and the improvements and changes in the logging industry spanning from the late 1800's to today.

Exhibits include artifacts beginning with the pole ax, progressing through the pit saw and sash saw, to the circular saw and band saw. Each innovation made lumber production faster and more efficient by reducing the amount of man power required and the waste created.

The story illustrates the progression of getting harvested timber to the saw mill. In the early days of Mississippi's timber industry, loggers used tools like the mule or horse drawn caralog, which could move one log at a time to the rivers. Logs were floated down stream to the mills. This was followed by the Lindsay log wagon, invented by John Lindsay of Laurel, which could transport many logs at one time, revolutionizing the method of hauling logs from the forest. Then came the development of the railroad which brought Mississippi into its boom in the timber industry.

Near the end of the tour in the gallery, visitors can learn how forest conservation methods including forest fire prevention and reforestation began to emerge through education provided by the Mississippi Forestry Commission which was formed in 1926. Advances of this time period forward include the tree harvester and chain saw. Visitors can also see an exact replica of the fire tower that stood at Shiloh, Mississippi.

Small Town, Mississippi, features a sawmill representative of those that would have been seen across our state at the turn of the last century. It has an operational circular saw and sits on the bank of Eubanks Creek, just as a mill of this era would have to have access to the logs floated downstream from the forest.

Forestry is still very much an important industry in Mississippi, currently the second largest agricultural commodity and a $1.17 billion industry. We are all touched by this resource, from the houses we live in to the paper on which we write. My favorite way to enjoy the timber industry is simply a walk in the woods. Just remember, when you visit the woods this summer and contemplate the forest that has sustained us for generations, beware the leaves of three and let it be!

The Ag Museum is located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson and is open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. In addition to our gallery and exhibit spaces, the Ag Museum also has room for your event, whether it's a meeting, a wedding, or other special event. Call (601) 432-4500 for information.

Mississippi Fair Commission Selects New Executive Director

By Chaille Clements
Communications and
Marketing Specialist - MDAC

Recently, the Mississippi Fair Commission Board and Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce, Cindy Hyde-Smith, announced that Rick Reno will become the new Executive Director of the Mississippi Fair Commission.

Originally from Louisiana, Mr. Reno, who is a Certified Facilities Executive recognized by the International Association of Venue Managers, is an experienced arena and facility manager with over 40 years of experience. He joins the Fair Commission from VenuWorks located in Dodge City, Kansas, where he was the Executive Director. He has also managed at other venues around the country that include facilities in Oregon, North Carolina, Kentucky, and Virginia.

Mr. Reno will be replacing long standing Fair Commission Executive Director, Billy Orr, who has successfully served the State of Mississippi for 27 years in that capacity until his recent retirement. Mr. Orr will work with Mr. Reno in the transition process and will remain on staff as the Public Relations Director for the Mississippi Fair Commission.

"We are excited that Mr. Reno is joining our excellent Fairgrounds staff to continue and expand upon our success at the State Fairgrounds. His vast experience and expertise in facility management will bring an added level of expertise to our agency and, in turn, help us build toward future success. We appreciate all the hard work and success that Billy Orr has provided to the Fairgrounds and look forward to him continuing to assist the Fair Commission in the many outreach activities for Mississippi's citizens, agricultural organizations, and Fairgrounds patrons," said Commissioner Hyde-Smith, who also serves as Chairman of the Mississippi Fair Commission.

The Mississippi Fair Commission oversees the Mississippi State Fairgrounds, a 105 acre facility in downtown Jackson that is home to the Mississippi Coliseum, the Mississippi Trade Mart, the Kirk Fordice Equine Center, the Mississippi State Fair, the Dixie National Livestock Show and Rodeo, and the State of Mississippi's youth and livestock showing arenas.

Commissioner Hyde-Smith Secures Needed Insecticide for Grain Sorghum Producers

By Chaille Clements
Communications and
Marketing Specialist - MDAC

Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Cindy Hyde-Smith announced approval by the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for the use of sulfoxaflor (CAS Reg. No. 946578-00-3) on sorghum in Mississippi. This specific exemption will aid in controlling the sugarcane aphid (Melanaphis sacchari), which is a destructive pest that can cause damage to the grain sorghum crop.

The registered product receiving this exemption is Transform™ WG (EPA Reg. No. 62719-625; 50% sulfoxaflor) and is manufactured by Dow AgroSciences. Expiration for this specific exemption will be October 31, 2014.

The Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce's Bureau of Plant Industry has authority under Section 18 of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act to obtain an exemption from EPA for a non-labeled use of a pesticide if significant losses of an agricultural commodity are likely and if labeled products are not available or effective.

For additional information, producers may contact the Bureau of Plant Industry at (662) 325-3390 or toll-free at 1-888-257-1285.

Lantana Makes a Big Impact in the Summer

By Gary R. Bachman

Because Mississippi landscapes get so hot in the summer, one of my favorite go-to plants is the lantana. This is a great plant that thrives in the heat and humidity of summer, providing consistently bright colors and nonstop blooming through summer and into fall.

Lantana is available in a variety of sizes and colors. While many of the older lantana selections are large landscape plants, I really like the newer selections that have a smaller growth potential. Smaller plants open up an entirely new landscape option for lantana.

I also like lantanas that have a spreading growth habit. They can act as ground covers and are full of nonstop blooms. You can actually use these plants instead of flowering annuals. Once established, lantanas are reasonably drought tolerant, but you will need to water them during dry periods.

Lantana selections have been selected as Mississippi Medallion winners. New Gold lantana was one of the first of these proven landscape winners chosen in 1996. This plant is covered in bright golden-yellow flowers. It is vigorous and low growing with a dense, trailing habit that can reach 1 to 2 feet tall and spread up to 3 feet.

For the last several years, Butter Cream lantana has been a winner in my landscape. Its unique flowers start out bright golden-yellow before the flower edges turn creamy white, and then the entire flower turns white. During the summer, there is a beautiful blend of these sunny flowers on the plant. Butter Cream's low-mounding growth is very similar to that of New Gold lantana.

Plant enthusiasts have suspected that because New Gold, Butter Cream and another lantana called Silver Mound share the exact same growth habit, they have a common ancestor. This suspicion is reinforced by the fact that Butter Cream is a natural mutation -- what is known as a sport -- of Silver Mound lantana.

If you're already a fan of lantanas, you'll probably be happy to learn that a new and exciting small lantana is available this year. Ally Klair, which was developed at a Mississippi nursery, has flower clusters that start out as warm mixtures of yellow and orange-red. As the flowers mature, they transition to possibly the reddest lantana currently available.

Ally Klair lantanas stay a compact 2 feet by 2 feet, making them perfect for smaller spaces. And like all lantanas, the butterflies and hummingbirds just love them.

Plant lantana in full sun for best flowering performance. Make sure landscape beds are well-drained and amended with organic matter. During periods of low rainfall and high temperatures, lantana flower colors will make your landscape pop.

Lantanas are hardy to about 32 degrees and are perennial most years on the coast. A layer of pine straw added as a blanket may provide enough winter protection for them to return in north Mississippi. This year's unusually cold winter exposed a weakness in the lantana in my landscape; it is sensitive to low temperatures when just starting to leaf out.

For those that survived the winter, cut them back hard in early spring to about 4 to 6 inches to make room for the new growth. Prune lightly through the summer to help maintain the plant's size and tidiness and to stimulate more flowering and a bushier structure. Fertilize once a week with a water-soluble fertilizer to maintain flowering potential.
