Desire for Truck Crops Keeps Demand on Rise

By Susan Collins-Smith
MSU Ag Communications

Locally grown produce continues to increase in popularity on Mississippi's kitchen counters, grocery shelves, and restaurant menus as consumers seek fresher fruits and vegetables.

To get them, they often turn to the state's truck crops growers, who traditionally sold their specialty items, such as tomatoes, berries, nuts, and sweet corn, from the beds of their pickup trucks.

"People want to buy from a local source, whether they buy straight from the farmer or get it through their grocer," said Jeremy Maness, Smith County Extension Service agriculture agent with Mississippi

State University. "My growers have definitely seen an increase in individuals coming to their farms to buy produce. Restaurants and grocery stores, including Wal-Mart and Kroger, also buy from farmers in my area."

In 2013, these specialty crops, which include nursery crops, made up about 2 percent of the state's agriculture industry, according to MSU statistics. Fruits, vegetables, nursery crops, and nuts, including pecans, were valued at an estimated $118.2 million in the same year. This figure excludes sweet potatoes, which is recorded separately, said Alba Collart, Extension agricultural economist and assistant professor in the MSU Department of Agricultural Economics. Because harvest is ongoing, data for 2014 is not yet available.

Mississippi truck crops farmers concentrate on spring and summer produce rather than fall crops. The state's hot summers require vigilant care and regular rains to grow good quality fall produce on a large scale.

However, pecans and Satsuma oranges are popular fall items that grow well in Mississippi.

"Pecans are by far the most prevalent fall crop in the state," said Eric Stafne, Extension fruit crops specialist. "From all indications, I think the crop will produce at an average rate this year."

The increased interest in locally grown produce in the last 10 years is driven by several factors, said David Nagel, Extension horticulture specialist. These include national health recalls of produce, anxiety over pesticides, a struggling economy with fewer jobs, and a strong effort by the MSU Extension Service and the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce to develop farmers markets and create a beneficial environment for growers and consumers.

This has created plenty of room for more growers in the market, and it takes many growers to sustain farmers markets. Nagel encourages interested individuals to do in-depth research before growing for or starting a farmers market.

"Each location is unique, and some vegetables sell very well in some locations and not at all in others," he said. "Some crops, such as tomatoes, peaches, and sweet corn, are always in demand in most locations. But others, such as green butter beans, have a smaller share of the market."

"New growers should understand what consumers want and decide if there are demands not being met. Some locations have a high demand for eggplant. Some have high demand for Asian vegetables, and others have a high demand for blackberries," he said.

Cooper Farms, located in Scott County, offered a variety of colorful peppers at the Mississippi Farmers Market on High Street in Jackson, Mississippi, August 5, 2014. Commissioner Hyde-Smith Announces School Garden Grant Program

By Susan Head
Marketing Specialist - MDAC

Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce, Cindy Hyde-Smith, announced that the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce (MDAC) will be taking applications for a new school garden grant program, Growing Lunch.

Growing Lunch seeks to enhance the Farm to School effort across the state. Farm to School provides locally-grown produce to the state's schools and also seeks to educate students on agriculture.

Eligible schools can receive a grant up to $500 to purchase supplies needed to develop a school garden. All schools, grades K-12, in the State of Mississippi are eligible to apply. Schools that already have a school garden may apply for funds to further enhance their school garden. It is encouraged that schools applying have support from their local extension office or Master Gardeners. This program is on a first come, first serve basis. Only one grant can be awarded per school.

This program will act as an educational tool to enhance the knowledge of school-aged children on agriculture, healthy eating, and how food arrives on their plate three times a day. MDAC has designated a website for those interested in the Farm to School Program and educational resources and materials for Farm to School Week, [\[schoolweek.org\]\(http://www.schoolweek.org\).](http://www.farmto-<div data-bbox=)

Growing Lunch is funded through the Specialty Crop Block Grant Program through the United States Department of Agriculture. For additional information, you may visit <http://www.mdac.ms.gov/departments/marketing/lunchgarden.htm>, contact Susan Head at (601) 359-1196, or email susan@mdac.ms.gov.

Figs!

Fig Preserves

- 16 cups fresh figs
- 1 tablespoon baking soda
- 12 cups boiling water
- 8 cups white sugar
- 4 cups water
- 1 lemon, sliced

In a large mixing bowl place figs and sprinkle with baking soda. Pour the boiling water over the figs and soak for 1 hour. Drain the figs and rinse thoroughly with cold water. In a large Dutch oven combine the sugar and the 4 cups water; bring to a boil and cook for 10 minutes. Add the figs and lemon slices to the syrup in the Dutch oven and cook for 1 hour, stirring occasionally. Spoon figs into hot, sterilized jars and spoon syrup over figs, leaving 1/2-inch of head space. Top jars with lids and screw bands on tightly. Process for 10 minutes in a hot water bath.

Fresh Fig Cake

- 1/4 cup butter, softened
- 1 cup white sugar
- 1 egg
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 cup evaporated milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1/4 teaspoon almond extract
- 1 cup chopped fresh figs
- 1/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 1/4 cup water
- 2 cups chopped fresh figs
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Preheat oven to 350° F. Spray two 8-inch round cake pans with vegetable oil spray. In a medium bowl, sift together flour, salt and baking powder; set aside. In a large mixing bowl, cream butter with the sugar until fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add flour mixture alternately with the evaporated milk. Fold in vanilla and almond extracts and 1 cup chopped figs. Divide into the two cake pans. Bake at 350° for 30 minutes, or until a toothpick inserted into the center comes out dry. To make the filling: In a saucepan, combine 2 cups figs, brown sugar, water and lemon juice. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat to a simmer and cook until thickened, about 20 minutes. Spread thinly between layers of cake and on top.

Fig Smoothie

- 2 frozen bananas, peeled & chopped
- 6 fresh figs, halved
- 3/4 cup milk
- 3/4 cup orange juice

Place the bananas, figs, milk, and orange juice into a blender. Cover, and puree until smooth. Pour into glasses and serve.

Orange, Fig, and Gorgonzola Salad

- 2 heads romaine lettuce, chopped
- 2 oranges, peeled, with pith removed & cut into segments
- 1/2 cup crumbled Gorgonzola cheese
- 2 fresh figs cut into 1-inch cubes
- 1/4 cup your favorite vinaigrette dressing, or to taste

Combine lettuce, oranges, Gorgonzola cheese, and figs in a large bowl. Drizzle dressing over salad and toss to coat.

Citrus Grilled Pork Fillet
with Mint Fig Sauce

- 1 cup orange juice
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 6 6-ounce boneless pork loin chops
- 6 slices Applewood smoked bacon
- 6 fresh figs
- 1 cup fresh mint leaves
- 1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 tablespoon honey
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1 pinch salt and pepper to taste

Whisk together 1 cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons olive oil, and the minced garlic in a bowl; pour into a resealable plastic bag. Add the pork chops, coat with the marinade, squeeze out excess air, and seal the bag. Marinate chops in the refrigerator for at least 8 hours. Place the figs and mint leaves into a blender, and blend until pureed. Add the balsamic vinegar, 3 tablespoons olive oil, honey, and 1/2 cup orange juice to the blender, and puree until smooth and thick. Season the mixture with salt and pepper to taste; set aside. Preheat an outdoor grill for medium-high heat, and lightly oil the grate. Remove the pork from the marinade; discard the remaining marinade. Wrap each pork chop with a slice of bacon, securing with toothpicks as necessary; season with salt and pepper. Grill the pork chops until the pork is no longer pink in the center, about 5 minutes per side; remove toothpicks from chops. An instant-read thermometer inserted into the center should read 145°. Pour the mint-fig sauce over the pork chops to serve.

This timber report contains aggregated individual timber sale stumpage data. Many variables, such as raw material demand, mill inventories, buyer competition, quality, topography and weather, play key roles in determining local prices. Pine Sawtimber prices are based upon a 14-inch Diameter-at-Breast-Height (DBH) log size. Pine Chip N Saw prices are based upon a 10-inch DBH log size. The stumpage prices shown here are reprinted with permission from the Timber Owner Market Guide; a bi-monthly publication of Forest2Market (www.forest2market.com).

2014 Mississippi Hay Contest

Hay and baleage samples will be evaluated in the following categories:

1. Warm-season Perennial Grass Hay (e.g. bermudagrass and bahiagrass).
2. Mixed, Annual Grass, or Other hay (e.g. clover/tall fescue, clover/annual ryegrass, millet, annual ryegrass, sorghum-sudangrass, sudangrass, crabgrass, tallfescue/bermudagrass, bermudagrass/bahiagrass/dallisgrass).
3. Grass Baleage (high moisture grass forage ensiled in wrapped bales).

Hay entries will be judged using NIR testing procedures by the MSU Forage Quality Lab. The entries will be ranked using the Relative Forage Quality (RFQ) evaluation system, which accounts for protein, energy, and fiber digestibility.

Lab analysis samples must be taken from a single lot of hay and from a minimum of 5-10 randomly sampled square or round bales (total of 20 cores). Forage samples for analysis and contest entry (display) must be collected using a hay probe.

To qualify for entry to the 2014 Mississippi Hay Contest, the producer and submitting Extension Agent must complete the Contest Entry Form. The form along with the hay sample and a $15.00 check made payable to MSU Forage Program, must be submitted simultaneously to:

Mississippi Hay Contest
Forage Extension Program
32 Creelman St., P.O. Box 9555
Mississippi State, MS 39762

All entries must be postmarked or received by the MSU Forage Quality Lab by: 5:00 p.m. on Friday, October 3, 2014.

Form and complete contest rules can also be downloaded from the MSUCares website at:

Avenue of Magnolias

Memorials & Honorariums

For over 40 years, thousands of Mississippians have participated in the Keep Mississippi Beautiful "Avenue of Magnolias" Program. Through their contributions, they have honored or remembered someone dear with a beautiful magnolia tree to be enjoyed and appreciated for many years to come. Founded in 1961, Keep Mississippi Beautiful is a non-profit organization made up of a cross section of concerned citizens dedicated to making Mississippi a more beautiful state for residents and visitors to enjoy. Keep Mississippi Beautiful's major project is the "Avenue of Magnolias", which calls for planting at strategic locations leading into Mississippi of the Magnolia Grandiflora, the state tree and flower.

Funding for the Avenue of Magnolias is through private contributions. A twenty-five dollar ($25) contribution will dedicate a specific newly-planted tree in honor or memory of your designee. Your contributions will not only help you take part in keeping Mississippi beautiful, but also to remember someone you love and respect. A permanent record of each contribution will be on display in Mississippi Department of Archives and History. Don't hesitate. Contribute toward planting a tree for someone you love today. You can contribute to the "Avenue of Magnolias" by completing and mailing the attached form. Thank you for your help in making Mississippi a more beautiful state in which to live and travel.

Advertising Guidelines

The Mississippi Market Bulletin is published on the 1st and 15th of each month by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce. The Mississippi Market Bulletin is an important way for the Department to disseminate news and information about issues affecting Mississippi's agriculture industry and the Department's operations.

Through its classified advertising section, the Bulletin provides a forum for Mississippi residents to buy and sell agricultural related items while also giving statewide exposure to small farmers who might not normally have the economic resources for such widespread advertising. The Bulletin does not publish commercial or display ads and all items offered for sale must have been produced, raised, grown or operated on the seller's property. Businesses, corporations, dealerships, brokers or other commercial enterprises are not allowed to advertise in the Mississippi Market Bulletin.

Advertising rules and guidelines have been established for the Mississippi Market Bulletin in order to comply with regulations enforced by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce and to maintain the objectives of the publication. The staff of the Mississippi Market Bulletin reserves the right to edit, revise or reject any advertisement.

The Mississippi Market Bulletin assumes no responsibility for any notice appearing in the Bulletin nor for any transaction resulting from published notices. Advertisers are cautioned that it is against the law to misrepresent any product offered for sale in public notices or advertisements carried in any publication that is delivered by the United States Postal Service.

- In order to advertise in the Mississippi Market Bulletin you must be a subscriber. To place an ad, you must include your name, mailing address and account number that the subscription is listed under on each ad that you submit (this information will not be printed). Each subscriber is allowed to advertise two ads in the Bulletin, listing one ad per category.
- All listings must be agriculture related (raised, grown, produced or operated on your farm). At the top of your ad, write the category that the ad should be listed under. We reserve the right to edit, revise or reject each ad. Please print or type your ad.
- There is a 30-word limit for classified advertisements, this includes: price (on the item you are selling), your city, county and telephone number or name and complete address must be included in the ad if you do not list a telephone number. Ads cannot be held over from one issue to another. You must submit them for each issue.
- Out-of-state residents are not eligible to advertise with the following exceptions: Out-of-state ads are allowed in the "Wanting To Buy" category. Out-of-state ads are allowed for individuals owning farm property within the state that is being offered for sale (consisting of 10 acres or more).

Advertising Deadline Dates

SEPTEMBER 15 ISSUE....DEADLINE TUE., SEPT. 2, 2014 • 12:00 NOON

OCTOBER 1 ISSUE.....DEADLINE MON., SEPT. 15, 2014 • 12:00 NOON

You must submit your ad for each issue. We do not hold ads over for multiple insertion.

Advertisement Submission Form

In order to advertise you must be a subscriber.

All classified ads must be 30 words or less.

We cannot run items for sale without a price.

Peaches, Pears, Plums, and Figs

By Lise Foy, Director
MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

Late summer was the time my Mamaw would be picking peaches, plums, and pears from her back yard orchard. I remember fondly helping her gather every fruit with care into an apron or dishpan, even the ones the birds had pecked or the worms had found. We would bring them into her kitchen and wash and peel and sort through any usable bite. This process was a favorite activity for me at Mamaw's house. Fresh peaches were (and are) my absolute favorite thing, and were hers too. We probably ate every other bite as we went.

Then we would do one of several things with the fruit. Some would be frozen, some canned, some dried, and sometimes made into a cobbler, jelly, or preserves. The ones to be dried for fried pies were placed on a sheet of tin on two saw horses in her front yard. This point was interesting because my Mamaw lived in town and her front yard was right on the street, but that was the best sun. I guess the neighbors didn't really mind because they all did similar things with their backyard bounty. Her neighborhood was full of people who came from the farm growing up.

There are many things at the Ag Museum that bring this memory to life for me.

The Fortenberry-Parkman Farmstead exhibit is laid out just as the farm was in its original location in Jefferson Davis County. It includes a small orchard with peach, pear, plum, and fig trees. These were an important part of the farm and 'grocery' production for the family. Since the trees produce more of a crop than can be eaten fresh, the fruit would be preserved in one or more of the methods similar to the list previously described. Preservation of food grown in the summer was essential to having enough to make it through the winter.

In 1858, an inventor and tin smith from New York City, John L. Mason, invented the mason jar. He invented a machine that could cut threads into lids, which made it practical to manufacture a jar with a reusable, screw-on, lid. The product was a glass container with a thread molded into its top and a zinc lid with a rubber ring. The rubber created the seal, and the threaded lid maintained it. Other companies like Atlas, Ball and Kerr followed. The history and improvements made to canning jars over the years is fascinating. If you have old jars, you might find the information located on the following site about how to date your jars interesting. <http://www.pickyourown.org/canningjars.htm>. The General Store at the Ag Museum displays a variety of antique home canning jars and supplies that would have been needed for the process.

During a visit to the Ag Museum, visitors can also view the kitchen attached to the main house of the Farmstead. They will see a wood burning stove. The Fortenberry-Parkman family occupied this house and used this kitchen from 1860-1960. I would speculate that the ladies of the house used that stove to preserve food in canning jars.

The first pressure cooker patents in the United States were granted in 1902. In 1915, the term "pressure cooker" first appeared in print and National Presto installed an aluminum foundry for the specific purpose of manufacturing large-size pressure canners for home use and thrifty housewives everywhere wanted one. In 1917, the United States Department of Agriculture determined that pressure canning was the only safe method of canning low-acid foods without risking food poisoning. Pressure canners were in widespread use since refrigeration was mostly non-existent at that time and canning was the main method of preserving food.

Home canning and food preservation is making a comeback. I believe this is a direct correlation to the returning interest in kitchen gardens and the desire to consume locally grown produce.

There is a whole science to home canning. There are different recommendations for different methods and different foods. I enjoy the practice myself and have made many jars of jelly, preserves, salsa, and pickles. It is important to follow the recipe and use the recommendations and guidelines from a reputable source like the Mississippi State University Extension Service. In other words, kids if you plan to try this at home, do your homework first.

We will be planting a few fruit trees at my house this fall so my girls and I can gather the fruit in our aprons and dishpans and carry on the tradition of making homemade jelly and peach cobbler.

My Family's Fruit Cobbler Recipe

1 stick butter
1 c. self-rising flour
2 c. sugar
1 c. milk
4 c. fresh peach slices (blackberries or blueberries)

Melt butter in 9x13 baking dish. Mix 1 cup sugar, flour, and milk. Pour into baking dish over butter. Don't mix. Bring remaining 1 cup sugar and peach slices to a boil over high heat, stirring constantly; pour over batter. Don't mix. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Serve with ice cream.

The Ag Museum is located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson and is open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. In addition to our gallery and exhibit spaces, the Ag Museum also has room for your event, whether it's a meeting, a wedding, or other special event. MSU Wild Hog Research Needs Foresters, Farmers

By Marina Denny
MSU Department of Wildlife,
Fisheries and Aquaculture

Mississippi State University scientists are conducting research to determine the economic impact of wild hog damage to agriculture in Mississippi.

Bronson Strickland and Jessica Tegt, Extension wildlife biologists in the university's Forest and Wildlife Research Center, are asking farmers and foresters to participate in the study.

Participants will be interviewed on any wild hog impact on their operations. Researchers also hope to conduct field surveys on some farms to determine the physical extent of wild hog damage and to identify surrounding landscape features that may promote or hinder wild hog access to fields.

While Mississippi farmers and foresters face many challenges, wild hogs cause particularly extensive damage to the agricultural landscape. Currently, the national economic impact of wild hog control and damage on public and private property is conservatively estimated at $1.5 billion annually.

Researchers want the outcome of this study to benefit Mississippi farmers, foresters, and other agricultural producers by shedding light on the extent of damage caused by wild hogs to land, crops, equipment, and ultimately, production and profitability.

In the long run, researchers want to help lawmakers, land managers, and agricultural producers develop tools to accurately evaluate wild hog damage and mitigate losses through better management practices.

MSU and the Land, Water, and Timber Board funded this study, which is conducted through the university's Center for Resolving Human-Wildlife Conflicts.

Farmers and foresters interested in taking part in the study or those who have questions may contact Marina Denny with the MSU Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Aquaculture at mdenny@cfr.msstate.edu or 662-325-4722.
