2012 Looks Ideal For Mississippi Peanuts

By Linda Breazeale
MSU Ag Communications

Mississippi peanut producers should have a wonderful feeling about the 2012 crop as almost everything is going their way – including buyers from Oklahoma.

Mike Howell, state peanut specialist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service, said many of the factors favoring Mississippi's crop this year started last year.

"The 2011 drought in Texas reduced the amount of peanuts on the national market. That helped prices at harvest time, and prices are still very good. Mississippi fields led the nation in yield, with 4,200 pounds per acre last year," he said. "A shortage of peanuts going into this season will make for another year of great prices as consumer demand remains strong."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's prospective plantings report, released March 30, predicted a 233 percent increase in Mississippi's peanut acreage. The state will have about 50,000 acres, compared to 15,000 acres last year. Peanuts are a popular crop to rotate with cotton and corn.

Howell said the planting has gone well this spring. Attention will soon turn from planting issues to disease concerns.

"By the middle of May, peanuts were about 90 percent planted, and some fields were approaching time for their first fungicide application," he said. "The crop is right on time or a little early in some areas."

Coahoma County Extension Director Don Respass said Delta growers plunged enthusiastically into peanuts this year with close to 10,000 new peanut acres in Coahoma, Panola, and Tunica counties. He said 15 to 20 growers are investing in peanuts, and more might have if equipment had been available.

"The benefit as a rotation crop is one reason growers planted peanuts, but the biggest draw is the price. Cash flow looks great," Respass said.

"Obviously, for those just getting into this crop, this is a big investment for years to come and not just for one season."

Another sign that peanuts are here to stay is a new buying point under construction in Clarksdale by an Oklahoma company.

Malcolm Broome, Executive Director of the Mississippi Peanut Growers Association, said the Texas shortage is bringing more peanut buyers to the state. Prices have reflected the crops' popularity with consumers.

"Normally, peanuts run $400 to $500 per ton, but they have been running as high as $750 per ton recently," Broome said. "They went as high as $1,000 per ton at the end of last year when the Texas yields were low."

While that price could look enticing, Broome said the start-up cost for new growers can be a major deterrent.

"Growers need at least 300 acres of peanuts to justify the equipment investment," he said. "Hiring a custom harvester is not an option because timing is critical at harvest time. Buying a planter, digger, combine, and peanut buggy can tie up a million dollars real quick."

Broome said after the equipment expense is recovered, the cost of production is about $500 per acre, compared to $350 just a few years ago. Mississippi peanut fields average yields of 3,000 to 4,000 pounds per acre.

Fungicide applications are another big part of the growing expense because the crop needs six to eight sprayings to control diseases throughout the growing season.

Peanuts are the original "Health Nut." They contain B vitamins, protein, Vitamin E, fiber, and essential minerals. They do not contain cholesterol.

USDA and Partners to Invest Nearly $32 Million in Mississippi River Basin

By Janice Griffis
Special Assistant
Office of External &
Intergovernmental Affairs - USDA

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack announced that USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) and its partners will invest nearly $32 million this year in financial and technical assistance for five water quality and wetlands improvement projects in seven Mississippi River Basin states. When fully implemented, the projects will prevent sediment and nutrients from entering waterways, decrease flooding and improve bird and fish habitat. NRCS estimates that this investment will restore 11,400 acres to wetland habitat.

"These projects are great examples of USDA working with partners to improve water quality in the Mississippi River Basin," Vilsack said. "Through these projects, agricultural producers are voluntarily taking action to restore and protect wetlands on private lands in watersheds that USDA has identified as being critical to water quality restoration in the basin."

Landowners interested in applying for funding should contact their local NRCS office (<http://go.usa.gov/m2Y>) or the partner listed below. Signup dates may vary based on the individual project.

NRCS provides funding for these new projects through its Wetlands Reserve Enhancement Program (WREP), part of the agency's Wetlands Reserve Program. Since 2010, NRCS has formalized WREP agreements under MRBI with 47 landowners in the Mississippi River Basin, investing $17.8 million in long-term conservation easements and wetland restoration projects. Learn more about the WREP at <http://go.usa.gov/m24> and find out about other NRCS programs and initiatives at <http://go.usa.gov/m22>.

NRCS is celebrating the 20th anniversary of WRP this year. More than 11,000 of America's private landowners have voluntarily enrolled over 2.3 million acres into the WRP. The cumulative benefits of these wetlands reach well beyond their boundaries to improve watershed health, the vitality of agricultural lands and the aesthetics and economies of local communities. Visit the WRP web page at <http://go.usa.gov/Vkc>.

USDA works with state and local governments and private landowners to conserve and protect our nation's natural resources – helping preserve our land, and clean our air and water. President Obama launched the America's Great Outdoors initiative in 2010 to foster a 21st century approach to conservation that is designed by and accomplished in partnership with the American people. During the past two years, USDA's conservation agencies—the Natural Resources Conservation Service, the U.S. Forest Service, and the Farm Service Agency—have delivered technical assistance and implemented restoration practices on public and private lands. We are working to better target conservation investments: embracing locally driven conservation and entering partnerships that focus on large, landscape-scale conservation.

Tractor Supply Awards FFA Chapter Winners For Mississippi Market Bulletin Fundraiser

By Claude Nash, Editor
Mississippi Market Bulletin

This past March 2012, Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Cindy Hyde-Smith launched a fundraiser campaign with the Mississippi Future Farmers of America Association to sell subscriptions to the Mississippi Market Bulletin and to help raise money for local FFA Chapters. This fundraiser was made possible through a partnership of the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce, Mississippi FFA, and Tractor Supply Company.

Due to their strong support of the FFA, Tractor Supply Company awarded the top-three FFA Chapters who sold the most subscriptions with gift cards totaling $1,000 to Tractor Supply Company, and the top salesperson received a $100 gift card to Tractor Supply Company.

With these gift cards from Tractor Supply Company and the wide selection of merchandise they have to offer, the FFA Chapter winners will be able to purchase items for their shops, greenhouses, livestock projects, classrooms, and more.

The winners for the Mississippi Market Bulletin fundraiser were announced at the Mississippi FFA Association annual state convention held on June 5, 2012, on the campus of Mississippi State University in Starkville, Mississippi. The winners of the top-three FFA Chapters were:

First Place $500 Gift Card
Loyd Star FFA Chapter

Second Place $300 Gift Card
Puckett FFA Chapter

Third Place $200 Gift Card
Clarkdale FFA Chapter

Top Salesperson $100 Gift Card
Austin Smith, Loyd Star FFA Chapter

Through the efforts of these hard-working FFA students, 11 FFA Chapters participated in the fundraiser selling 83 subscriptions to the Mississippi Market Bulletin, accounting for a total of $1,270. Our thanks to Tractor Supply Company and the Mississippi FFA Association for making this possible and congratulations go to all the winners. We highly commend those who did such a great job to help promote the Mississippi Market Bulletin.

Commissioner of Agriculture Cindy Hyde-Smith stated, "We appreciate the efforts of the FFA Chapters that participated in the Mississippi Market Bulletin Fundraiser. This fundraiser not only allowed us to get our great publication into the hands of more readers, it gave the local FFA Chapters a chance to compete for gift cards that can be used to purchase much needed items for the classroom and their program activities. Our Agency is also very appreciative of Tractor Supply Company's willingness to donate gift cards to award the top sellers. Without this incentive, the fundraiser would not have been so successful."

Sonny Vincent Receives Top Cop Award

By Robert Jordan, Director
Mississippi Agricultural and Livestock Theft Bureau

Since 1961, May 15th has been designated Police Officer Memorial Day. It is a day set aside to remember and honor fallen police officers. Since that time, events surrounding the memorial date have grown to take up the entire week surrounding May 15, which was May 13-19 this year.

During that week, many people in the United States and Mississippi paid tribute to officers who lost their lives or were injured in their jobs. According to Concerns of Police Survivors, about 140-160 officers are killed in the line of duty each year and their families and co-workers are left to cope with the tragic loss. According to the Officer Down Memorial Page web site, there have been 46 line of duty deaths this year which is down 50% from the same time last year in 2011 when there were 173 line of duty deaths.

One way officers are recognized during that special week is the blue ribbon. It is symbolic of showing support for police officers. Seeing one tied around a tree or mailbox reminds officers they are appreciated and supported. It also lets them know they do not have to suffer alone when a fellow officer falls. The community mourns with them.

On May 15, the Mississippi Center for Police and Sheriffs, the Central Mississippi Crime Stoppers Board, along with many private supporters, teamed with Jackson metro and state law enforcement agencies to memorialize and honor those who have lost their lives in the line of duty and honor those who serve today.

During a luncheon held at the Mississippi Trademart, many area and state agencies named their "Top Cop." The Mississippi Agricultural and Livestock Theft Bureau named Investigator Sonny Vincent as its officer of the year. Vincent has served with the Agricultural Theft Bureau since 2000 and has a combined 28 years of experience in law enforcement. Vincent is responsible for investigating agricultural-related crimes in the Agency's District 6 which consists of nine counties in East Central Mississippi.

Vincent credits his success in law enforcement to his close working relationships with the numerous agencies in his district and beyond. Vincent states "that without the assistance of those other agencies, I would not have had the success that I have had."
