Fewer Acres Planted ... State's Rice Crop Posts Strong Yields

By Bonnie Coblentz
MSU Ag Communications

The bright spot for Mississippi's smaller-than-normal rice crop is that it is looking good at harvest, thanks to an early start and a favorable growing season.

Nathan Buehring, rice specialist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service, said most of the state's rice was planted by mid-April, putting it about two weeks ahead of schedule.

"Everything so far looks good," Buehring said. "This is one of the earliest planted crops we have ever had, and we'll be heavy into harvest by the middle of August."

The state has just 135,000 acres of rice in 2012, down from about 160,000 acres in 2011. In recent years, state growers have typically planted about 200,000 acres of rice.

"Higher corn and soybean prices and low rice prices have reduced the acres to where they are now," Buehring said.

The state averages yields of 154 bushels an acre, and preliminary yields to date have been good to excellent, he said. The U.S. Department of Agriculture rates 54 percent of the crop as good and 24 percent as excellent.

Rice has been a good rotational crop on heavy clay soils that do not drain quickly, but this year's low prices are causing growers to consider other options.

"Many growers in a soybean-rice rotation are sticking with soybeans another year, and some planted corn on the heavier ground," Buehring said.

Some producers with silt loam or sandier soils opted to grow corn or soybeans.

"We're losing acres with the price structure of the other competitive crops," Buehring said.

Drought is not a big issue with rice as the fields are kept flooded from four to six weeks after planting to about two weeks before harvest. High temperatures can cause pollination problems.

"Nighttime temperatures during pollination cooled off to the low 70s even though it was in the 100s during the day," Buehring said. "We haven't had the heat sterility problems that we've had the last few years."

Insect and disease pressures were light, and producers are hoping for mostly sunny skies over the next few weeks to get the crop harvested.

Lester Stephens, Extension agronomic crops agent in Washington County, said his county is No. 2 in the state in rice production behind Bolivar County. Rice is down this year to about 14,000 acres, where in the past growers have planted as many as 50,000 acres of this crop.

"We'll probably have even fewer rice acres next year because the price of soybeans makes it a more desirable crop than rice," Stephens said.

He said the crop looks great this

"The Mississippi Delta and southeast Arkansas are in an isolated part of the country this year," Stephens said. "We have great crops, and not everybody else does."

John Michael Riley, Extension agricultural economist, said cash prices for milled long grain rice are about $25 per hundredweight. September futures for unmilled rice are trading at $15.70 per hundredweight, closely tracking 2011 levels.

"Arkansas is the nation's largest rice producer, and the state is getting hit pretty hard with drought," Riley said. "Prices have started to creep higher, adding about $1.50 to $2 per hundredweight since early June. This is largely due to the increase in other cereal grain prices -- like corn -- since rice can be substituted into diets to replace these other starches."

Market prices may change once harvest begins in earnest and actual yields are known, Riley said.

HARVEST PERMITS

As we enter the harvest season for many different crops, the Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) reminds everyone to have their Harvest Permits for hauling agricultural products.

Harvest Permits entitle a vehicle to haul sand, gravel, fill dirt, agricultural products, or unprocessed forestry products at an authorized maximum gross weight NOT to exceed 84,000 pounds.

The permits are not valid on Interstate Highways or low weight roads. Any vehicle weighed in excess of 80,000 pounds on an Interstate Highway will be penalized $0.05 per pound for all weight in excess of 80,000 and $0.15 per pound for all weight in excess of 100,000 pounds. The cost for a Harvest Permit is $25.

For more information on Harvest Permits see page 39 or contact MDOT at 1-800-844-9309 or www.gomdot.com

Rice...The Foundation for Healthier Eating

PUMPKIN AND RICE SOUP

1 medium onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
4 cups chicken broth
1 16-ounce can pumpkin
1/2 to 1 cup finely grated pumpkin* (optional)
1/2 teaspoon ground coriander
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon red pepper flakes
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
3 cups hot cooked rice
Cilantro sprigs for garnish

Cook onion and garlic in oil in large saucepan or Dutch oven over medium heat until onion is tender. Stir in broth, pumpkin, fresh pumpkin, coriander, pepper flakes, and nutmeg. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat; simmer, uncovered, 5 to 10 minutes. Top each serving with 1/2 cup rice. Garnish with cilantro sprigs. Note: *Substitute fresh acorn, butternut, hubbard, or other winter squash for fresh pumpkin, if desired.

ASPARAGUS RISOTTO

1 pound fresh asparagus
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 cup uncooked U.S. Arborio or medium grain rice
1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
1/3 cup grated Romano cheese
Salt to taste (optional)

Wash asparagus and cut off tough stalk ends. Boil in large saucepan in salted water 12 minutes. Drain, reserving cooking liquid; cut off asparagus tips and set aside. Cook onion and garlic in oil in large skillet over medium-high heat. Add rice; stir 2 to 3 minutes. Stir in 1 cup reserved asparagus liquid. Cook, uncovered, stirring frequently, until liquid is absorbed. Continue stirring and adding remaining asparagus liquid and enough water to bring total amount of liquid added to 5 cups, allowing each to be absorbed before adding another. Rice should be tender and mixture should have a creamy consistency, which will take approximately 25 to 30 minutes. Stir in asparagus, parsley, cheese, and salt, if desired.

BANANA KIWI PUDDING

1 1/3 cups cooked rice
1 1/3 cups skim milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Low-calorie sugar substitute to equal 2 tablespoons sugar
1 ripe banana
1/4 cup whipping cream, whipped
2 kiwi fruit, sliced, for garnish

Cook rice and milk in 2-quart saucepan over medium heat until thick and creamy, 5 to 8 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat; cool. Stir in vanilla and sugar substitute. Just before serving, mash banana; fold banana and whipped cream into pudding. Garnish with kiwi fruit slices.

CHICKEN RICE SALAD WITH MANGOS AND CRANBERRIES

3 cups cooked medium grain rice
1 6-ounce package pre-cooked chicken strips cut into 1-inch pieces
3/4 cup dried cranberries
1 mango, chopped
3/4 cup chopped pecans, toasted
3/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
1/2 cup raspberry vinaigrette dressing
1/4 cup plus two tablespoons fresh chopped parsley, divided

In large bowl, combine rice, chicken, cranberries, mango, pecans, pepper, vinaigrette, and 1/4 cup parsley. Toss well. Garnish with remaining parsley.

SCRAMBLED EGGS AND RICE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
6 eggs
1 cup cooked rice
1/3 cup milk
1/2 cup sliced green onions
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
3/4 cup grated American cheese

Melt butter in large, heavy skillet, or chafing dish. Beat eggs until frothy. Add rice, milk, onions, green pepper, parsley, salt, and black pepper. Pour mixture into skillet. Cook, stirring constantly, until eggs are of desired doneness. Serve on hot plates topped with cheese.

Hay Directories

CattleFax reports that, with the worst pasture conditions in the past 15 years, 70 percent of the U.S. cattle inventory is located in regions of drought.

With this in mind, producers with extra forage are encouraged to consider baling additional hay to sell.

Hay can be listed in the Mississippi Hay Directory through Mississippi State University's website <http://msucares.com/livestock/beef/mshay.html> or through the Mississippi Department of Agriculture & Commerce's Mississippi Market Bulletin at www.msmarketbulletin.org.

Mississippi Beekeepers

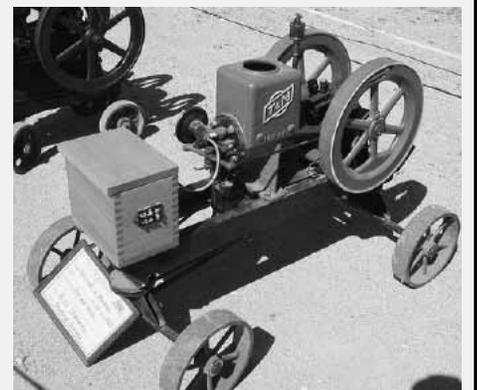

to Meet at Mississippi State University in October (Workshop for Beginners Held in Conjunction)

The Mississippi Beekeepers Association will hold their annual convention at the Bost Extension Center on the campus of Mississippi State University on Friday and Saturday, October 26-27, 2012. Several speakers with substantial national and international stature will present either current research or topics important to beekeeping at the general session. These speakers include Randy Oliver, who is an educator, researcher, and regular columnist in the American Bee Journal and Dr. Mike Hood, a research and extension entomologist from Clemson University, SC. Mr. Oliver will speak on a variety of topics that include managing colonies to control Varroa mites, while Dr. Hood will discuss the concepts of Integrated Pest Management as they apply to beekeeping. Scientists from the USDA, ARS Honey Bee Breeding Laboratory in Baton Rouge, LA, will provide updates on their various research programs. Dr. Jeff Harris will introduce himself as the new extension/research apiculturist for Mississippi State University and provide his vision for the future of beekeeping in Mississippi. Additionally, Harry Fulton (retired apiary inspector from the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce) and Dr. Clarence Collison (retired apiculturist from Mississippi State University) will lead workshops for beginner and hobby beekeepers.

A banquet meal will occur at 6:30-9:00 PM on Friday night, and there will also be a honey contest judged by Dr. Collison.

Preregistration is requested. This timber report contains aggregated individual timber sale stumpage data. Many variables, such as raw material demand, mill inventories, buyer competition, quality, topography and weather, play key roles in determining local prices. Pine Sawtimber prices are based upon a 14-inch Diameter-at-Breast-Height (DBH) log size. Pine Chip N Saw prices are based upon a 10-inch DBH log size. The stumpage prices shown here are reprinted with permission from the Timber Owner Market Guide; a bi-monthly publication of Forest2Market (www.forest2market.com).

MS Fruit & Vegetable Growers/Agritourism Conference & Trade-show Announced

The Mississippi Fruit and Vegetable Growers Association is pleased to announce that we will be hosting the Mississippi Fruit and Vegetable Growers Conference in conjunction with the Mississippi Agritourism Association November 28-29, 2012, at the Hilton Hotel on County Line Road in Jackson, Mississippi.

This event will feature a trade show and educational programs based on a variety of topics that are important to produce growers and agritourism businesses.

There will be fruit and vegetable production sessions, an agritourism session, and an organics session. So far, a tomato grafting workshop has been planned in addition to the sessions. You must pre-register for the tomato grafting, and space is very limited.

Attendees will enjoy a "Magnolia Fresh" reception featuring Mississippi grown products from several of the attending growers. An early bird special is available for attendees who register before September 15, 2012.

Additional information about the conference and registration can be found at www.msfruitandveg.com. For more information contact Teri McCarter, MFVGA Secretary/Treasurer at (601) 955-9298.

Bill Spain Named 2012 Mississippi Farmer of the Year

By John Leidner
Freelance writer for Swisher International

William "Bill" Spain of Booneville, Mississippi, joined his family's farm after he finished his education at Northeast Mississippi Community College and helped to build the farm into a modern, cohesive unit that carries on a strong family tradition.

As a result of his success as a row crop farmer, Spain has been selected as the 2012 Mississippi winner of the Swisher Sweets/Sunbelt Expo Southeastern Farmer of the Year award. Spain now joins nine other state winners from the Southeast as finalists for the award. The overall winner will be announced on Tuesday, October 16 at the Sunbelt Ag Expo Farm Show in Moultrie, Georgia.

A farmer for 37 years, Spain's operation consists of about 3,900 acres, mostly rented land along with 830 acres of owned land. Soybeans, cotton, and wheat are his major crops. He grows soybeans on 2,856 acres, cotton on 1,050 acres, and wheat on 517 acres. Though he doesn't irrigate, his yields are impressive. Last year, he produced 35 bushels per acre for soybeans, 900 pounds of lint per acre for cotton, and 60 bushels per acre for wheat.

The land he farms is part of a larger 6,400-acre family farming business. At one time, the family grew cotton on 4,600 acres, but their cotton acreage is now about 1,500 acres. "Cotton is a profitable crop," says Spain. "We put cotton on our highest yielding land. Because we grow cotton, we can justify keeping hired workers throughout the year. We don't need to hire extra help during planting and harvesting."

He farms in the hill country of northeastern Mississippi where fields vary in size from 10 to 100 acres. "It is necessary for us to work as a unit," says Spain. "We consult daily with key family members and employees to make daily decisions that maintain a successful operation."

His father, Billy Spain, started farming full time in 1968, and at age 76, Billy still has the energy and appearance of a much younger man. Bill started helping him on the farm as soon as he was old enough. He hauled hay, showed cattle in 4-H, and drove tractors. "My father allowed my brother and me to rent some land and to assume our own responsibilities," he recalls. "The farm I now have has grown from that beginning."

Spain's mother, Marie, is active in the family farming business. She keeps meticulous financial records and is assisted in this and in cooking for the family and their employees by Spain's sister, Laura Harber. Laura's husband, Jerry, is another key employee who handles fertilizer applications and keeps records on grain hauling.

Integrated pest management and boll weevil eradication helped Spain reduce pesticide applications. He uses no-till planting and has installed drainage along with other conservation practices. He also conducts crop variety trials for the Mississippi Extension Service and private seed companies. He uses precision farming practices to efficiently apply chemicals and fertilizers. In addition, he uses a smartphone to keep up with weather and crop market reports and to troubleshoot field problems.

Variety trials and improved fertility have reduced the incidence of iron chlorosis problems in soybeans.

Spain trusts cooperatives for marketing his cotton. In past years, he sold cotton through the Beltwide Cotton Cooperative. He now markets his cotton through the Staple Cotton Cooperative Association based in Greenwood, Mississippi. "You can put your cotton into the Staplcotn pool or contract a certain number of bales at a time," he explains. "Through the years, the cooperative has gotten us a better than average price, and this year, all of our family's cotton will go into the Staplcotn pool."

Spain uses forward contracts to market soybeans and wheat. He also sells wheat and soybeans through the Cargill AgHorizons network of grain elevators. He receives e-mail and text messages several times daily from Cargill, advising him of changes in the grain markets. "I can even check on the moisture, foreign material, and location of my grain when it is stored in Cargill elevators," he says. "I can access the Cargill website and track my grain loads to make sure there are no mistakes."

He also uses SST Summit software to record field data such as planting rates, fertilizer, herbicide, and insecticide applications and yields for later analysis. He says, "We rent from 73 landlords, and this software helps us keep up with the 300 fields our family farms."

In Prentiss County, he serves on the Farm Service Agency County Committee, on the Ag Advisory Board for the local Extension office, and is a member of the Soil & Water Conservation District. He's also a board member for a local bank. He serves on a producer advisory committee for Mississippi State University and is a past member of the Beltwide Cotton Cooperative board of directors.

He believes in introducing agriculture to new generations, and he hosts kindergarten students during visits to his farm.

Bill and his wife, Teri, are active in Gaston Baptist Church. Teri has an impressive off-farm medical career. She manages surgical and bariatric clinics in the nearby city of Tupelo, Mississippi. She has also been active in Booneville Junior Auxiliary, Lee County Habitat for Humanity, Lee County Live Well Health Fair, and the Northeast Mississippi Zeta Tau Alpha Alumni Association.

Bill has two adult daughters, Jennifer and Jessica, from a previous marriage. Both Jennifer and Jessica work as educators.

Tragedy struck his family during the mid 1990's when a hunting accident killed his brother David, and again in 2010 when his son William Guy Spain died in a car accident. "I farmed with my brother," says Spain. "And before his death, our son was an active and involved member of our farming operation. I could depend on Guy, whether he was planting or spraying cotton. He was a reliable farm worker and would have become a great farmer."

After his son's death, his son-in-law Justin Taylor stepped up to take over some of Guy's responsibilities. "Justin is married to Jessica, and he was a successful landscape architect before he joined our farm," says Spain. "Justin is responsible for spraying, planting, and scouting our soybeans. We hire a consultant to scout our cotton."

Joe Street, associate director of the Mississippi State University Extension Service, is the state coordinator of the Swisher Sweets/Sunbelt Expo Southeastern Farmer of the Year awards.

Charlie Stokes, area agronomy agent with the Mississippi Extension Service, nominated Spain for the award. Stokes works with growers in several counties and says he nominated Spain for the award because of the quality of his farming and his attention to detail. "Bill is a pleasure to work with," says Stokes. "He and his entire family are very supportive of Extension and research work at Mississippi State University. They have supplied land for our test plots. We depend on them, and they depend on us. They are just good people."

As the Mississippi state winner of the Swisher Sweets/Sunbelt Expo award, Spain will now receive a $2,500 cash award and an expense paid trip to the Sunbelt Expo from Swisher International of Jacksonville, Florida, a $500 gift certificate from the Southern States cooperative, and the choice of either $1,000 in PhytoGen cottonseed, or a $500 donation to a designated charity on behalf of our newest sponsor, Dow Agrosciences.

He is now eligible for the $15,000 that will go to the overall winner. Other prizes for the overall winner include the use of a Massey Ferguson tractor for a year from Massey Ferguson North America, another $500 gift certificate from the Southern States cooperative, and the choice of either another $1,000 in PhytoGen cottonseed, or a second $500 donation to a designated charity on behalf of our newest sponsor, Dow Agrosciences.

Swisher International, through its Swisher Sweets cigar brand, and the Sunbelt Expo are sponsoring the Southeastern Farmer of the Year awards for the 23rd consecutive year. Swisher has contributed some $884,000 in cash awards and other honors to southeastern farmers since the award was initiated in 1990.

Previous state winners from Mississippi include: Hugh Arant, Sr. of Ruleville, 1990; Bill Hawks of Hernando, 1991; Kenneth Hood of Gunnison, 1992; Tol Thomas of Cruger, 1993; Rick Parsons of Vance, 1994; Ed Hester of Benoit, 1995; Bill Harris of Benton, 1996; Robert Miller of Greenwood, 1997; Ted Kendall, III of Bolton, 1998; Wayne Bush of Schlater, 1999; William Tackett of Schlater, 2000; Willard Jack of Belzoni, 2001; Hugh Arant, Jr. of Ruleville, 2002; Rick Parsons of Vance, 2003; Sledge Taylor of Como, 2004; Laurance Carter of Rolling Fork, 2005; Brooks Aycock of Belzoni, 2006; Tom Robertson of Indianola, 2007; Gibb Steele III of Hollandale, 2008; Donald Gant of Merigold, 2009; Dan Batson of Perkinston, 2010; and Scott Canada of Edwards, 2011.

Mississippi has had three overall winners with Kenneth Hood of Gunnison in 1993, Ed Hester of Benoit in 1995, and Willard Jack of Belzoni in 2001.

A distinguished panel of judges visited the Spain farm, along with the farms of the other nine state finalists in August. The judges for this year include Charles Snipes, a retired Mississippi Extension weed scientist who is president and research scientist with Stoneville R&D, Inc., from Greenville, Mississippi.; John McKissick, a longtime University of Georgia Extension ag economist from Athens, Georgia; and farmer Brian Kirksey of Amity, Arkansas, who was selected as the overall winner in 2008.

Mississippi Authorities Will Be Checking For Overweight Grain Trucks

Reprinted with permission of
Delta Farm Press
By Hembree Brandon
Editorial Director
Delta Farm Press

With corn and soybean harvest getting under way in Mississippi, officials with the Mississippi Department of Transportation are warning that grain trucks will be under close scrutiny for overweight loads.

"We've had a lot of calls about overweight trucks running in and out of grain elevators all over the Delta and damaging state and county roads," says Maj. Dennis Hopper, MDOT Office of Enforcement at Batesville, Miss., who spoke at the joint annual meeting of the Southern Cotton Ginners Association and the Delta Council Ginning and Cotton Quality Committee.

"MDOT Chief Willie Huff has received complaints about trucks coming into elevators weighing 100,000 to 120,000 pounds. During one recent check, our officers wrote 10 or 12 overweight tickets, which would indicate there is quite a bit of this going on."

The last three years, Hopper says, MDOT officers have concentrated on enforcement of posted bridge weight limits during harvest season, but this year Chief Huff is stressing that we're going to focus on these overweight trucks.

"We are going to be working closely with farmers and contract haulers, and we hope they will work with us to comply with the weight restrictions on state roads in the Delta and posted weight limits on county roads as well." Hopper says farmers and truckers need to be aware of all the regulations related to transportation of crops on the state's roads, including posted weights for bridges and roads, as well as permits needed for operating vehicles in the state, and regulations pertaining to dyed fuel.

"We now have about 230 posted bridges throughout Mississippi on state highways — and that doesn't count county or city roads that may be posted. The Batesville district that I work has 110 posted bridges and the Tupelo district has about 50 — about two-thirds of the state's total."

"Our officers are out working these areas, and if you see them sitting by a posted bridge and you're overweight, they may write a warning ticket the first time, but if it's a serious violation, they can write you a court ticket."

All posted bridges can be checked online at the agency's website, Hopper notes. "You can go to gomdot.com and click on the 'Posted Bridges' link, and it will give you all the information about that bridge including location, bridge ID number, truck weight limit, and limits per axle — tandem, single, etc. Or, you can telephone our offices anywhere in the state and we'll try and help you any way we can. The website is updated at least weekly, sometimes daily, as conditions change for these bridges."

Decades-old bridges

Most of the bridges that are posted with weight limits are anywhere from 40 years to 70 years old, he says. "Many of these were built with wooden pilings that are in various stages of decay. They need to be replaced, but in today's economy we can't get the money to replace all of them — it just has to be done on a piecemeal basis as money is made available by the legislature

"Three years ago, we had 400-plus posted bridges in the state, and we asked the legislature for $300 million for bridge upgrades, but with a very tight state budget, we got $100 million. In many cases, all the state can do is try to keep the bridges repaired and keep them posted for weight limits in order to try and avoid damage."

"For most of them, it's an ongoing maintenance/repair situation. The inspection process is ongoing, and bridges are posted on the basis of those findings, and posted limits are changed as the condition of the bridge changes."

In one instance, Hopper says, vandals used a cutting torch to remove sections of steel bridge supports. "It was so damaged, it's a wonder the bridge was still standing. People also take down the posted signs, but the weight limits still apply, so it's advisable that you check all the bridges on the roads you'll be traveling."

"If one of your trucks should cause a bridge to fall in, there could be injuries or even deaths, not to mention long-term inconvenience to people traveling in the area daily. Your liability could be enormous."

A few years back, Hopper says, an old bridge over a river collapsed from an overweight log truck. "Thankfully, there were no injuries, but it was a major inconvenience to people traveling in that area — and it was very costly to the owner of the truck and the driver."

Out-of-state trucks operating in Mississippi must have an apportioned tag from their home state, he says; if not, they must have a three-day permit or a temporary Mississippi tag, which can be for three months or six months.

"This works well for people coming in and doing custom harvesting over an extended period. They also need to buy fuel in the state and pay taxes in the state. We will be checking to be sure they're buying fuel in the state. Drivers must also have a CDL and trucks must be properly insured. Violations could delay delivery of your products and increase roundtrip times."

Harvest permits available

A harvest permit may be obtained that is vehicle specific and is good for one year, Hopper says. It allows a gross weight of 84,000 pounds for proper axle and length configurations. They may be issued to out-of-state trucks with an apportioned tag or a temporary Mississippi tag. Application forms for these permits may be obtained on the MDOT website.

"It's important to know that no permit allows an overweight truck to cross a posted bridge," he says. "If a bridge is posted, that posted weight overrules everything else — it doesn't matter what your harvest permit says, the posted limits apply."

It is illegal, Hopper notes, to use on-farm dyed fuel in any vehicle traveling on the state's roadways. "This is to help reduce tax evasion by identifying fuel on which excise taxes have not been paid, and to help reduce air pollution by identifying fuel not suitable for use in motor vehicles."

"There is a $2,000 minimum penalty — $1,000 from the state, $1,000 from the Internal Revenue Service — and it can be much higher, depending on circumstances."

Any visible evidence of dye may result in a penalty, Hopper says, and mixing dyed fuel with regular fuel makes the entire load unsuitable for highway use and subject to penalties.

"We'll pull a fuel sample, and if it's dyed, we send it to the IRS and they'll bill you at as much as $10 per gallon; if you've got 300 gallons in the tank, that's $3,000 to the IRS and $3,000 to the state."

"If your driver tells us he got it out of the tank on your farm, we'll come to your farm, check the number of gallons in your tank, and you'll pay a per-gallon fine for that. I know of one company that got a $70,000 bill for a violation."

"Some companies tell us they mix transmission fluid with their diesel to help keep fuel injectors clean. You should be aware that transmission fluid has the same dye as dyed fuel, and it can contaminate your diesel and put you in violation of dyed fuel regulations."

There have been reports, he says, of thieves going onto farms and stealing dyed diesel fuel. "We will try and help when we can, but we can only try and catch them on the road. The Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce has personnel to actually investigate these cases, so you may want to work with them on any theft of dyed fuel."

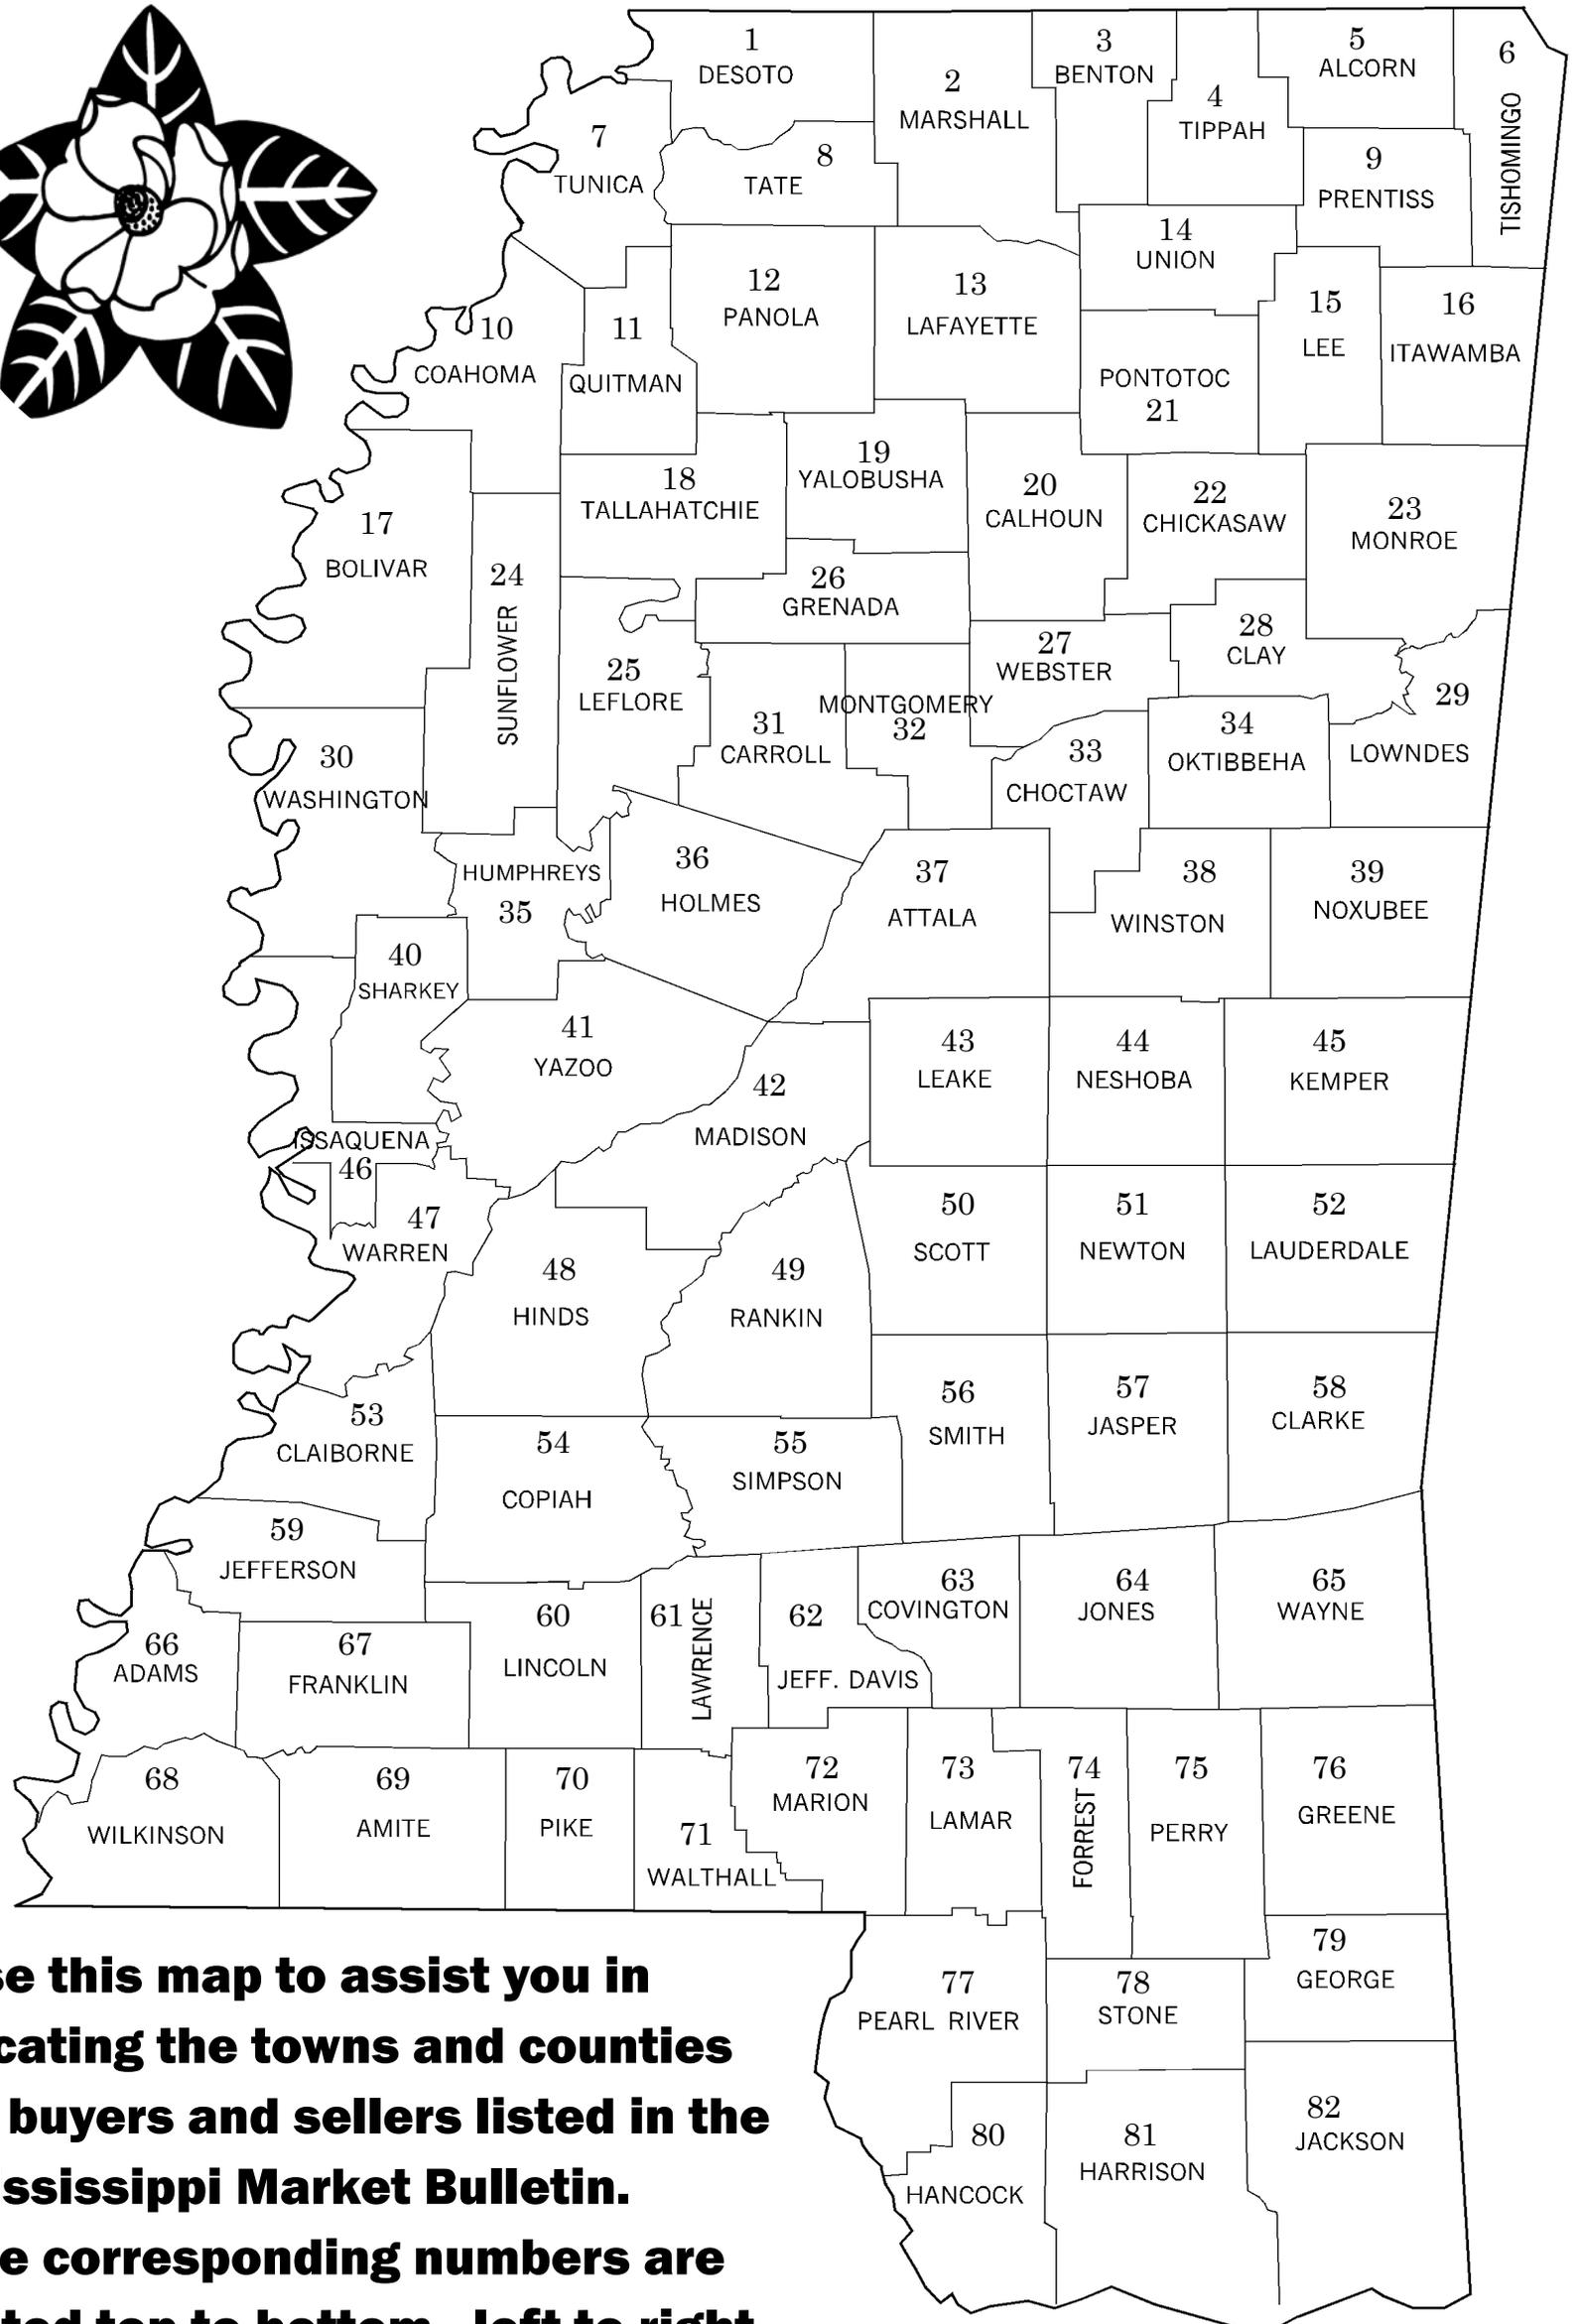

Our website also has a map showing truck weight limits for state roadways, Hopper says. "It is continually updated, and you can use it to check low weight roads and warn your drivers to avoid those roads. The 4,000 harvest weight permit does not apply on these roads. If we catch someone in a violation, it can be expensive. The website also has information about all the permits and application forms."

In addition to the state roads and bridges that have posted weight limits, Hopper says farmers and truckers should be aware that counties also have weight limits on some of their roads and bridges, and "you would do well to check on this to be sure you're in compliance all along your route of travel."

THE MISSISSIPPI Department of Transportation website shows locations and detailed information of all weight-posted bridges on state roads in Mississippi. It also shows roads with posted limits.

Advertising Guidelines

The Mississippi Market Bulletin is published on the 1st and 15th of each month by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce. The Mississippi Market Bulletin is an important way for the Department to disseminate news and information about issues affecting Mississippi's agriculture industry and the Department's operations.

Through its classified advertising section, the Bulletin provides a forum for Mississippi residents to buy and sell agricultural related items while also giving statewide exposure to small farmers who might not normally have the economic resources for such widespread advertising. The Bulletin does not publish commercial or display ads and all items offered for sale must have been produced, raised, grown or operated on the seller's property. Businesses, corporations, dealerships, brokers or other commercial enterprises are not allowed to advertise in the Mississippi Market Bulletin.

Advertising rules and guidelines have been established for the Mississippi Market Bulletin in order to comply with regulations enforced by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce and to maintain the objectives of the publication. The staff of the Mississippi Market Bulletin reserves the right to edit, revise or reject any advertisement.

The Mississippi Market Bulletin assumes no responsibility for any notice appearing in the Bulletin nor for any transaction resulting from published notices. Advertisers are cautioned that it is against the law to misrepresent any product offered for sale in public notices or advertisements carried in any publication that is delivered by the United States Postal Service.

- In order to advertise in the Mississippi Market Bulletin you must be a subscriber. To place an ad, you must include your name, mailing address and account number that the subscription is listed under on each ad that you submit (this information will not be printed). Each subscriber is allowed to advertise two ads in the Bulletin, listing one ad per category.
- All listings must be agriculture related (raised, grown, produced or operated on your farm). At the top of your ad, write the category that the ad should be listed under. We reserve the right to edit, revise or reject each ad. Please print or type your ad.
- There is a 30-word limit for classified advertisements, this includes: price (on the item you are selling), your city, county and telephone number or name and complete address must be included in the ad if you do not list a telephone number. Ads cannot be held over from one issue to another. You must submit them for each issue.
- Out-of-state residents are not eligible to advertise with the following exceptions: Out-of-state ads are allowed in the "Wanting To Buy" category. Out-of-state ads are allowed for individuals owning farm property within the state that is being offered for sale (consisting of 10 acres or more).

Advertising Deadline Dates

SEPTEMBER 15 ISSUE...DEADLINE MON., SEPT. 3, 2012 • 12:00 NOON

OCTOBER 1 ISSUE.....DEADLINE MON., SEPT. 17, 2012 • 12:00 NOON

You must submit your ad for each issue. We do not hold ads over for multiple insertion.

Mississippi Transportation Commission and Department of Agriculture Unveil New Agritourism Sign

By Paige Manning
Director of Marketing & Public Relations
MDAC

The Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) and the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce (MDAC) introduced a new Agritourism Sign Program with the unveiling of directional signage for Mitchell Farms. The Agritourism Sign Program is a result of joint efforts between MDAC and the Mississippi Development Authority to introduce members of the Mississippi Agritourism Association to various resources available to their industry through other state agencies and organizations.

With input from the associated stakeholders, MDOT developed rules, regulations, and guidelines for a new statewide signing program—the Agritourism Signing Program. In early 2012, the Mississippi Transportation Commission formally authorized the program, which will now allow qualified agritourism businesses to have directional signage on the right-of-way of state maintained highways.

Mitchell Farms, located in Collins, is the first agritourism operation to utilize the signage program. More than twenty other agritourism venues across the state are participating in the program as well. “Our family is very excited about the signage program MDOT has put in place for agritourism businesses in Mississippi,” commented Jo Lynn Mitchell, co-owner of Mitchell Farms.

“This program came to fruition because a group of people came together, worked together, and made it happen. This is a great opportunity for our state to recognize two driving forces in its economy - agriculture and tourism,” added Mitchell.

“I appreciate the efforts of the Mississippi Department of Transportation in developing the Agritourism Sign Program which will bring much needed exposure to the wonderful agritourism operations that we are so fortunate to have in our state,” said Agriculture Commissioner Cindy Hyde-Smith. “Agritourism provides our farmers and landowners with a unique opportunity to demonstrate the importance of Mississippi’s largest industry - agriculture, while educating consumers, both young and old, on where their food actually comes from.”

In Mississippi, agritourism is one of the fastest growing sectors in agriculture and tourism as an increasing number of working farms and other agricultural enterprises are incorporating agritourism activities into their operations. These operations provide a unique experience for visitors by offering a variety of educational and entertaining attractions such as pumpkin patches, corn mazes, u-pick gardens, hay rides, seasonal festivals, and other activities.

“We are thrilled and honored to be a part of this special program that will help showcase one of Mississippi’s greatest attributes,” said the Mississippi Transportation Commission in a joint statement. “We are always happy to partner with other state agencies to promote the State of Mississippi.”

Save an Industry, Eat More Catfish!

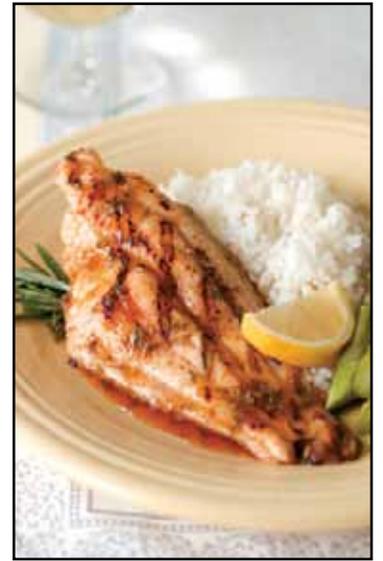

By Michele Warnock
The Catfish Institute

Have you traveled through the Delta lately? If so, you have probably seen the land that once held vast acres of catfish ponds either lying dormant or covered by row crops.

The ingenious idea of growing farm-raised catfish started in the Mississippi Delta in the late 1960’s. Over time, the process has been perfected to produce a consistently delicious product that is available year-round. The production methods are safe to the environment, without the danger of overfishing that can occur with wild-caught seafood. As a result, U.S. Farm-Raised Catfish is listed as a “Best-Choice” by the Monterey Bay Aquarium’s Seafood Watch program. In addition, both the Sierra Club and the Environmental Defense Fund rank it among the world’s safest seafoods.

But, in recent times the U.S. Farm-Raised Catfish Industry has suffered from both internal and external pressures. Record high feed prices and fuel costs combined with competition from cheaper, inferior imports have forced many farmers out of business. The recession and economic uncertainty associated with it have altered purchasing habits and decreased demand for this southern staple. As a result, acres farmed have decreased from over 196,000 acres in 2002 to a little less than 90,000 acres as of the beginning of this year. The reality is that if demand and purchases do not increase, consumers may not have a choice of buying U.S. Farm-Raised Catfish much longer.

I recently had an opportunity to speak with Roger Barlow, President of The Catfish Institute, the organization responsible for promoting the U.S. Farm-Raised Catfish Industry. He said, “Mississippians love good catfish! Whether fried or blackened or baked, U.S. Farm-Raised Catfish is at home across the South. Consumers demand U.S. grown catfish, and the success of the industry will hinge on their purchases.”

Mr. Barlow noted that over and over we witness imported catfish and catfish-like species from Vietnam and/or China being rejected because they are found to contain illegal and dangerous chemicals. Mr. Barlow contrasted this with U.S. Catfish. “Our catfish are grown in manmade clay ponds filled with pristine well water. They are fed a scientifically-formulated diet of floating pellets that are made from soybeans and other wholesome grains. U.S. Farm-Raised Catfish is not only good for you, but it is also good for the environment. Help our Industry and eat more U. S. Catfish!”

It’s very rare that we have an opportunity to help others by consuming something tasty and good for us. But we do right now, so take advantage of it. If you haven’t tried catfish lately, I encourage you to do so. And if you have, I encourage you to eat more at your favorite restaurant and at home.
