June is Dairy Month...Dedicated to Dairy

By Southeast United Dairy Industry Association, Inc.

As the weather is getting warmer, and summer is upon us, what better way to enjoy the fun and sun than with ice cream, frozen yogurt, or your other favorite dairy treat to celebrate National Dairy Month. June is the month that honors and allows us to indulge in all those delicious, wholesome dairy products, many of which are made right here in Mississippi.

What began as National Milk Month in 1937 to promote drinking milk, National Dairy Month developed into an annual tradition that gives a nod to the dairy industry and all of their contributions to the world. Dairy products like milk contains protein, Vitamin D and A, calcium, and nine essential nutrients. These nutrients may help people to better manage their weight, reduce their risk for high blood pressure, osteoporosis and certain cancers.

In 2013, there were 100 dairy farms in Mississippi. About 98% of all the milk produced in 2013 was used and consumed in the form of fluid milk.

Mississippi ranked 41st in milk production, 38th in number of milk cows, 47th in milk output per cow, and 38th in the number of licensed dairy operations during 2013 in the United States.

The top six milk producing counties in Mississippi during 2013 were:

- 1st - Marion (24.4 million pounds)
- 2nd - Tate (20.8 million pounds)
- 3rd - Lincoln (16.4 million pounds)
- 4th - Walthall (15.6 million pounds)
- 5th - Pike (12.6 million pounds)
- 6th - Amite (7.0 million pounds)

Mississippi dairy cows produced in 2013 an average of 5.0 gallons

Dairy farmers feed their cows specially formulated diets with the help of an animal nutritionist. These diets are well balanced combinations of grains like corn, silage, and barley, hay like alfalfa, and vitamins and minerals. They also have constant access to plenty of clean, fresh water.

of milk per day, or enough to make 4.3 pounds of cheese, or 2 pounds of butter. To produce this much milk, an average cow consumes 40 gallons of water, 25 pounds of grain and feed concentrates, and 60 pounds of corn silage every day. The average value of a day's milk was about $9.28 per cow in 2013.

Dairy farmers work hard to keep their cows healthy and happy so they can produce milk. It's not an easy job. They treat their cows with respect and excellent care every day. They work hard to provide the best living conditions for the cows in order to obtain the best possible product for you and your family.

Milk is an important part of our diet, providing calcium for strong bones, along with eight other essential nutrients that contribute to maintaining a healthy weight and heart. Milk and related dairy products are rich in protein, which is vital for everyone, especially athletes looking to recharge after a workout. Low-fat chocolate milk is one of the best ways to refuel after a workout because of the unique balance of carbohydrates, protein, electrolytes, and calcium.

As you prepare to celebrate June Dairy Month and honor the farmers that produce milk, here's one final fun fact: It takes about 50 licks to finish a single ice cream scoop. So, do you want to eat that ice cream cone? Go ahead and order one today and celebrate National Dairy Month!

- 1 large Russet potato
- 1 large sweet potato
- 2 48-ounce containers of canola oil
- 3 sprigs rosemary
- 1 tablespoon rosemary
- 2 4-ounce containers crumbled bleu cheese
- 1/4 cup balsamic vinegar
- 3/4 cup Lactaid skim milk
- Small jar pickled jalapenos, sliced
- Salt to taste

Preheat oven to 250° F. In a large pan heat oil to 350°-360°. Peel both potatoes and slice 1/16-inch width on mandolin. Pat dry and fry potato chips in oil for 1 minute until crisp and brown. Drain on paper towel lined plate. Once potatoes have drained pour into a bowl and season with salt. Place 1/3 of the chips on oven-proof plates; set aside. In a saucepan heat to medium and mix Lactaid and 7 ounces cheese with a whisk until smooth. Stir in 1 tablespoon chopped rosemary. Drizzle cheese sauce with spoon over chips and add a drizzle of balsamic vinegar around the edge of each plate. Sprinkle with remaining bleu cheese crumbles. Place plates in oven for 5 minutes to warm and then serve immediately.

- 1/2 frozen very ripe banana cut into 1-inch chunks
- 3 tablespoons unsweetened natural cocoa powder
- 2 tablespoons agave nectar or honey
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract

Combine all ingredients in a blender or food processor; blend until smooth. Pour into glasses and serve immediately.

Marvelicious Mac and Cheese

Preheat oven to 375°. Cook macaroni according to package directions. Meanwhile, heat milk and butter in a medium saucepan over medium heat. Gradually whisk in flour, salt and dry mustard and simmer for 1 minute, whisking occasionally. Remove from heat; stir in 2 cups of cheese until melted. Add drained macaroni to saucepan and toss with cheese sauce. Transfer mixture to an 8- or 9-inch square baking dish and top with remaining 1/2 cup shredded cheese. Home Canning, Pressure Cooker Method

By Southern States

For generations, canning has been a way of preserving the abundance of food from the garden. Today, canning has made a huge comeback as more people wish to have greater control over their family's food sources. If you are new to home canning, don't be intimidated by thoughts of using a pressure canner. When used properly, pressure canners are very safe.

Preparation is the key to any successful canning experience. The USDA recommends that a canner be large enough to hold a minimum of four quart-sized jars. Any pressure cooker smaller than that, while great for preparing foods, is not considered safe for processing food for storage purposes. You can choose from either a dial gauge or a weighted gauge pressure canner.

While both perform the same task, they differ in how they measure pressure. The dial gauge allows you to see the pressure and monitor any changes, while the weighted gauge is set to certain pounds of pressure. The weights are designed to lift and release any extra pressure during the canning process.

If you own an older pressure gauge canner, have it tested annually for accuracy. Your canning jars should be free from defects. Small chips or nicks in the glass can cause breakage during the heating process or prevent jars from sealing properly.

For safety, certain foods must be preserved in a pressure canner based on their acidity level. The acidity is determined by the pH level - low-acid foods have a pH higher than 4.6 and high-acid foods have a pH lower than 4.6. Low-acid foods must be processed in a pressure canner in order to destroy any bacteria that could cause botulism. As a general rule, meats and vegetables are low-acid foods and fruits are considered high-acid foods. Examples of low-acid foods include: beans, beets, corn, peas, potatoes, winter squash, meats, seafood, and poultry.

While many foods can be preserved, most people are interested in canning vegetables from their garden. For best results, vegetables should always be canned the same day as picking, because the quality, and flavor immediately starts to diminish. Choose young, fresh vegetables, and avoid overripe and blemished ones because bacteria will grow faster on bruised vegetables. Wash and prep your garden vegetables for canning.

It's always important to follow your owner's manual for step-by-step instructions on how to use your pressure canner. Proper temperature and processing time ensures that any bacteria that might be present are destroyed.

An Old Fashioned Country Fair

By Lise Foy, Director
MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

Since the nineteenth century, agricultural shows, and fairs have provided communities with an opportunity to celebrate achievements and enjoy a break from day-to-day routine. With a combination of serious competition and light entertainment, annual shows acknowledged and rewarded the hard work and skill of primary producers and provided a venue for rural families to socialize and city people to engage directly with rural life and food production.

I cannot hear the word fair without thinking of a road trip with a college friend to the Neshoba County Fair. As we drove from Starkville to Philadelphia, we listened to Chris LeDoux's song 'County Fair' over and over. We enjoyed the rides, the races, the exhibits, the food, and the music. We left that day from the fair covered in that famous red dirt and with our faces hurting from laughing and giggling. It was a wonderful day!

On July 5, Small Town, Mississippi, at the Ag Museum will host the first annual Old Fashioned Country Fair as part of the newly formed LeFleur Museum District 'Summertime Wonder Time' joint event.

The Country Fair will give visitors an opportunity to step into a celebration of what community life might have been like in 1920 Mississippi. Activities will begin at 1:00 p.m. with pony rides, live music, and blacksmithing demonstrations. The Mississippi Mule Pullers Association will stage a mule pull at 2:00 p.m. at the Farmstead. Nancy Freeman will present cooking demonstrations sponsored by Farm Families of Mississippi. She will demonstrate five recipes with ingredients provided by the Gulf South Blueberry Growers Association, Mississippi Beef Council, Central Mississippi Beekeepers Association, Mississippi Sweet Potato Council, Mississippi Egg Marketing Board, and Cal-Maine Foods under the Small Town Pavilion using Mississippi grown products. Visitors can participate in games including a watermelon seed spitting contest, horseshoes, calf roping, cupcake walk, and guess the weight of Rudy the beef steer.

The Mississippi Quilt Association will present quilting demonstrations in the Masonic Lodge along with a display of Missis-

Do you grow the BIGGEST?

Do you grow the best?

We'll be the judge of that!

Farmers and Gardeners, Your Produce is Needed

By Dr. Rick Snyder
Professor and Vegetable Specialist
MSU Extension Service

The once-a-year Farmers' Market will be held in downtown Crystal Springs in Railroad Park on Saturday, June 28, as part of the annual Tomato Festival. Growers who will have produce ready to sell by late June should plan now to participate in the Farmers' Market.

Any locally grown produce is acceptable. In late June, vegetables in season might include red tomatoes, green tomatoes, bell peppers, hot peppers, summer squash, snap beans, southern peas, butter beans, cabbage, sweet corn, cucumbers, okra, greens, watermelons, cantaloupes, herbs, shiitake mushrooms, etc.

Fruit crops would include blueberries, peaches, plums, blackberries, etc. Honey, preserves, potted plants, or cut flowers are also welcome in the Farmers' Market.

If you have enough surplus from your home garden and would like to sell it, we will be happy to have you join us. You don't have to be a full time grower to participate in Tomato Festival Farmers' Market. All of the vendors who sell produce in the Farmers' Market each year do very well, most selling out.

Requirements: 1) All produce for sale must be grown in Mississippi. Please do not bring fruits, vegetables, or anything else from other states; 2) You must fill out and return the application to be allowed to sell your produce by Tuesday, June 24.

There is still no fee for participants. To obtain an application call 601-892-3731 or email: Rick.Snyder@msstate.edu.

issippi made quilts. Visitors can also view the 2014 Outstanding Quilter Exhibit hanging in the Heritage Center Gallery from June through October. The Outstanding Quilter competition is organized by the Mississippi Quilt Legacy Committee and honors quilters ages 65 and older.

Gardeners can enter the Biggest Watermelon and Tomato competition. Entries should be delivered to the Ag Museum between 1:00-2:00 p.m. on July 5. Vegetable competition winners will be announced along with the naming of Small Town's first Honorary Mayor.

Bring your blanket and enjoy a picnic. We will have barbeque and fixings available for purchase!

Tickets for the 'Summertime Wonder Time' weekend, including activities at the Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame, Mississippi

Children's Museum, and Mississippi Museum of Natural Science can be purchased in advance at a 25 percent discount at www.lefleuremuseumdistrict.com.

The Ag Museum is located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson and is open Tuesday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. In addition to our gallery and exhibit spaces, the Ag Museum also has room for your event, whether it's a meeting, a wedding, or other special event. Good Weather Starts Peanut Crop Off Strong

By Susan Collins-Smith
MSU Ag Communications

Most peanut growers are on schedule despite the cool, wet weather that hit Mississippi at the beginning of May.

"We are in pretty good shape all over the state," said Jason Sarver, peanut specialist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service and Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station. "The cool, wet spell we had set some folks back, but only by a week or so. Depending on this summer's conditions, their harvest might be pushed a little later, but nothing extreme."

Alan Atkins, a Monroe County peanut grower with 500 acres, said the growing season started off well for him.

"Planting has gone perfectly so far," Atkins said. "I could not have asked for any better weather."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Crop Progress and Condition Report estimated 41 percent of Mississippi's peanut acreage was planted as of May 16. Farmers had planted just 16 percent of the crop at this time last year.

"With the favorable weather forecast for the next several days, everyone should be nearing completion by the end of May," Sarver said.

The USDA's Prospective Planting Report estimates Mississippi will have 45,000 acres of peanuts this year. Sarver said he believes that number will be closer to 35,000 acres.

"I think we'll be closer to last year's acreage based on the information I've gotten from those involved in the state's peanut industry," he said. "If we reach 45,000 acres, I'll be surprised."

Growers have experienced few problems so far. Some growers who planted during the last week of April, before the soil temperature was warm enough, had to replant in selected areas, Sarver said. To optimize peanut germination and emergence, soil temperature needs to be 68 degrees or warmer with a favorable forecast to follow.

John Michael Riley, Extension agricultural economist, said current wholesale cash prices for peanuts are around $400 per ton but could change as the growing season progresses.

"This is roughly where prices have been in recent years, but the range of prices the last few years has been rather wide at times," Riley said.

Nationwide, peanut acreage is expected to rise to 1.4 million acres, up about 300,000 acres from 2013, according to the prospective planting report. Most of those acres will be planted in Georgia, which has long been the dominant peanut-producing state, Riley said.

"The drop in corn and bean prices from recent highs likely led to some added acreage," Riley said. "But the bulk of the increase is in Georgia, where farmers are expected to plant 230,000 acres more than last year, which accounts for 74 percent of the total increase."

June is Dairy Month: Making Homemade Cheese

By Southern States

Anyone can make cheese at home. In fact, making your own cheese is fun! Cheese makers know that quality cheese begins with quality milk. This is the perfect hobby for farmers and anyone else with access to fresh farm milk. You can make cheese using milk from any breed of cows or goats, but know that certain breeds of milk-producing animals can be better suited for making particular types of cheeses. Here's an overview of making homemade cheese and the equipment you will need.

Making cheese is simple enough that you can do it in your own kitchen. In fact, many varieties of basic cheeses can be made in a few hours. Different cheeses may undergo a few different steps, but the fundamental process of making cheese includes curdling milk and separating the solids (the curds) from the whey. The curds are the white solids formed when milk is heated. The whey is the watery milk substance left after the curds are formed.

As mentioned above, heating, and curdling milk is the first step to making cheese. To curdle the milk, you must add an acid, like lemon juice or vinegar, or an enzyme, known as rennet, to the milk. This separates the curds from the whey. Once the curdling process is complete, the additional steps can differ depending on the type of cheese you are making. This will determine the taste, color, texture, and aroma of the final cheese product. Fresh cheeses, like ricotta, are merely drained or pressed while other cheeses, like cheddar, require a longer process of cooking the curds to reduce moisture. As more moisture is extracted from the curd, the result is a dense, hard cheese.

One of the final steps to making cheese is pressing the curds into molds to produce blocks, wheels or any other desired shape. At this point, some cheeses are ready to be eaten fresh. Depending on the variety, you may need to brine or wax the cheese and let it cure. The process of curing is aging to further develop flavor.

Making cheese from home does not require a lot of equipment. Unlike other hobbies, you won't need fancy or expensive supplies. Your recipe will require fresh milk and cheese cultures, but you should have the basic equipment you need at home:

- Saucepan
- Cheesecloth
- Thermometer
- Large spoon
- Knife
- Large bowl
- Measuring spoons and cups
- Container for cheese storage

After you have mastered the art of cheese making, store your cheese in an air tight container in the refrigerator. About 30 - 45 minutes before serving, remove from the refrigerator. The flavor and texture of cheese is best served at room temperature. While the steps for making cheese are simple enough, different varieties of cheese require different techniques.
