Corn Growers Feel the Bite from a Bear Market

By Linda Breazeale
MSU Ag Communications

Who knew Mississippi corn growers should worry about bears?

The bears are not in the fields eating the crop; they are in the market, eating the profits. When economists refer to a bear market, they are talking about declining stock prices over a prolonged period, usually a 20 percent or larger decline.

Brian Williams, agricultural economist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service, said several factors have pushed corn prices down in recent weeks.

“The U.S. Department of Agricul-

A variety of stresses, including saturated soils, can cause kernels at the tips of corn ears not to fill out. This ear was photographed July 1, 2014, at Mississippi State University's R.R. Foil Plant Science Research Center in Starkville, Mississippi. (Photo by MSU Ag Communications/Kat Lawrence)

ture's planted acreage report, which was released June 30, did not help the corn market," he said. "Then, the quarterly grain stocks report came out the same day indicating more corn in storage than anticipated. A week later, the world agricultural supply and demand estimates report suggested a drop in feed use and higher ending stocks. Those two reports really made prices tumble."

Williams said December corn futures went from $4.47 per bushel on June 29 to $3.88 per bushel in just over two weeks. A year ago, national (futures) were trading around $5.27 per bushel.

"Another driver is the crop condition, released by USDA every Monday. Both Mississippi and the national crops are in very good condition. Currently, they are projecting the second largest crop nationally, just behind last year's record," he said.

The prospect of a second consecutive year of record or near record production could hurt growers who did not sell a portion of their crops early in the growing season.

Williams said there are 3.7 million fewer corn acres nationally. Soybeans are up 8.3 million acres, but soybean prices also are tumbling in anticipation of record crop this year.

"Corn and soybean prices tend to mirror each other," he said.

Erick Larson, state Extension corn specialist, said the crop is looking generally good across most of Mississippi despite excessive rains during parts of the season.

"Rains during planting season delayed or restricted acreage in some areas with extremely cool or wet conditions in March and April," Larson said. "Fields got a little dry in May to help overall crop prospects by allowing growers to get timely nitrogen and herbicide applications. Then conditions turned extremely wet in June in many areas causing some negative impacts, such as stunted growth from soil saturation."

Larson said he does not anticipate problems from cooler temperatures.

"Cooler temperatures should be very beneficial, especially if they persist for some time. Moderate nighttime temperatures are good for most of the crops we grow," he said. "Below 72 in July is great news."

Larson said southern rust has been detected in southeast Mississippi fields and has traveled in the wind up the eastern side of the state.

"Rust is a bit of an issue, but we hope the corn will outrun the extent of that injury," he said. "As plants approach physiological maturity, we might see rust increase in later planted fields in the northeast part of the state."

Dennis Reginelli, an Extension area agronomic crop agent, said growers have been watching isolated hot spots in Noxubee County since just after the Fourth of July.

"Growers are judging the maturity of the corn and the amount of rust to determine if treatments are necessary," Reginelli said. "They are making field-to-field evaluations to determine if spray is needed based on maturity. Some fields can outrun the disease."

Reginelli said growers are treating fields for rust if rain or irrigation is likely to spread the spores.

Tom Allen, Extension plant pathologist, said Diplodia ear rot and, to a lesser extent, some other ear rots also have been observed in scattered fields.

"Ear rots are normal when we have extended periods of rainfall during pollination since the fungi that cause those can easily enter the ear during rain or periods of extended dew," Allen said. "Fungicides are not beneficial since application practices that rely on aerial applications would not be able to provide a fungicide at the point of infection." Allen said once the fungus has started to rot the ear, a fungicide would likely not arrest fungal development.

"Farmers should scout fields and focus on ear leaves that appear prematurely dried down or dead and observe corn ears for the presence of a white fungus growing on the ear itself," he said.

From Our Kitchen To Yours

Fresh Corn Recipes

*****

Creamed Corn

3 cups fresh corn kernels, divided
3/4 cup low-fat milk
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt

Place 2 cups corn, milk, cornstarch, and salt in a blender; blend until smooth. Transfer the puree to a medium saucepan, and add the remaining 1 cup corn. Cook over medium-high heat, stirring constantly, until the mixture simmers and thickens and the corn is tender, 5 to 7 minutes.

Golden Summer Squash & Corn Soup

1 tablespoon extra-virgin olive oil
1 medium shallot, chopped
2 medium summer squash (about 1 pound), diced
3 teaspoons chopped fresh herbs, such as thyme or oregano, divided
1 14-ounce can reduced-sodium chicken broth, or vegetable broth
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup fresh corn kernels (about 1 ear)
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/4 cup crumbled feta cheese

Heat oil in a large saucepan over medium heat. Add shallot and cook, stirring, 1 minute. Add squash and 1 teaspoon herbs and cook, stirring occasionally, until the squash starts to soften, 3 to 5 minutes. Stir in broth; bring to a boil. Reduce heat to a simmer and cook until the squash is soft and mostly translucent, about 5 minutes more. Transfer mixture to a blender and puree until smooth (use caution when pureeing hot liquids). Return soup to the pan and stir in corn. Remove soup from the heat; stir in lemon juice. Serve garnished with remaining 2 teaspoons herbs and feta cheese.

Lemon-Garlic Glazed Corn on the Cob

1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon extra-virgin olive oil
2 cloves garlic, minced
4 ears corn, husked
1/3 cup water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground pepper

Combine butter and oil in a large skillet and cook over medium heat. Add garlic, stir, and continue cooking until fragrant but not browned, about 1 minute. Add corn, water, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Cover pan and cook, gently shaking the pan occasionally to turn the cobs, for about 5 minutes. Uncover and continue cooking, turning the cobs occasionally, until all but a few tablespoons of liquid has evaporated, 2 to 4 minutes more. Serve the corn drizzled with the lemon-garlic pan sauce.

Cool Fresh Corn Relish

5 large ears corn (about 3 cups kernels)
1 1/2 cups finely diced sweet onion
3/4 cup finely chopped flat-leaf parsley (1-2 bunches)
3 tablespoons lime juice
2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
1/4 teaspoon salt

Microwave corn, in the husks, on high until steaming and just tender, 7 to 9 minutes. When cool enough to handle, remove the husks and silk. Alternatively, bring a large pot of water to a boil. Remove husks and silk from the corn and boil until just tender, about 5 minutes. Slice the kernels from the corn, using a sharp knife. Combine the corn kernels, onion, parsley, lime juice, oil and salt in a medium bowl. Serve at room temperature or cold.

Smoky Ham and Corn Salad

1/3 cup reduced-fat sour cream
2 tablespoons distilled white vinegar
1 teaspoon paprika, preferably smoked
1/4 teaspoon salt
8 cups mixed salad greens
1 medium tomato, diced
1 cup diced fresh corn kernels
1 cup croutons
3/4 cup diced ham (about 4 ounces)

Whisk sour cream, vinegar, paprika and salt in a large bowl. Add salad greens, tomato, corn, croutons and ham; toss to coat.

Goat Cheese Grits with Fresh Corn

3 cups water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
3/4 cup quick grits (not instant grits)
1 cup fresh corn kernels (about 1 large ear)
3/4 cup crumbled goat cheese (3 ounces), divided
1/4 cup thinly sliced fresh chives or scallion greens

Bring water, salt and pepper to a boil in a large saucepan. Slowly pour in grits, stirring constantly. Stir in corn; return to a simmer. Reduce heat to medium-low, cover and cook, stirring once or twice, until thickened, about 5 minutes. Remove grits from heat, stir in half the goat cheese and let stand for 5 minutes. Stir in chives (or scallions). Serve each portion sprinkled with some of the remaining cheese.

Some Corn for Popping

By Lise Foy, Director
MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

Recently, as we were planting a corn patch for our fall corn maze at the Ag Museum, I was asked by one member of the corn planting team, "Mrs. Lise, is popcorn corn? Or, is it somethings else?"

I love a teachable moment.

Popcorn is indeed corn. It is a specific variety of corn; Zea mays var. evarta. This variety of corn is able to 'pop' when heated because the kernels have a hard moisture-sealed hull and dense starchy interior. When exposed to heat, steam pressure builds inside the kernel, causing the 'pop'.

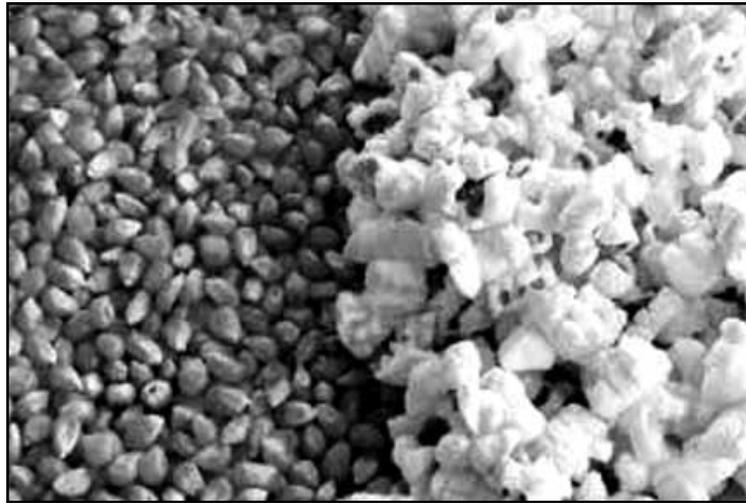

There are three basic varieties of corn. Dent corn, so-called because of the dent, or dimple, that forms in the top of each kernel as it begins to dry out. Also known as field corn, dent corn is used for animal feed, for making corn syrup, and for everything from fuel to biodegradable plastics. Dent corn is higher in starch and lower in sugar than sweet corn. This is the variety that ranks fourth in agricultural commodity production in Mississippi at $631 million.

Sweet corn is picked when immature, at what is called the "milk stage," and is enjoyed as a vegetable, rather than being dried for use as a grain. Sweet corn always has an even number of rows. Count them and see for yourself!

And, lastly, popcorn.

During the Great Depression, popcorn was fairly inexpensive at 5-10 cents a bag. Popcorn business thrived and became a source of income for many struggling farmers. During World War II, sugar rations diminished candy production, and Americans compensated by eating three times as much popcorn as they had before.

Fresh harvested popcorn will pop, but not very well because it has a high moisture content which makes it hard for the starch to explode. Unpopped kernels that remain after popping are called 'old maids' in the popcorn industry. Poor little things.

It is believed that the first use of wild and early cultivated corn was popping. Evidence of the first 'pop' did not appear until the 1820's. But, I love this fact. The oldest ears of popcorn ever found in the United States were discovered in the Bat Cave of west central New Mexico in 1948. Y'all recon the bats were eating popcorn?

I remember my Mamaw and Papaw making us popcorn in a black skillet in the fire place when we were little. Mamaw would shake the skillet, coated with butter, over the fire until the corn popped. It took constant motion, but that was the best popcorn I have ever tasted. So, to answer the question, yes, popcorn is corn.

True to our mission and era of interpretation (1920), the Ag Museum offers fresh popped corn at the General Store in Small Town, Mississippi, on a daily basis. Many school groups on field trips enjoy popcorn and glass bottle coke as part of their experience. We also have popcorn on the cob for sale at the General Store.

Popcorn on the cob

Makes: 1 large bowl
Prep Time: 30 seconds
Cook Time: 2 1/2-4 minutes

Ingredients

1 dried corn on the cob
1 small paper bag
salt
melted butter

Directions

Place your dried corn on the cob in the paper bag. Fold over the bag twice to secure the end. Place it in the microwave for 2 1/2 -4 minutes or until the popcorn stops popping. Transfer your popcorn into a bowl and toss with salt and melted butter.

The Ag Museum is located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson and is open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. In addition to our gallery and exhibit spaces, the Ag Museum also has room for your event, whether it's a meeting, a wedding, or other special event. Call (601) 432-4500 for information.

Bringing Home the Gold

By Gay McCann

Kalee McCann, the 18-year-old daughter of Joey & Gay McCann of Sebastopol, Mississippi, was one of five riders selected out of the United States to represent Team USA at the 2014 American Quarter Horse Association Youth World Cup. The event was held in Bryan/College Station, Texas, from July 3-13, 2014. Team USA consisted of a total of 10 team members, five riders, and five leadership members.

The AQHA Youth World Cup started in 1978 in Victoria, Australia, and is held every two years in different hosting countries. This year's competition included 16 countries, 110 youth, and 150 horses. To equal the playing field, each participating country draws for a set of five horses to be shown for the entire week. These five horses are used in the following classes: Showmanship, Horsemanship, Western Pleasure, Hunter Under Saddle, Hunt Seat Equitation, Western Riding, and Trail. Also, each team has two participants that compete in Cutting and Reining. Those horses are drawn on the day of the show and each rider is given 15 minutes to practice and ride the horse prior to showing the same day.

Kalee was selected by her team members to show in Showmanship, Hunt Seat Equitation, Cutting, and Reining. Successfully, Kalee brought home a 6th and 7th place metal in the Cutting, two bronze medals in the Reining, and two gold medals, along with a high point exhibitor buckle in the Hunt Seat Equitation.

Team USA was also successful in the other events, with members bringing home 22 individual medals and two high point exhibitor buckles. Team USA was the 1st place finishing team. All 10 team members received a gold medal and championship buckle, and of course, the team took home the coveted World Cup Trophy.

"The AQHA Youth World Cup is not only a competition; it is an opportunity for youth with similar interests to come together from all across the world. I now have friends that I would have never met had it not been for the AQHA Youth World Cup. The most memorable moment was when Team USA was announced as the 2014 AQHA Youth World Cup Champions," said Kalee McCann.

Kalee was also elected the 2014-2015 AQHYA President while attending the AQHYA Youth Excellence Seminar held in conjunction with the AQHA World Cup. As president, Kalee will be traveling the United States promoting the American Quarter Horse Association and their youth division.

Kalee is the granddaughter of Gary and Charlotte Chamblee of Philadelphia, Mississippi, and Dale & Rose McCann of Sebastopol, Mississippi.

Countries participating in the competition included Australia, Austria, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Germany, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Luxembourg, New Zealand, Norway, Switzerland, the United Kingdom, and the United States.

Madison County Holds First “Pasture Party” Seminar

By Judi Craddock
NRCS Farm Bill Program Specialist

“Good Management for Healthy, Happy Animals” was the theme for Madison County’s first pasture and grazing seminar held on July 17, 2014, at The Gin in Flora, Mississippi. Realizing a huge need for such an event in this area, the Madison County Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) and MSU Extension Service partnered together to host a “first of its kind” informational seminar. A total of 119 cattle farmers, landowners, and others came from 10 Mississippi counties including Hinds, Madison, Yazoo, Leflore, Kemper, Pearl River, Attala, Jefferson, Rankin, and Noxubee Counties—all to hear the latest information and guidance on pasture and calving management.

After enjoying a meal of some of the best barbecue beef around (provided by Madison County SWCD and MSU Extension), attendees listened to a wide range of topics by pasture experts, chemical company representatives, federal and state government officials, private organizations, and a veterinary specialist.

D. R. Bozeman, President of Madison County Cattlemen’s Association, opened the seminar followed by Jeff Turbville, County Executive Director with the Madison County Farm Service Agency. Matt McGowin, a pasture specialist with DuPont, gave an update on the best range and pasture management products and solutions available to improve quality, yield and sustainability of forage production by removing competitive and undesirable species and insects, as well as fencing and grazing strategies.

Sarah Holt, represented Nutrena Feed Company on the “Importance of Mineral Supplementation” for cattle diet, health, and nutrition leading to better production. You can visit (<http://www.nutrenaworld.com/>) for more information and a list of products.

Phillip Archie, Supervisory District Conservationist with USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Service, provided information on the new Farm Bill and the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) which addresses natural resource concerns such as soil erosion, water quality and quantity; and helps eligible farmers with financial and technical assistance.

Another outstanding presentation on “How to Better Manage Your Pasture and Grazing Lands” was given by Dr. Rocky Lemus, Associate Professor at Mississippi State University Extension Service. Emphasis on forage management, rotational grazing, stockpiling forage, soil fertility, stocking rates, electric fencing, pasture strategies, legumes in your pastures, establishment and renovation, etc., were just a few concerns addressed by Dr. Lemus. More detailed information is available at <http://msucare.com/crops/forages/index.html>.

The evening ended with a very enlightening “Calving Management” presentation and demonstration of techniques, troubleshooting and other factors involved in calving by Dr. Carla Huston, D.V.M. and Associate Professor in the Department of Pathobiology and Population Medicine. Her demonstration included what’s in the “obstetrical” kit that you should keep on hand, placement of OB chains, and proper use of a calf-jack.

This outstanding seminar was funded by the National Grazing Lands Coalition (formerly Grazing Lands Conservation Initiative or GLCI). Sponsors of this event were numerous. They included the Madison County Soil and Water Conservation District, Natural Resources Conservation Service, MSU Extension Service, Madison County Farm Service Agency, Mississippi Cattlemen’s Association, Madison County Cattlemen’s Association, Mississippi Soil and Water Conservation Commission, Flora Feed and Farm Supply, DuPont, Farm Bureau Insurance-Flora, Madison County Farm Bureau, and Nutrena.

Ending with door prizes and handouts, the first-time seminar was a huge success! Congratulations and many thanks to all those who organized and/or contributed to the best “Pasture Party” in Madison County.

More information is available at the Madison County NRCS Field Office located at 175-A Commercial Parkway in Canton, MS, or call 601-859-7091.
