Soybean Growers Hope to Harvest a Record Yield

By Susan Collins-Smith
MSU Ag Communications

Mississippi soybean growers are on track to harvest a record yield this year despite the cool, wet weather that kept most producers behind schedule by two to three weeks.

Trent Irby, Mississippi State University Extension Service soybean specialist, said growers are optimistic about potential yield this season. The state's average yield is currently projected to be 48 bushels per acre. The U.S. Department of Agriculture's August 12 Crop Production Report estimates Mississippi will harvest 2.2 million acres of soybeans.

"We have a varying range of crop maturity because of the differences in planting dates this year," Irby said. "But the acres that are approaching maturity look really good."

The USDA's June 30 acreage report estimated soybean farmers would harvest about 84 million acres nationwide. This forecast is pushing prices down, said Brian Williams, Extension agricultural economist.

"Prices hit a high of $13.27 per bushel on May 22 and were comparable to last year's prices through mid-summer," Williams said. "We had an extremely low amount of last year's soybean crop in storage. But now, as we are nearing harvest, we have record acreage and very good crop conditions driving prices back down."

September soybean futures are trading for $11.24 per bushel. Cash soybeans are trading for about $11.88 per bushel in Greenville, Mississippi, Williams said.

Yields are expected to be high despite the wet weather, which increased fungal disease pressure and made it difficult for some farmers to maintain a timely spray schedule.

MSU specialists keep growers abreast of current crop issues on the Mississippi Crop Situation Blog. On August 16, Tom Allen reported that frogeye leaf spot is the most widely observed disease in fields. Allen is an Extension plant pathologist and a Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station associate research professor.

He has observed frogeye leaf spot as far south as Lamar County and as far north as Tunica and Prentiss counties. Susceptible varieties are heavily infected, and one Lamar County field had a small area of severe blight.

Severely blighted foliage can result in decreased yields, and growers have had a hard time managing the disease in highly susceptible varieties.

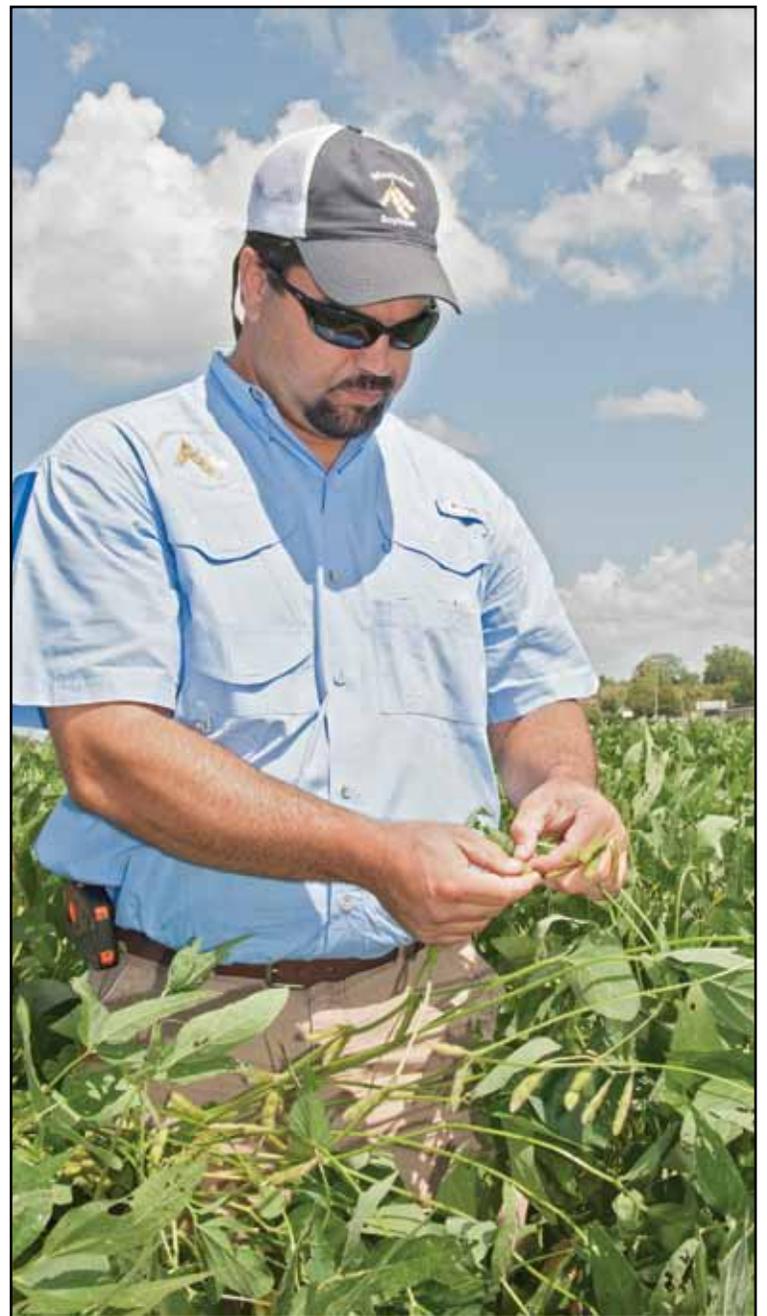

"If a fungicide is applied when a tremendous amount of disease is present or when environmental conditions are extremely conducive for disease development, the fungus will overwhelm the ability of the fungicide," Allen said. "Fungicides have slowed down the disease on sensitive varieties, but that is about all we can hope for in these varieties."

Allen identified Sudden Death Syndrome in eastern Bolivar County on August 14. He also found a soybean variety infected with stem canker in a strip trial in the Delta on the same day.

As of August 16, soybean rust has not been detected in Mississippi. However, it has been observed as far north as Prattville, Alabama, and in several Louisiana parishes, Allen said.

Angus Catchot, Extension entomology specialist, said insect pressure has been light for the early-planted crop. Late-planted beans and double-crop acres have required treatment for bollworm. As the crop gets closer to harvest, farmers will likely see more pests arrive.

"Recently, bean leaf beetles have really picked up and are requiring treatment in many areas of the Delta," Catchot said. "In coming weeks, we anticipate soybean loopers will show up on the later-planted beans and require treatment."

Spice up Your Cooking with Soy

Soy Pumpkin Bread

2/3 cup soy flour, sifted
1 cup all-purpose flour, sifted
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
3/4 teaspoon baking soda
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon cloves, ground
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, ground
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup vegetable shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
3/4 cup canned pumpkin
2 tablespoons water

Sift and measure soy flour and all-purpose flour. Measure other dry ingredients except sugar, and sift together with flour; set aside. Cream shortening and add sugar gradually, creaming well. Add eggs and beat until light. Blend in pumpkin and water. Add dry ingredients in two portions, blending well after each addition. Pour batter into a greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350° F for 65-70 minutes. Remove loaf from pan immediately and cool on a wire rack.

Harvest Time Soy Soup

1 1/2 cups cooked soybeans, drained
2 cups water
1 3/4 cups chicken broth (low sodium or homemade)
1/4 cup carrot, chopped
1/4 cup onion, chopped
1 tomato, chopped
2 tablespoons fresh thyme*
2 tablespoons fresh basil*
1/2 teaspoon lemon zest peel, grated
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon dried parsley, minced
1/4 cup celery, chopped
1 garlic clove, minced

Presoak and cook the soybeans. Combine all of the ingredients and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 30 minutes; stir occasionally. Cook until vegetables are a tender crisp. Salt and pepper to taste. *Dried thyme and basil may be substituted.

Edamame Hummus Recipe

2 cups edamame, shelled and cooked according to package directions
1/4 cup soybean oil
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons garlic, chopped
3/4 teaspoon, ground
1/2 teaspoon salt

Puree edamame, oil, lemon juice, garlic, cumin and salt in a food processor for 30 seconds, scraping sides twice, until almost smooth. Cover and refrigerate until ready to serve. Serve with pita triangles, crackers, baguette, or raw vegetables.

Baked Rice Pudding

1/2 cup dried cherries
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 cups plain or vanilla soy milk
1/4 cup maple syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs, lightly beaten
1 1/2 cups cooked brown rice
1/2 cup dried currants

Preheat oven to 350° F. Generously coat an 8-cup pan with cooking spray. In a small bowl, cover the cherries with hot water. Soak until they are soft, about 10 minutes; drain and set aside. Place the cornstarch in a large bowl. Whisk in soy milk, maple syrup, and vanilla. Beat in the eggs until well mixed. Stir the rice, soaked cherries, and the currants into soy milk mixture. Pour into the prepared baking dish. Set a large, deep pan (such as a roasting pan) on a rack in the center of the oven. Set the pan with the pudding in the center of the larger pan. Pour hot water into the large pan until the level of the water is halfway up the sides of the pan containing the pudding. Bake until a knife inserted in the center of the pudding comes out clean, about one hour and 15 minutes. Cool to lukewarm and serve, or cool completely, cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate. This pudding will remain fresh for 3 to 4 days when refrigerated.

Whole Grain Hot Pepper Corn Muffins

1 cup yellow corn meal
1 cup white whole-wheat flour
1/3 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup plain soy milk or dairy milk
1/3 cup soybean oil (commonly labeled vegetable oil)
1 large egg, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon red pepper flakes

Preheat oven to 375° F. Grease 10 muffin cups or 10 small paper baking molds. Combine cornmeal, flour, sugar, baking powder and salt in a large bowl. Whisk soy milk, soybean oil and egg in small bowl. Pour into cornmeal mixture and stir until just blended. Stir in red pepper flakes. Spoon batter into prepared muffin cups or paper liners filling each 1/2 full. Bake for 18 to 22 minutes or until toothpick inserted into center comes out clean.

Livestock Producers Urged to Enroll in Disaster Assistance Program by October 1

By Sarah Scanlon
Deputy Director
Office of External &
Intergovernmental Affairs - USDA

Congressionally Mandated Payment Reductions to Take Effect at Beginning of New Fiscal Year

Ranchers Applying for LFP Support Who Have Scheduled Appointments by September 30th Will not be Impacted

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is encouraging producers who have suffered eligible disaster-related losses to act to secure assistance by September 30, 2014, as congressionally mandated payment reductions will take place for producers who have not acted before that date. Livestock producers that have experienced grazing losses since October 2011 and may be eligible for benefits but have not yet contacted their local Farm Service Agency (FSA) office should do so as soon as possible.

The Budget Control Act passed by Congress in 2011 requires USDA to implement reductions of 7.3 percent to the Livestock Forage Disaster Program (LFP) in the new fiscal year, which begins October 1, 2014. However, producers seeking LFP support who have scheduled appointments with their local FSA office before October 1, even if the appointment occurs after October 1, will not see reductions in the amount of disaster relief they receive.

USDA is encouraging producers to register, request an appointment or begin a Livestock Forage Disaster Program application with their county FSA office before October 1, 2014, to lock in the current zero percent sequestration rate. As an additional aid to qualified producers applying for LFP, the Farm Service's Agency has developed an online registration that enables farmers and ranchers to put their names on an electronic list before the deadline to avoid reductions in their disaster assistance. This is an alternative to visiting or contacting the county office. To place a name on the Livestock Forage Disaster Program list online, visit <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/disaster-register>.

Producers who already contacted the county office and have an appointment scheduled need do nothing more.

"In just four months since disaster assistance enrollments began, we've processed 240,000 applications to help farmers and ranchers who suffered losses," said Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack. "Eligible producers who have not yet contacted their local FSA office should stop by or call their local FSA office, or sign up online before October 1 when congressionally mandated payment reductions take effect. This will ensure they receive as much financial assistance as possible."

The Livestock Indemnity Program, the Tree Assistance Program, and the Noninsured Disaster Assistance Program Frost Freeze payments will also be cut by 7.3 percent on October 1, 2014. Unlike the Livestock Forage Disaster Program, applications for these programs must be fully completed by September 30. FSA offices will prioritize these applications, but as the full application process can take several days or more to complete, producers are encouraged to begin the application process as soon as possible.

The Livestock Forage Disaster Program compensates eligible livestock producers who suffered grazing losses due to drought or fire between October 1, 2011 and December 31, 2014. Eligible livestock includes alpacas, beef cattle, buffalo, beefalo, dairy cattle, deer, elk, emus, equine, goats, llamas, poultry, reindeer, sheep, or swine that have been or would have been grazing the eligible grazing land or pastureland. Producers forced to liquidate their livestock may also be eligible for program benefits.

Additionally, the 2014 Farm Bill eliminated the risk management purchase requirement. Livestock producers are no longer required to purchase coverage under the federal crop insurance program or Non-insured Crop Disaster Assistance Program to be eligible for Livestock Forage Disaster Program assistance.

To learn more about USDA disaster relief program, producers can review the 2014 Farm Bill fact sheet at www.fsa.usda.gov/farmland, the LFP program fact sheet, <http://go.usa.gov/5JTk>, or contact their local FSA office.

The Livestock Forage Disaster Program was made possible through the 2014 Farm Bill, which builds on historic economic gains in rural America over the past five years, while achieving meaningful reform and billions of dollars in savings for the taxpayer. Since enactment, USDA has made significant progress to implement each provision of this critical legislation, including providing disaster relief to farmers and ranchers; strengthening risk management tools; expanding access to rural credit; funding critical research; establishing innovative public-private conservation partnerships; developing new markets for rural-made products; and investing in infrastructure, housing and community facilities to help improve quality of life in rural America. A Light Bulb in Rural Mississippi

By Lise Foy, Director
MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

Haley Fisackerly, President of Entergy Mississippi, was the speaker at the Jackson Rotary Club recently. As he discussed the current decrease of energy use, cost per kilowatt hour, and the role of infrastructure in economic development and marketability of industrial sites, my mind, as usual, was spinning toward the past.

He commented about how much pull a plasma TV uses. That got me going. How many of us stop to consider where the electricity in the plugs in our houses comes from? I'm just as guilty as the next guy; flip the switch and the light comes on. There is no thought or thank you required. But, consider this question. How did the 'grid' come to be?

President Franklin D. Roosevelt created the Rural Electrification Administration (REA) in 1935. His slogan was 'Let's electrify every farm home in America at rates people can afford to pay.' In 1935, less than one percent of rural Mississippi had electricity. The REA was a lending agency established to employ the American pioneer spirit of working together for common welfare. The REA created a method to form rural electric cooperatives, private enterprises, owned and operated by the people they serve using borrowed funds appropriated annually by Congress and repaid with interest.

The intent was to get electricity to the rural farmer. And, so it was the farmers who built the rural grid, and Mississippi lead the way for the nation.

Even before President Roosevelt's executive order, Alcorn County Electric Power Association in Corinth was the nation's first rural electric cooperative, chartered January 17, 1934. Monroe County Electric Power Association in Amory was the nation's first REA to energize its system on March 17, 1936. By 1945, nineteen percent of farms in Mississippi had electricity.

The extension of electric service to farms had a dramatic impact on rural life. The coming of electric power to Mississippi farms was symbolic of the revolution that occurred in Mississippi agriculture in the years after 1945. The shift from the kerosene lamp of the past to the electric bulb had its parallel in every facet of farming. The list of farm uses of electricity included dairy equipment like cream separators, milking machines and churns; poultry equipment like incubator; meal and feed equipment like grinders and balers; as well as household equipment including lights, radios, refrigerators, stoves, washing machines, sewing machines, and water heaters.

There is an exhibit in the Heritage Center Gallery at the Ag Museum that showcases the era of electrification in Mississippi. It falls right between the rail era and the era of mechanization on the tour. The exhibit captures a moment in our past when agriculture was becoming increasing more efficient, and production became larger scale operations with larger profit margins thanks to electricity.

I have a family connection to the electric power industry through the men in my life. My Daddy sold herbicides used to keep the power line right-of-ways clear of brush, one brother is an electrical engineer with a rural electric power association, one brother sells transformers and once worked on a line crew with a rural electric power association, and my husband flies a helicopter applying herbicides to the right-of-ways to keep them clear.

My Daddy put me in touch with a gentleman named Bill Cannon who retired from Mississippi Power & Light in 1989. (MP&L-now Entergy- is an investor owned utility as opposed to a co-op, but his story is nonetheless part of how we all got electricity.) He is 86 years old and played quite a role in this story. He was hired on contract as a young man to drive his father's mule pulling a spool of wire across Neshoba County. The line crew followed him digging holes, setting poles, and putting the wire up on the insulators. He made the point that this work was done through mud, water, and anything else they had to cross. All the work was done by hand. There were no bucket trucks.

He did this for three months for $4.00 a day. The mule was paid $5.00 a day.

He no doubt lived through a time my brother tells about that his mentors told him about. There was a drive, desire, and pride in their work. The longest day of the year for the electric power workers would be Christmas Eve. They tried to get as many people 'on' for Christmas as they could.

My brother made two comments about this. "I felt like I missed something." What he meant was that he wasn't part of building the rural 'grid', he maintains it. The second comment was, "Our generation is the bridge between the people who built the infrastructure and the generation who is using it." We are the children or maybe grandchildren who were passed the baton, so to speak. We learned from those who built it and should feel compelled to tell the next generation.

Daddy talks about remembering the line being run down Highway 407, to the small dairy farm where he grew up. People were so thankful and would invite the men working on the lines into their houses to eat and bring them something cold to drink.

We tend to be mad now a day when we are 'off' for an hour or two.

Rural Electrification in Mississippi, written by Winnie Ellis Phillips, tells the story of this era from 1934-1970. It is full of politics and amazing stories about Mississippians. It is my source for the facts I have shared here. The last paragraph reads, "No one knows better than pioneer rural electric cooperatives corporation members, that almost 2,000 years ago the feeding of the 5,000 began when a little boy gave the food he had - five loaves of bread and two fishes. The giant power structure of rural electrification today had almost as humble a beginning and is no less a miracle."

The Ag Museum is located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson and is open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. In addition to our gallery and exhibit spaces, the Ag Museum also has room for your event, whether it's a meeting, a wedding, or other special event. 2014 Mississippi Hay Contest

Hay and baleage samples will be evaluated in the following categories:

1. Warm-season Perennial Grass Hay (e.g. bermudagrass and bahiagrass).
2. Mixed, Annual Grass, or Other hay (e.g. clover/tall fescue, clover/annual ryegrass, millet, annual ryegrass, sorghum-sudangrass, sudangrass, crabgrass, tallfescue/bermudagrass, bermudagrass/bahiagrass/dallisgrass).
3. Grass Baleage (high moisture grass forage ensiled in wrapped bales).

Hay entries will be judged using NIR testing procedures by the MSU Forage Quality Lab. The entries will be ranked using the Relative Forage Quality (RFQ) evaluation system, which accounts for protein, energy, and fiber digestibility.

Lab analysis samples must be taken from a single lot of hay and from a minimum of 5-10 randomly sampled square or round bales (total of 20 cores). Forage samples for analysis and contest entry (display) must be collected using a hay probe.

To qualify for entry to the 2014 Mississippi Hay Contest, the producer and submitting Extension Agent must complete the Contest Entry Form. The form along with the hay sample and a $15.00 check made payable to MSU Forage Program, must be submitted simultaneously to:

The Mississippi Market Bulletin is an important way for the Department to disseminate news and information about issues affecting Mississippi's agriculture industry and the Department's operations.

Through its classified advertising section, the Bulletin provides a forum for Mississippi residents to buy and sell agricultural related items while also giving statewide exposure to small farmers who might not normally have the economic resources for such widespread advertising. The Bulletin does not publish commercial or display ads and all items offered for sale must have been produced, raised, grown or operated on the seller's property. Businesses, corporations, dealerships, brokers or other commercial enterprises are not allowed to advertise in the Mississippi Market Bulletin.

- All listings must be agriculture related (raised, grown, produced or operated on your farm). At the top of your ad, write the category that the ad should be listed under. We reserve the right to edit, revise or reject each ad. Please print or type your ad.

Commissioner Hyde-Smith Takes Step to Help Protect Mississippi's Bee Industry

By Abby Gholston
Communication and Policy Advisor
Bureau of Plant Industry - MDAC

Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce, Cindy Hyde-Smith announced that the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has given approval of an emergency exemption that will allow Mississippi beekeepers access to a miticide to help control varroa mite infestations in honeybee colonies.

The product receiving emergency exemption under Section 18 of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA) is manufactured by BetaTec Hop Products. HopGuard® II uses cardboard strips treated with potassium salt of hop beta acids to control varroa mite infestations. The strips are inserted into honeybee colonies or packages of adult worker bees prior to installation in a honey bee colony.

The destructive varroa mite is a honeybee parasite that feeds on adult bees and developing brood. If left untreated, varroa mites can lead to deformation of bees and potential loss of the entire colony affected.

The Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce's Bureau of Plant Industry has authority under Section 18 of FIFRA to obtain an exemption from EPA for a non-labeled use of a pesticide if significant losses of an agricultural commodity are likely or if labeled products are not available or effective. This exemption for HopGuard® II expires December 31, 2014.

For additional information, beekeepers may contact the Bureau of Plant Industry at (662) 325-3390 or toll-free at 1-888-257-1285.

Mississippi Farmers Market Transitions to Fall Schedule

By Chaille Clements
Communications and
Marketing Specialist - MDAC

As the season of bountiful summer produce begins to wind down, the Mississippi Farmers Market will adjust its hours of operation in order to accommodate farmers' produce availability. The Market transitioned to its fall schedule the last week of August. Fall operating hours are Thursdays and Saturdays from 8:00 a.m. – 2:00 p.m.

During this transitional period as summer crops are phasing out and fall crops are just starting to be harvested, shoppers can find a unique variety of produce at the Mississippi Farmers Market including, but certainly not limited to, many types of tomatoes, squash, okra, eggplant, muscadines, figs, pecans, and sweet potatoes. All of the delicious, locally-grown seasonal produce is in addition to the Market's year-round dairy, honey, specialty food, and artisan vendors as well as the Market's hydroponic growers who have the ability to provide shoppers with fresh produce through all seasons.

The Mississippi Farmers Market is located at 929 High Street adjacent to the Fairgrounds. For more information, call (601) 354-6573, download the Mississippi Farmers Market mobile app on your Apple or Android device, visit www.msfarmersmarket.com, or "Like" the Mississippi Farmers Market on Facebook.

Sweet potatoes and squash are a few of the seasonal items shoppers will find at the Mississippi Farmers Market which is now open Thursdays and Saturdays from 8:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m. During this transitional period as summer crops are phasing out and fall crops are just starting to be harvested, shoppers will find a unique variety of produce at the Market.

2014 Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation Teacher of the Year

By Glynda Phillips, Editor
Mississippi Farm Country
Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation

Todd Willis, third-grade math, science, and social studies teacher at Pleasant Hill Elementary School in Olive Branch, Mississippi, was recently named the 2014 Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation (MFBF) Teacher of the Year.

When you visit his classroom, you will discover that he has brought the outdoors inside. His students feed, water, handle, and observe a turtle, a frog, a gecko, a bearded dragon, guppies, baby chicks, mice, guinea pigs, and meal worms. Students must answer questions about the critters and about the garden they tend right outside their classroom window.

They grow plants from seeds under a grow light then transplant them into containers that form a large outdoor "garden" consisting of potatoes, onions, strawberries, cabbage, peppers, tomatoes, and flowers. Each student is assigned a number, and each container is labeled with one of those numbers. The kids also learn to identify birds, insects, and bird calls. They have a chicken coop with chickens that lay eggs. They even tend bottled calves.

"I've wanted to teach my whole life, and I just didn't listen to my heart," Todd said. "For many years, I worked in banking and real estate. When my wife and I began homeschooling our four children, who were showing dairy cows and dairy goats in 4-H, I realized how much I wanted to teach other kids about nature and farm life in a classroom setting." So, Todd went back to school at night and earned his master's degree. After working as a substitute teacher for a while, he was offered a full-time teaching position at Pleasant Hill.

"I grew up on a farm, so I have a deep love and appreciation for farming," Todd said. "It was natural that I would want my students to experience farm life, too. We have let the world out-teach us and spread false information about farming. I hope that what I am doing will go a long way toward correcting that misinformation."

Todd is wanting to expand their garden to incorporate row crops and more vegetables, but to achieve this, they will need a small tractor. If you would like to donate or contribute to a small tractor for their class, please contact Todd at 901-634-6555.
