Fall Mums Provide an Instant, Colorful Impact

By Gary R. Bachman
MSU Horticulturist
Coastal Research
& Extension Center

Nature always gives us signals as seasons change. When summer starts to shift toward fall, the leaves begin to change colors. Another sure sign that fall is right around the corner is the arrival of colorful and beautiful fall mums in garden centers.

Now is the time to plan how and where to use these plants effectively around your home and landscape. A newer trend for growers is to mix colors in containers, so be ready for even more decisions.

It's easy to incorporate fall garden mums into the landscape. Their many warm colors fit into almost any home color scheme. They seem to have hundreds of flowers, so their impact is immediate.

I consider fall mums a useful bridge between the summer and fall seasons. After the hot summer we ended up with, summer annuals are looking pretty rough, and fall annuals aren't quite ready yet. Fall mums are an easy and reliable display of color for our current in-between period.

Choose mums in full flower to have an instant impact on any autumn get-together or event. I like to select plants that still have tight buds and are just starting to show color. This increases their period of showy display as the buds begin to open after they are in my yard.

Your local garden center will have a wide variety of pot sizes available. Using 4-inch pots is an easy way to refresh a combination container that is tired from the long summer. A great combination is Gulf Muhly grass -- the 2010 Mississippi Medalion native winner -- surrounded by rusty-orange fall mums. Or you can create a new combination container with mums as the fillers and corkscrew willow stems as the thriller component.

Pot sizes of 10 inches, 12 inches, or larger work well for big projects or stand-alone specimens. Always check with your local garden center for size availability. If they don't have mums in the size you want, many can order them for you and have them ready in a couple of days.

My favorite use for fall garden mums is to display them on the front porch. When combined with a decorative ceramic container, their visual impact can be dramatic. There is no need to transplant; just slip the mum, container and all, into the larger pot. If you are worried about the weight of some ceramic pots, choose one of the fabulous foam and plastic pots that really look like their heavier cousins.

A word of caution is needed: Always keep the soil consistently moist for mums. If the containers dry out, the flower show will quickly fade away.

Fall mums are usually treated as seasonal annuals. Gardeners remove them when the flowers have faded and replace them with the next season's flowers. But have you considered transplanting them into your garden when the flowers fade?

Most of our fall mums have been bred for their colors and are not cold-hardy, even in coastal Mississippi. Several years ago, I transplanted a range of gorgeous colors into my garden, and only a purple variety over-wintered successfully.

So don't expect too much, but consider giving it a try. I think transplanting into the garden is worthwhile since you compost the plants anyway. Try planting them in a raised bed for better soil drainage in the winter months. After the first freeze, cut the stems back and mulch with a layer of pine straw. Next spring, pull back the pine straw and take a look for signs of new growth.

If they survived, you have a new plant to enjoy in your garden.

Fall Garden Fest Set for October 17-18

By Susan Collins-Smith
MSU Ag Communications

Leisure gardeners and horticulture professionals are invited to attend the Southeast's most popular gardening show October 17 and 18 at the Mississippi State University Truck Crops Experiment Station.

The Fall Flower & Garden Fest draws more than 5,000 people to Crystal Springs each year to get the latest recommendations for plants and gardening techniques. Specialists with the MSU Extension Service and Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station, Master Gardeners, and others will offer information on native plants in the landscape, fruit and vegetable crops for the home, rain barrel construction, flower arrangements, herb use, and more.

Event hours are from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. both days. Educational seminars begin at 9:30 each morning. Admission and parking are free. Food and drinks will be available from vendors both days.

The two-day event is themed

"Healthy Living-Healthy Gardening." The Let's Go Walking Mississippi initiative will kick off the fest with a one-mile fun walk at 9:30 a.m. October 17.

MSU specialists will conduct informational walking tours of the demonstration gardens throughout the event. Topics include gardening accessibility, pond management, high tunnels, landscape plants, insect identification, plant disease, home lawn management, flower gardening, vegetable gardening, and herb gardening. Wagon tours of the 175-acre research site also will be offered. More than 60 vendors will have plants, yard art, and garden tools for sale.

Smartphone users can download an application with complete schedule information at <http://guidebook.com/gffgfest>.

From Our Kitchen To Yours

Great Fall Recipes

*****

Butter-Pecan Mashed Sweet Potatoes

4 sweet potatoes – about 2 pounds
1 1/2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons fat-free milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup chopped pecans – toasted

Pierce each potato with a fork 3 to 4 times on each side. Wrap each potato in a damp paper towel. Microwave on HIGH 8 minutes, turning after 4 minutes. Cool slightly. Cut potatoes in half; scoop pulp into a bowl. Mash pulp. Heat butter in a small saucepan over medium heat; cook 3 minutes or until browned. Stir butter, milk, and salt into potato pulp. Top with pecans.

Savory Baked Apples

2/3 cup fat-free, lower sodium chicken broth
1/3 cup uncooked brown rice
1/3 cup dried cranberries
1/3 cup apple cider
4 large Rome apples – cored
1 1/2 tablespoons butter – melted & divided
1 4-ounce link sweet Italian sausage – casings removed
3/4 cup finely chopped yellow onion
1/3 cup finely chopped carrot
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon ground red pepper
3 garlic cloves, minced
1/4 cup chopped walnuts – toasted
3 tablespoons minced green onions
3/4 teaspoon kosher salt
1/2 teaspoon dried rubbed sage
1/2 cup shredded Swiss cheese

Preheat oven to 350°. Bring broth to a boil in a saucepan. Stir in rice. Cover, reduce heat, and simmer 50 minutes. Remove rice from heat, and let stand 10 minutes. Combine cranberries and cider in a microwave-safe bowl; microwave on HIGH 1 minute. Let stand for 10 minutes. Add mixture to rice. Using a small spoon, carefully scoop out centers of apples, leaving a 1/2-inch-thick shell, and chop apple flesh. Brush the inside of apples with 1 tablespoon butter. Place apples on a baking sheet, and bake at 350° for 25 minutes or until just tender. Preheat broiler to high. Heat a large skillet over medium-high heat. Add sausage and sauté 5 minutes, stirring to crumble. Remove from pan; drain. Wipe skillet, and melt remaining butter in pan. Add chopped apple, yellow onion, carrot, cinnamon, and red pepper; sauté 4 minutes. Add garlic; sauté for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Add sausage, onion mixture, walnuts, green onions, salt, and sage to rice; toss. Divide rice mixture evenly among apples; top with cheese. Broil apples for 5 minutes or until golden.

Pumpkin Pie Pudding

1/2 cup sugar – divided
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 3/4 cups 1% low-fat milk
1 large egg
1/2 cup canned unsweetened pumpkin
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg
Cooking spray
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
Dash of salt
1/4 cup heavy whipping cream

Combine 6 tablespoons sugar and 2 tablespoons cornstarch in a medium saucepan over medium heat. Combine milk and egg, stirring well with a whisk. Gradually add milk mixture to sugar mixture, stirring constantly, and bring to a boil. Cook for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Combine pumpkin, vanilla extract, cinnamon, salt, and nutmeg in a bowl, stirring well, slowly add pumpkin mixture to milk mixture, whisking constantly. Place pan over low heat, and cook for 3 minutes or until thoroughly heated, stirring constantly (do not boil). Divide pudding evenly among 4 dessert bowls, and cover surface of pudding with plastic wrap; chill. Line a baking sheet with foil, and coat foil with cooking spray. Place the remaining 2 tablespoons sugar, walnuts, and a dash of salt in a small nonstick skillet; cook over low heat until sugar dissolves and is golden (about 3 minutes), stirring frequently to coat nuts. Transfer mixture to prepared baking sheet, and cool completely. Coarsely chop nuts. Place cream in a bowl. Beat with mixer at high speed until stiff peaks form. Top each serving with 2 tablespoons whipped cream and about 1 tablespoon nuts.

Potato-Apple Latkes

6 cups shredded peeled Yukon gold potatoes – about 2 pounds
2 cups shredded Gala or Honeycrisp apples – about 2 medium
1 1/2 teaspoons salt – divided
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
2.25 ounces all-purpose flour – about 1/2 cup
6 tablespoons canola oil – divided
1 teaspoon turbinado or granulated sugar

Combine potatoes, apples, and 1 teaspoon salt in a colander. Let stand 20 minutes, pressing occasionally with the back of a spoon until barely moist. Combine potato mixture, remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt, and pepper in a large bowl. Weigh or lightly spoon flour into a dry measuring cup; level with a knife. Add flour to potato mixture; toss well to combine. Heat a 12-inch nonstick skillet over medium-high heat. Add 1 1/2 tablespoons oil to pan, swirling to coat. Add potato mixture in 1/3-cupful's to pan to form 4 latkes; flatten slightly. Cook 6 minutes on each side or until golden brown. Remove latkes from pan; keep warm. Repeat procedure 3 more times with remaining oil and potato mixture. Sprinkle latkes with sugar.

It's Fall, Y'All!

By Lise Foy, Director
MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

While springtime and garden planting season run a very close second, fall is my absolute favorite time of year! It brings to mind memories of raking piles of leaves in the yard and jumping in them with old dog Rex. It's time for the last round of grass mowing for the year and a change of menu on the supper table. It's time for football, hayrides, and bonfires. Most of all, the cooler temperatures and color of the sky just make me happy!

At the Ag Museum, fall is full of special events including Pumpkin Adventure during the month of October and Small Town Harvest Festival in November.

Pumpkin Adventure includes a hayride, a cookie with milk, a tour of the Heritage Center Gallery, and a pie pumpkin to take home. This year the Ag Museum also has a corn maze! Visitors who attempt the maze will need to study the following questions to navigate each turn:

1. Who is the current Commissioner of Agriculture? Jim Buck Ross or Cindy Hyde-Smith
2. What year did the Ag Museum open? 1972, 1983, or 2000
3. What is Mississippi's #1 Agricultural commodity? Poultry or Forestry
4. How many stomachs does a cow have? 4 or 1
5. Where do eggs come from? Chickens or Kroger
6. What is the name of a baby goat? Goatling or Kid

If you answer incorrectly, you will find a dead-end in the corn; turn around.

Harvest Festival includes demonstrations of the Bisland Cotton Gin, the cane mill, the saw mill, and blacksmithing. Visitors can tour the Heritage Center Gallery, explore Small Town, Mississippi, and enjoy a biscuit with syrup on a hayride. It is a wonderful two weeks when Small Town comes to life!

During your next visit to the Ag Museum, in addition to taking part in all of the festivities of fall, you will also see some exciting new developments on the campus.

The newly renovated Nature Trail at the Ag Museum has brand new signage thanks to funding assistance of the Federal Highway Administration's Recreational Trails Program administered by the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries & Parks. Visitors can stroll along the Nature Trail and learn about twenty-one species of trees, pasture management, and the history of the forestry industry in Mississippi.

The trail connects to the barnyard area where you can visit with Rudy, our resident Black Angus beef exhibit made possible by the Mississippi Beef Council. Here you will see an educational sign telling the Mississippi cattle story.

At the other end of the Nature Trail, adjacent to the Fortenberry-Parkman Farmstead, you will find the Ag Museum Victory Garden and Specialty Crops Education Garden. Funds for this project were provided through the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce, USDA Specialty Crop Grant Program.

Our garden includes a variety of Specialty Crops that can be grown in Mississippi. The crops we will grow here will help visitors make the connection from soil and seed to the dinner plate. Interesting features are a muscadine arbor, potato tuber viewer boxes, three herb walls, and a vermicompost (worm dig) station in addition to the raised bed planters we installed earlier in the year sponsored by the Mississippi Sustainable Agriculture Network.

Thanks to all of our partners who are helping us to fulfill our mission to create an environment that communicates the value of past and present Mississippi agricultural lifestyles, relationships, and practices and their relevance to the future of all people.

As soon as the leaves have fallen at my house, we will be raking some leaves so my twin girls (14 months old now) and Dixie Dog can jump in the piles. Some memories just need to be relived.

The Ag Museum is located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson and is open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. In addition to our gallery and exhibit spaces, the Ag Museum also has room for your event, whether it's a meeting, a wedding, or other special event. # State 2014 Hay Production May Not Satisfy Demand

By Bonnie Coblentz
MSU Ag Communications

High demand for hay last winter, a wet spring, and heavy insect pressure have all challenged the state's pastureland, which means hay may be scarce this winter.

Rocky Lemus, forage specialist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service, said these factors pushed the state's hay inventories 20 percent lower than the three-year average.

"The state had about a 10 percent loss in forage stands from a combination of cold weather and low soil nutrients, especially potassium, to help plants and root systems cope with cold weather," Lemus said. "Hay stocks were low coming into the summer, and we have only had three hay harvests this year."

The first cutting of the year was delayed by two weeks because of cold, wet weather. More recently, hot, dry weather limited pasture growth.

"There will be hay available to sustain on-farm feeding, but the hay inventory for commercial sale is very low at this point," Lemus said. "Extreme cold temperatures during the last few winters have decreased the grazing potential of annual ryegrass or small grains, leaving producers scrambling for extra hay to meet the daily feeding requirements of their cattle."

John Michael Riley, Extension agricultural economist, said hay stocks remain limited, and poor 2014 production will keep supplies tight moving into winter.

"Rains and insect pressure from armyworms have current hay production estimates for Mississippi at 1.38 million tons, their lowest since 2000," he said.

Riley said he expects demand for hay this winter will be above average because of the limited supplies coming into the growing season and less-than-ideal summer production.

In 2013, hay production was valued at $157 million, which was 25 percent higher than the five-year average value. Hay is mostly sold locally, and prices vary widely.

"Hit-or-miss rains can make supply in one spot very different from another," Riley said. "In general, recent hay prices have ranged from $40 to $120 per ton."

As the weather starts to turn cooler, summer perennial grasses decrease forage production and producers start to plant annual ryegrass for winter grazing.

"Although stockpiled forages could be an alternative to close the gap until ryegrass is ready for grazing, producers rely heavily on hay to accomplish this task," Lemus said.

Lemus urged producers preparing for annual ryegrass planting to remember that high humidity coupled with cooler temperatures can allow blast to develop and affect new seedlings. There is management help from a new fungicide labeled for blast control in forages.

Tracy Robertson, Carroll County Extension coordinator, said hay producers in her area were trying to get in one more cutting in mid-September.

"Pasture conditions have become dry and dusty as grass continues to become brittle and slow-growing without rain," Robertson said. "We're hoping for some rain soon to help the grass green up and grow a little more for the cattle and livestock that we have."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reported on September 14 that 92 percent of the state's hay crop had been harvested. Of this, they projected that 10 percent was in excellent condition and 83 percent in fair or good condition.

Blake Layton, Extension entomologist, said armyworm populations have been high in Mississippi since early June and caused significant losses in bermudagrass hay fields. Central and south Mississippi were the hardest hit.

"We're to the point now where it's so late in the year that it's not a huge issue in bermudagrass hayfields," Layton said. "The key caution is for those who are planting winter grazing to watch closely. Sometimes when there have been heavy populations of armyworms on hay fields, they can hang around, and if it's warm enough, they can damage the seedling winter grazing grass that people are planting right now."

Layton urged producers to address fall armyworm problems as soon as they appear.

"A heavy infestation can defoliate a field just before it is time to cut," he said. "They are less of a threat to pastures, but they can sometimes cause problems. Per acre cost of control is less than the value of one or two square bales of hay, but losses to heavy infestations that go untreated can approach 100 percent."

Field Day Planned for Forages, Beef

By Linda Breazeale
MSU Ag Communications

Beef and forage producers will receive current recommendations on a variety of topics influencing production success at a field day on October 25.

The 2014 Fall Beef Cattle and Forage Field Day will begin at 9 a.m. on that Saturday at the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station's Prairie Research Unit in Monroe County. A sponsored lunch will conclude the event.

MAFES researchers and Mississippi State University Extension Service agents and specialists will provide information on nutrition, marketing and other issues related to beef production.

Topics on the schedule include updates on research at Prairie addressing native grasses, cattle teeth as age indicators, and salt and mineral supplements. Speakers will provide an overview of the Mississippi cattle auction market price study. Visitors will be able to tour the feeding behavior facilities and see demonstrations on the use of global positioning systems for forage seeding. Additional topics include cattle growth implant studies and renovating pastures with row crops.

The MAFES Prairie Research Unit is located at 10223 Highway 382 just

The Monroe County Co-Op and Clay County Co-Op are sponsoring the field day. Reserve a meal by contacting Joyce Pace or Jane Parish at 662-369-4426 or jparish@ext.ms-state.edu.
