Sweet Potato Crop Appears Average at Harvest Midpoint

By Bonnie Coblenz
MSU Ag Communications

A dry September put a damper on Mississippi sweet potato production, but the rain in early October helped the crop remaining in the field.

Stephen Meyers, sweet potato specialist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service, said sweet potato fields received about an inch of rain October 3.

"We were optimistic that this rain helped size up the storage roots, but because of muddy conditions, producers were out of the field for two days, and then resumed harvest," Meyers said.

Soil conditions when the crop was transplanted in May and June resulted in a mixed bag of yield and quality for Mississippi's sweet potatoes.

"The transplant conditions go a long way to determine what kind of crop it will be, and Mississippi growers set transplants into everything from mud to hot, dry soil," Meyers said.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimated almost half the state's sweet potatoes were in good condition by the end of September; 30 percent were fair and 22 percent were excellent. The crop was 41 percent harvested by that point, making it slightly behind a normal harvest schedule.

The bulk of Mississippi's sweet potato production is grown within a 40-mile radius of Vardaman in Calhoun County. Coming off excellent yields in 2013, producers increased planted acreage 22 percent to 22,500 acres this year, but weather conditions did not allow a bin-busting crop.

"We had a cooler year, especially in July, so we probably lost some growing days," Meyers said. "Because we had fairly consistent rainfall throughout the season, there weren't long periods when the crop was just sitting there, waiting for rain."

The rain dried up in August, and the crop was mostly dry through September. This limited the size of the potatoes.

"Most of our growers could have used some rain to help size up the roots that are still in the field and to soften up the soil to reduce the skinning on what's being harvested now," he said.

Benny Graves, executive director of the Mississippi Sweet Potato Council, said the crop being harvested is beautiful but small. Producers did not push to harvest quickly and were trying to allow time for rain to fall.

"It would take 2 inches of rain to make a difference," Graves said. "If we get that rain, they'll push pretty hard to harvest quickly and hope the size improves some."

When harvest continues into November, producers run the risk of losing some of the crop when cold rains make fields too muddy for harvest.

"This year we were about 10 days to two weeks late getting started on harvest, so every day in October was needed to dig them out," Graves said.

This year we saw many sweet potato growers employ a crop rotation system with sorghum.

"We know grain sorghum is not a big money-maker, but it is excellent for nematode control, and that benefits sweet potatoes," he said. "If you have a general farm plan and can include some grain sorghum, you will improve your sweet potato yields the next time they grow on that field."

Beauregard has long been the main variety grown in Mississippi, but this year, the new variety Orleans has gained a lot of ground.

"Some of our highest-quality and highest-yielding fields so far this year have been Orleans," Graves said. "Orleans is a Beauregard-type sweet potato, and you can't tell a flavor difference between the two."

Alba Collart, Extension agricultural economist, said 2014 Mississippi sweet potato prices are up from last year's.

"Sweet potatoes from Mississippi, including different varieties and grades, have been sold at an average wholesale price of $21.60 per 40-pound carton," Collart said. "In 2013, sweet potatoes from Mississippi, including different varieties and grades, were sold at an average wholesale price of $16.30 per 40-pound carton."

Combine flour and sugar in a medium bowl; cut in shortening and butter with pastry blender until mixture is crumbly. Add mashed sweet potato and milk, stirring just until dry ingredients are moistened. Turn dough out onto a lightly floured surface, and knead 4 or 5 times. Roll dough to 1/2-inch thickness; cut with a 2-inch biscuit cutter. Place on lightly greased baking sheets. Bake biscuits at 400 degrees for 14 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. # Mississippi Football and Farming

By Lise Foy, Director
MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

I always have been, and always will be, among the first to admit that I'm proud to be from Mississippi! No matter where my travels take me, it's always fun to tell people about my home state. Two recent trips brought that to the front of my thoughts.

While visiting my husband in North Platte, Nebraska, in September, smack in the middle of their corn and bean harvest season, it was heart-warming to be served sweet potato fries from Mississippi and to meet a furniture store owner who carries inventory made in Tupelo.

On a return flight from Long Beach, California, however, it was even more fun to be congratulated by people traveling to and fro because I was wearing my Mississippi State University Bulldogs t-shirt. I am not only proud of the Bulldogs (and the University of Mississippi), but I am proud of what my school represents. We represent agriculture and engineering, the things we tell the story of everyday at the Ag Museum.

Mississippi State University began as The Agricultural and Mechanical College of the State of Mississippi (or Mississippi A&M), one of the national land-grant colleges established after Congress passed the Morrill Act in 1862. It was created to fulfill the mission of offering training in "agriculture, horticulture, and the mechanical arts . . . without excluding other scientific and classical studies, including military tactics." The University received its first students in the fall of 1880.

In 1887, Congress passed the Hatch Act, which provided for the establishment of the Agricultural Experiment Station in 1888. The Cooperative Extension Service was established in 1914 by the Smith-Lever Act. In 1932, the Legislature renamed the University as Mississippi State College.

Mississippi State first fielded a football team in 1895. The cowbell, according to legend, appeared some time later during a home football game between Mississippi State and the University of Mississippi. Apparently a jersey cow wandered onto the playing field. Mississippi State won that Saturday, and State College students immediately adopted the cow as a good luck charm. Students are said to have continued bringing a cow to football games for a while, until the practice was eventually discontinued in favor of bringing just the cow's bell.

The cowbell is not only a statement of each individual Bulldog's spirit, but a reminder of the heritage of the school itself which is built on agriculture.

We own two cowbells at our house. And, even though we have a Golden Eagle and a Hokie in the family, earned paper from the Okra, the Cowboys, and the Rebels, and spent some time with some Tigers, we predominately 'bleed Maroon and White.'

No matter who your team is, remember to thank the farmers who make the game possible. Your team could not run the 'pig skin' without the farmer running the tractor.

Agriculture is present on the field. Turf grass specialists work hard to protect the field from pest and disease and to keep it perfectly green so that those white yard lines can be painted each week. The cotton in the uniforms worn by the players was grown by a farmer.

Agriculture is present in the concession stand and the tailgate picnic. Your nachos are made from corn and the cheese comes from a dairy cow. Your hotdog is made of beef and pork. The bun is made from wheat. A farmer grew your popcorn and peanuts.

Agriculture is present in the souvenir shop. The tickets, programs, and schedules are made from paper that comes from trees and printed with ink from soybeans. The t-shirts are made of cotton.

Agriculture is present in the football! The ball is made from leather that comes from a cow. The term pigskin came from the historic version of a football that contained an inflated pig bladder.

Brent Christensen, Executive Director of the Mississippi Development Authority, spoke recently at the Rotary Club of Jackson and highlighted some points for us to share about our state as we travel (in addition to bragging on our football teams). Mississippi is ranked in the top 10 for best states to do business because of our resources, work force, and quality of life.

It is always good to travel and to learn about other regions of our country. But, it is always good to return to the 'land mass' of Mississippi. Wear your team colors to our events at the Ag Museum this fall and let's share stories about Mississippi 'firsts' and 'bests'. We don't have a football field, but we do have agriculture and stories to tell, and we do have cowbells for sale in the General Store!

The Ag Museum is located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson and is open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. In addition to our gallery and exhibit spaces, the Ag Museum also has room for your event, whether it's a meeting, a wedding or other special event. Call (601) 432-4500 for information.

Equestrian Team Launches 8th Season at Mississippi College

By Andy Kanengiser
University News Coordinator
Office of Public Relations
Mississippi College

Competing against bigger schools like Georgia, Alabama, LSU, and Mississippi State, the Mississippi College equestrian team kicks off its 8th season as one of the best in the South.

Strong leadership from MC seniors like Katherine Moody of Jackson, Kristina Bordulis of Orlando, Florida, and Hailey Elder of Texas should help the team bring home lots of ribbons during the 2014-15 season.

Following an October 11 scrimmage with LSU, the MC riders travel to the University of Georgia for their first Intercollegiate Horse Show Association tournament of the new campaign October 18-19.

The team's home, Providence Hill Farm, its riders, and speedy horses like Hale Bopp bring star power. The movie "A Gift Horse," was filmed at the 2,000-acre Central Mississippi farm in June. The film features Bopp, who plays a horse named Misty, and showcases student riders as well as Mississippi College equestrian coaches Tina Davey and Leah Katynski.

The movie tells the story of a 10-year-old girl, Amanda, who gets comfort from her horse as she copes with the death of her mother. Actor John Schneider of TV's "Dukes of Hazzard" fame and actress Kyla Kenedy, 11, of the AMC hit "The Walking Dead," are the stars.

Hollywood movie crews would be impressed with the wonderful story line about Mississippi College's talented equestrian team. It's a close-knit family of riders.

Thrilled to jump hurdles with her favorite horse, Katherine Moody, 22, says she's acquired valuable lessons from her years on the squad.

"I have learned the importance of team work, dedication, and working together for a common goal," says Katherine, a biology major and psychology minor.

"It has been awesome watching this team develop, and I am so grateful for this opportunity to be part of it. We have some fantastic newcomers that have so much potential."

This fall and spring, 16 riders are competing, including five freshmen and five sophomores. They come from nine states, including Mississippi, Alabama, California, New Jersey, Ohio, Illinois, and Oregon. A junior from Brandon and Northwest Rankin High graduate, Winston Franklin is the only man on the squad.

The MC students spend lots of hours in practices at Providence Hill Farm, a 20-minute drive from the Mississippi College senior Katherine Moody of Jackson, Mississippi.

Mississippi College senior Kristina Bordulis of Orlando, Florida.

Clinton campus.

Getting a break from classes at the Baptist-affiliated University has been a blessing for Kristina Bordulis, whether she trots around Providence Hill Farm or at Southern horse shows.

"It is so peaceful and stress relieving," says Kristina, a 21-year-old public relations major. "One important thing I have gotten out of the team is the friendships. Some of my best friends ride with me."

Last year, "we had a great season, and we were fortunate to beat many of the big schools," she said. "We have gained respect in our (IHSA) zone. I'm excited to see how the season will turn out."

When their final season ends for the trio of MC seniors, don't expect them to get very far away from the world of horses.

"I plan on still coming out to the barn to ride whenever I can," Kristina said. "It is still such a passion and hobby of mine."

Her teammate, Katherine Mooney, echoes those sentiments. "Horses have been a part of my life for so long," she said. "It is hard to imagine life without them."

Advertising Guidelines

The Mississippi Market Bulletin is published on the 1st and 15th of each month by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce. The Mississippi Market Bulletin is an important way for the Department to disseminate news and information about issues affecting Mississippi's agriculture industry and the Department's operations.

Through its classified advertising section, the Bulletin provides a forum for Mississippi residents to buy and sell agricultural related items while also giving statewide exposure to small farmers who might not normally have the economic resources for such widespread advertising. The Bulletin does not publish commercial or display ads and all items offered for sale must have been produced, raised, grown or operated on the seller's property. Businesses, corporations, dealerships, brokers or other commercial enterprises are not allowed to advertise in the Mississippi Market Bulletin.

Advertising rules and guidelines have been established for the Mississippi Market Bulletin in order to comply with regulations enforced by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce and to maintain the objectives of the publication. The staff of the Mississippi Market Bulletin reserves the right to edit, revise or reject any advertisement.

The Mississippi Market Bulletin assumes no responsibility for any notice appearing in the Bulletin nor for any transaction resulting from published notices. Advertisers are cautioned that it is against the law to misrepresent any product offered for sale in public notices or advertisements carried in any publication that is delivered by the United States Postal Service.

- In order to advertise in the Mississippi Market Bulletin you must be a subscriber. To place an ad, you must include your name, mailing address and account number that the subscription is listed under on each ad that you submit (this information will not be printed). Each subscriber is allowed to advertise two ads in the Bulletin, listing one ad per category.
- All listings must be agriculture related (raised, grown, produced or operated on your farm). At the top of your ad, write the category that the ad should be listed under. We reserve the right to edit, revise or reject each ad. Please print or type your ad.
- There is a 30-word limit for classified advertisements, this includes: price (on the item you are selling), your city, county and telephone number or name and complete address must be included in the ad if you do not list a telephone number. # MDAC and MDE Celebrate Farm to School Week

By Chaille Clements
Communications and
Marketing Specialist - MDAC

The Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce (MDAC) collaborated with the Mississippi Department of Education (MDE) to celebrate the third annual Mississippi Farm to School Week on October 9, 2014, at StoneBridge Elementary School in Brandon, Mississippi. Students dined with special guests including Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Cindy Hyde-Smith, House Agriculture Committee Chairman Preston Sullivan, Senate Agriculture Committee Vice-Chairman Russell Jolly, State Senator Josh Harkins, House Education Committee Chairman John Moore, State Representative Mark Baker, Brandon Mayor Butch Lee, MDE Chief Operations Officer Todd Ivey, Rankin County School District Superintendent Dr. Lynn Weathersby, as well as the Mississippi farmers responsible for growing some of the lunch menu items.

Commissioner Hyde-Smith stated, "I am so proud to see that schools like StoneBridge Elementary are taking the opportunity to use Farm to School Week not only as a week to incorporate Mississippi-grown products into their menu but also as a time to include information about agriculture into their classrooms and curriculum." During the celebration, farmers including Jerry Hutto of Waynesboro, Louis Guedon of Churchill, Bill Duckworth of Purvis, Randle Wright of Vardaman, Tom Giles of Waynesboro, Holmes County Food Hub representatives of Goodman, and Becky Beard representing the Mississippi Poultry Association visited second and third grade classrooms explaining the importance of agriculture and eating healthy fruits and vegetables.

The classroom visits allowed students the opportunity to get to know the Mississippi farmers who grew the food that is served throughout the school year in their cafeteria. "We are so excited to have our local farmers at StoneBridge Elementary. This is a wonderful learning environment created by Cindy Hyde-Smith and the MDAC. We are thankful for all of the hard work everyone does to ensure our students get the best quality food every day in our District," stated Rankin County School District Superintendent Dr. Lynn Weathersby.

The MDE and the MDAC have partnered for the past twelve years to increase the amount of fruits and vegetables that are grown in the state that are served in lunchrooms across Mississippi. "The Farm to School Program enhances our Child Nutrition Program by providing Mississippi schools with nutritious, locally grown produce," said Todd Ivey, Chief Operations Officer for the MDE. "At the same time, it enables us to support Mississippi farmers." Commissioner Hyde-Smith added, "The Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce is fortunate to have such a great partnership with the Mississippi Department of Education and recognizes their willingness to work with Mississippi farmers to get their local products into the schools."

During the week of October 6-10, many schools around the state incorporated Mississippi grown products, including produce, into their menus and holding educational activities. The Boonville School District incorporated Mississippi-grown sweet potatoes, tomatoes, blueberries, corn on the cob, cucumbers, and southern peas into their lunch menus. The Oxford School District served local cucumbers, blueberries, cherry tomatoes, and cantaloupe. The District also preformed cooking demonstrations with pumpkins the students grew at Bramlett Elementary School and officially opening the Scott Learning Center greenhouses for the fall season.

The Partnership for a Healthy Mississippi hosted tastings, a social media contest, a cooking contest, and an art contest around the State in celebration of Farm to School. For more information on Mississippi Farm to School Week or educational materials, please visit farmtoschool-week.org.

Students at StoneBridge Elementary School welcomed farmers and state officials to their school on October 9, 2014, during Mississippi Farm to School Week. Those pictured include StoneBridge Elementary School teacher Mrs. Ashley Shivers, Mississippi farmer Louis Guedon of Churchill, Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Cindy Hyde-Smith, Rankin County School District Superintendent Dr. Lynn Weathersby, StoneBridge Elementary School Principal Angela Nichols, and House of Representatives Education Committee Chairman John Moore.
