Ag Values Set to Top $7B for Third Year

By Keri Collins Lewis
MSU Ag Communications

Despite low prices for many commodities, the overall projected totals for Mississippi's crop values should top $7 billion for the third straight year and essentially match the record set in 2013.

John Michael Riley, agricultural economist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service, said his preliminary estimate of 2014's agricultural production values, excluding government payments, is over $7.7 billion.

"The row crops sector of the agricultural economy took a bit of a hit, but there were pockets of that sector that saw improvements, such as cotton and rice," Riley said. "On the bright side, the livestock sector is doing well with all three segments of that industry -- beef cattle, dairy cattle and hogs -- showing double-digit improvements, percentage wise, from the previous year."

Poultry ...

Poultry remained solidly in first place on the list, with a $3.13 billion projected total value. At $2.88 billion, broilers showed a slight increase from 2013. Egg values were up nearly 10 percent, reflecting strong demand and price.

Forestry and soybeans ...

Forestry, the state's No. 2 commodity, saw a 13.8 percent increase in value, driven by an improvement in housing starts. At $1.28 billion in 2014, the state's forest harvest value has increased 48 percent since 2009, when the effects of the recession first began to hit the industry.

James Henderson, an associate forestry professor with the MSU Extension Service, said he expects this positive trend to continue.

"Expectations are for a nearly 20 percent increase in total U.S. housing starts in 2015 as more first-time buyers enter the housing market," Henderson said.

Soybeans, Mississippi's top row crop, remained in third place with a preliminary estimated value of $1.17 billion. Producers harvested about 200,000 more acres more than the previous year, for a total of about 2.19 million harvested acres. The projected yield of 52 bushels per acre, if realized, would set a record.

"We saw a much lower price for soybeans than in 2013," Riley said. "However, the second largest crop ever produced in the state offset most of the drop in prices."

Looking to 2015, Riley said the current price points for corn, cotton and soybeans are relatively equal.

"Right now, the producers' agronomic needs, where crops fit in rotation and what works from a soil nutrient standpoint, will drive acres in 2015. There's no clear winner from a price standpoint," he said.

Cotton ...

Cotton moved up a spot in the rankings to No. 4, due to a combination of high yields and increased acreage. The estimated value for this year's cotton crop is $403.6 million.

Darrin Dodds, cotton specialist with the MSU Extension Service, said producers planted 420,000 acres in cotton in 2014, up from 295,000 last year -- an increase of about 47 percent.

"Like last year, we were late planting because of cool wet weather," Dodds said. "We were worried about time on the back end to make a crop, but fortunately, we had a long fall and got some hot weather in September, which helped tremendously."

Dodds said yields were high, but not as high as the 2013 records.

"The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates the crop at 1,143 pounds of cotton lint per acre, and last year we were at 1,203 pounds. But anytime you can average 1,143 across the state, that's a pretty good yield," he said.

Cattle and corn ...

Mississippi producers cut back on corn planting significantly in 2014, which ultimately resulted in an interesting change in the typical ranking of the state's commodities: cattle overtook corn to grab the No. 5 spot.

The estimated production value for cattle is $396.7 million, up 33 percent from 2013.

Riley said cattle remain in short supply after drought-inspired sell-offs. With consumer demand remaining strong and feed costs remaining low, the outlook for 2015 looks promising.

"Mississippi producers dropped from 830,000 to 520,000 harvested acres of corn and saw about a $1.73 drop per bushel in price. With a current projected price of $3.62 per bushel, it's the lowest price we've seen since 2006."

Riley said the 55.3 percent drop in corn from 2013's values was more of an issue of lower acres than lower prices, but both combined for corn to have its lowest overall value since 2009, at $349.6 million. The projected yield of 186 bushels per acre, if realized, would be an all-time high.

Catfish and rice ...

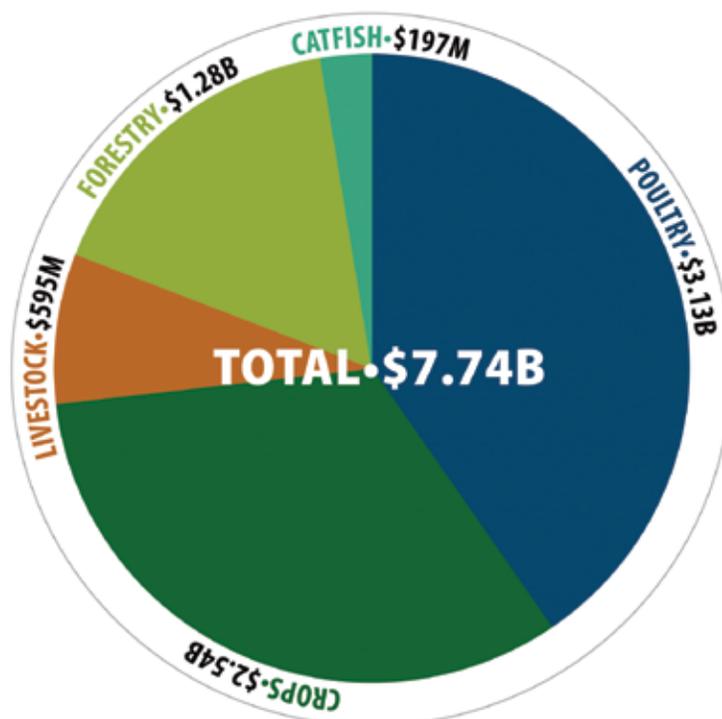

While the catfish industry has declined for several years, production has been steady since the significant decrease in water acres in 2010-2011.

"The price has come up 20 cents per pound based on the lower supply, and that has kept those who decided to stay in the industry going," Riley said. "The drop in soybean price has helped this industry as well."

Soybean meal is a key ingredient in catfish feed.

Total production of catfish is down 13.4 million pounds in 2013 to 156.9 million total pounds in 2014. The combined total value for catfish, stockers, fingerlings and fry is $197.3 million, up 11.1 percent, which puts catfish in the No. 7 spot.

Potato Soup

3 bacon slices
1 cup chopped onion
3 pounds baking potatoes, peeled and cut into 1/4-inch-thick slices
Cooking spray
1/2 cup water
2 (14.5-ounce) cans fat-free, lower-sodium chicken broth
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
2 cups 1% low-fat milk
4 ounces shredded reduced-fat sharp cheddar cheese (about 1 cup), divided
1/2 cup light sour cream
4 teaspoons chopped fresh chives

Cook bacon in a large nonstick skillet over medium heat until crisp. Remove bacon from pan, reserving 2 teaspoons drippings in pan; crumble bacon. Add onion to drippings in pan; sauté 3 minutes or until tender. Place potato slices and onion in a 5-quart electric slow cooker coated with cooking spray. Combine 1/2 cup water and next 3 ingredients (through pepper); stir into mixture in slow cooker. Cover and cook on LOW for 8 hours or until potatoes are tender. Mash mixture with a potato masher; stir in milk and 3/4 cup cheese. Increase heat to HIGH. Cover and cook on HIGH for 20 minutes or until mixture is thoroughly heated. Ladle soup into bowls. Top with sour cream and remaining 1/4 cup cheese. Sprinkle with bacon and chives. Yield: 8 servings (serving size: about 1 cup soup, 1 tablespoon sour cream, 1 1/2 teaspoons cheese, 1 teaspoon bacon, and 1/2 teaspoon chives).

1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

Place flour in a large zip-top plastic bag; add steak cubes. Seal and shake to coat. Remove steak from bag; set aside. Ag Values

Rice was a positive segment in the row crops sector in 2014. Prices and acres were up, which drove the value up significantly. Producers harvested 190,000 acres with a yield of 7,200 hundredweight and a price of $13.68 per hundredweight. Rice clinched the No. 8 spot with an estimated value of $174 million.

Hogs and specialty crops ...

Hog producers saw a 21.5 percent increase this year, with an estimated production value of about $153 million. This moved hogs from No. 11 to No. 9 in 2014.

"Short supply due to the porcine epidemic diarrhea virus that was causing piglets to die was the biggest factor, so we had an overall drop in production across the U.S.," Riley said. "The smaller supply caused the price increase. Mississippi producers increased their hog inventories a few years ago, and while they've pulled back a little because of the virus, inventories are much higher than in previous years."

Rounding out the rankings at No. 10 is the specialty crops industry, which includes nursery and ornamental plants. This commodity moved up two spots this year in spite of a 2.3 percent decline, with a preliminary value of $113.6 million.

Hay and Sweet potatoes ...

Hay fell three spots to No. 11, with a $105.3 million production value, down 11.4 percent.

The No. 12 crop, sweet potatoes, saw increased acres and prices, resulting in a preliminary crop value of $96.2 million. This is a 68.1 percent increase over 2013 and the highest value in five years.

"More acres were planted this year, and they had a good crop and a projected higher yield based on the national figures, which are up," Riley said. "Mississippi's price last year was $16 and is up to $21 per hundred pounds in 2014, so all things are good for sweet potatoes."

Other 2014 crop values and their percentage changes compared to 2013 are wheat at $66.9 million, down 57.2 percent; milk at $44.6 million, up 10.1 percent; grain sorghum at $39.3 million, up 37.8 percent; and peanuts at $20.8 million, down 30.7 percent.

Final figures will be available in May 2015.

Southern Neighbors

By Lise Foy, Director
MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

Life's happenings seem to come in seasons. My latest season finds me being thankful for my neighbors.

My country neighbors at home, my neighbors from church, my fellow museum neighbors, and a bunch of folks who became new neighbors because of a fire.

The dictionary defines the word neighbor as a person who lives near another. I think Southern people, Mississippians for sure, have a deeper meaning for the term. To me neighbors are those people who call and ask, "What can I do to help?" Or, those who just show up with food in tow, gloves on hands, and go to work.

The outpouring of support and help in the weeks following the fire was simply overwhelming. Our neighbors from other area museums and attractions came to our aid in droves. We would like to extend a special thank you to the Mississippi Museum of Art, Mississippi Department of Archives and History, Vicksburg National Military Park, Mississippi Museum of Natural Science, Jackson Zoo, Mississippi Children's Museum, Georgia Agriculture Museum, Mississippi Department of Transportation, Mississippi Department of Agriculture & Commerce, Pearl River Valley Water Supply District, Jackson Convention & Visitors Bureau, and the many private companies and individual volunteers who gave of themselves to help us.

Thanks also, to those who have given donations and are doing fundraisers to assist in our time of need. Not only have companies and individuals written checks to the Museum Foundation, but several have organized fundraisers on our behalf.

StinkyFeet Athletics organized a virtual run/walk/ride event during the month of December. This new concept of 'crowd funding' was kicked off on December 16 with a night run/walk at the Museum where participants wore glow apparel.

Ashland Clark held a fundraiser to replace the mule tack. His Facebook event has been very successful and Joe and Sally will have brand new harnesses and collars to pull our wagon. His gift was what he did for his 10th birthday.

Front Porch Dance Company will present a contemporary performance called Mississippi Stories in Motion-Retold. The choreography to be displayed was originally inspired by the sights, sounds, and textures of "The Mississippi Story" exhibition at the Mississippi Museum of Art. All proceeds from the concert, to be held in the Sparkman Auditorium at the Ag Museum on January 31, will be donated to the Ag Museum Foundation. Tickets are $15 and will be available at the door beginning at 6:30 pm.

It's interesting how the Ag Museum affects and interests different people. There is something for everyone and so many connections to make. What follows was written by former Ag Museum employee and California native, Caitlin Podas, who certainly made a connection and became a neighbor. Next time you plan to visit us, make time to visit our neighbor at the Mississippi Museum of Art.

By Caitlin Podas, Registrar
Mississippi Museum of Art
December 16, 2014

My first job in Mississippi was at the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum. What does an Orange County native and art aficionado know about agriculture, you may ask? Not a whole lot. But, I was fresh out of grad school and wanted to put my education to use and the Ag Museum took a chance and hired me as their Collections Specialist. Thanks to the other Ag Museum staff and a reference book or two, I learned how to identify different kinds of plows, wood planes, wagons, tractors...the list goes on.

I didn't think my new-found knowledge of agricultural artifacts would come in handy at the art museum, but it just so happens that we have a large collection of works that depict agricultural scenes. Several of them are in the Mississippi Story exhibition, but we also have a number of prints and drawings by Thomas Hart Benton who pioneered the American Regionalist movement. The movement glorified rural American scenes and rejected avant-garde artistic styles popular in Europe. Benton's work is devoted to portraying the landscape, people, and way of life in the central and southern United States. He toured the Mississippi River regions of Mississippi and Louisiana in 1928. In the 1930s, he was commissioned to paint murals depicting the history and daily life of people in Indiana, Missouri, and New York. All of the murals were cloaked in controversy, however, because Benton painted some histories that the states would have liked to ignore. Nevertheless, these murals established Benton as a great American artist and the murals are now in the collections of Indiana University and the New Britain Museum of American Art.

Knowing what kinds of plows, wagons, and other agricultural implements are depicted in Benton's work adds another layer of appreciation and understanding of the artwork for me. I have touched those implements myself and know that someone else's hands used them to work the land, provide for their families, and build a life. The Ag Museum has a cane mill on the grounds that looks very much like the one depicted in Benton's Sorghum Mill, middlebuster plows like the one in Plowing with Ox, and scythes like the ones in Island Hay.

A few weeks ago, the Ag Museum was devastated by a fire that consumed some of these artifacts and threatened others. Through the recovery effort, I was reminded about how important it is to know where we came from and how precious our history is. Thankfully, volunteers and Ag Museum employees have been able to salvage a lot of the damaged artifacts so they can continue to tell the story of the people of Mississippi. My thanks are owed to all of them for enriching my experience here in this state.

The Ag Museum is located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson and is open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. In addition to our gallery and exhibit spaces, the Ag Museum also has room for your event, whether it's a meeting, a wedding or other special event. Call (601) 432-4500 for information.

If you would like to make a donation, make checks payable to the Ag Museum Foundation, 1150 Lakeland Drive, Jackson, MS 39216.

Advertising Guidelines

The Mississippi Market Bulletin is published on the 1st and 15th of each month by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce. The Mississippi Market Bulletin is an important way for the Department to disseminate news and information about issues affecting Mississippi's agriculture industry and the Department's operations.

Through its classified advertising section, the Bulletin provides a forum for Mississippi residents to buy and sell agricultural related items while also giving statewide exposure to small farmers who might not normally have the economic resources for such widespread advertising. The Bulletin does not publish commercial or display ads and all items offered for sale must have been produced, raised, grown or operated on the seller's property. Businesses, corporations, dealerships, brokers or other commercial enterprises are not allowed to advertise in the Mississippi Market Bulletin.

Advertising rules and guidelines have been established for the Mississippi Market Bulletin in order to comply with regulations enforced by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce and to maintain the objectives of the publication. The staff of the Mississippi Market Bulletin reserves the right to edit, revise or reject any advertisement.

The Mississippi Market Bulletin assumes no responsibility for any notice appearing in the Bulletin nor for any transaction resulting from published notices. Advertisers are cautioned that it is against the law to misrepresent any product offered for sale in public notices or advertisements carried in any publication that is delivered by the United States Postal Service.

- In order to advertise in the Mississippi Market Bulletin you must be a subscriber. To place an ad, you must include your name, mailing address and account number that the subscription is listed under on each ad that you submit (this information will not be printed). Each subscriber is allowed to advertise two ads in the Bulletin, listing one ad per category.
- All listings must be agriculture related (raised, grown, produced or operated on your farm). At the top of your ad, write the category that the ad should be listed under. We reserve the right to edit, revise or reject each ad. Please print or type your ad.
- There is a 30-word limit for classified advertisements, this includes: price (on the item you are selling), your city, county and telephone number or name and complete address must be included in the ad if you do not list a telephone number. Ads cannot be held over from one issue to another. You must submit them for each issue.
- Out-of-state residents are not eligible to advertise with the following exceptions: Out-of-state ads are allowed in the "Wanting To Buy" category. Out-of-state ads are allowed for individuals owning farm property within the state that is being offered for sale (consisting of 10 acres or more).

All Cattle Producers and Livestock Enthusiasts are Invited to the MCA Annual Convention and Dixie National Farm Expo

By LeAnne L. Peters
Director of Communications
Mississippi Cattlemen's Association

The Mississippi Cattlemen's Association (MCA) Convention and Dixie National Farm Expo will convene on February 13-14 in Jackson, Mississippi. Each year, on the Mississippi State Fairgrounds, cowboys and cowgirls gather from across the state for an exciting convention and Dixie National Farm Expo. Doors open to the Expo at 12 p.m. on Friday and again at 10 a.m. on Saturday. This two-day event of education, networking, fellowship and fun is a great addition to the western activities surrounding the Dixie National.

On Friday night, the annual "Taste of Beef" event will be an evening of food and entertainment open to all friends of MCA. An eclectic sampling of Italian, American and Mexican dishes will be presented in a social setting from some of Jackson's best restaurants. The cost of the event is $25 and the proceeds go to the Cattlemen's Foundation for educational scholarships.

In addition to the convention, don't miss the Dixie National Farm Expo where static exhibits along with equipment demos and educational opportunities combine to make a great farm show. The Expo is free to the public and will be a one-stop agricultural marketplace for those attending the Dixie National Livestock Show and Rodeo. A highlight of the Expo will be the popular Antique Tractor Show showcasing tractors over a hundred years old.

Saturday will hold several educational sessions starting at 9 a.m. with a presentation by Colin Woodall, Vice President of Government Affairs at the National Cattlemen's

Poultry is No. 1 Among State Commodities for 20th Year

Poultry experienced some moderate increases in 2014, grabbing the No.1 spot among Mississippi's commodities for the 20th straight year.

The industry ended November with a preliminary estimated total production value of $3.1 billion, a 6.4 percent increase from 2013.

"Early in the year, there were less chickens available to put into broiler growing houses," said John Michael Riley, agricultural economist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service. "So that drove prices up just a little bit, and, based on data from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, prices for the year were moderately higher."

Table egg production was down 3.1 percent from 2013, but the total estimated value for eggs is $244 million, up 9.9 percent from last year. Consumer price for eggs is $2.18 per dozen.

The estimated value for chickens is $6.5 million, an increase of 3.6 percent. Estimated broiler value stands at almost $2.9 billion, an increase of about 6 percent.

Tom Tabler, Extension professor in the MSU Department of Poultry Science, said 2014 was an excellent year for poultry integrators in the state despite a slow start.

"The essentially level placement of chicks was because integrators had a difficult time getting their breeder hens to lay eggs," Tabler said. "We have breeder hens that are good at producing chicks that grow well and convert feed efficiently. However, sometimes they do not lay as many eggs as we would like."

Integrators choose the type of hens and roosters they want based on genetic traits and the desired broiler market size. Breeder hens that produce nine pound broilers do not lay as many eggs as breeder hens that produce four or six pound broilers. It is a compromise, Tabler said.

A rise in pork and beef prices led to a slight increase in consumer demand for poultry.

"The poultry industry is doing well," Tabler said. "Beef cattle numbers are reduced nationwide and the pork industry has been fighting a virus this year, pushing those prices up at the grocery store."

Tabler said he expects next year's demand, production and prices to remain similar to 2014.

"Demand and consumer prices look like they will remain about the same for next year," he said. "If feed prices stay comparable to this year, we'll have another good year."

"But weather is the wild card. An extremely cold and wet spring could cause farmers to have a hard time getting corn and soybeans in the ground. A drought next summer could also change everything, based on what the markets do for corn and beans. These things would cause feed prices to rise, and that would affect industry profits," Tabler said.

Final figures will be determined in May 2015.
