A Look Back...Natural Disasters Take a Toll on Mississippi's Poultry Industry

A year ago, on April 28, 2014, more than 20 tornadoes went through Mississippi. Winston County was one of twelve counties that received the most agricultural- and forestry-related damage. The following is an article that was featured in the 2015 edition of Mississippi Agriculture. This article reflects on how a tornado quickly devastated the poultry farm of Charlie and Cindy Wilkes of Noxapater in a matter of minutes. As an update to the article, the Wilkes family has re-built six super-houses that hold 37,000 chickens per house. They received their first supply of chickens on April 21, nearly one year to the date of their loss. They are currently in the final stages of rebuilding their home.

On the afternoon of April 28, 2014, Noxapater farmer Charlie Wilkes was out picking up feed pans in his eight poultry houses when his wife Cindy called to warn him of an approaching storm.

"I came in the house at about 4 p.m., and 10 minutes later, the tornado warnings sounded," Charlie recalls.

The couple fled to their underground storm shelter in the floor of their two-car garage with their daughters – Joleigh, 17, and Jenna, 12.

Within minutes, a tornado tore through their farm. They could feel the shelter shake and heard what sounded like "jet airplanes flying overhead." The metal door over their heads rolled up with the wind and debris flew into the shelter.

"The pressure from the tornado was so great, it made my head hurt," Charlie says. "When the shelter door rolled up, we could see that the carport was gone."

A Farm Destroyed

That was just the beginning. The family emerged from the shelter to find they had lost their home, compost shed, hay barn, two cow barns, and all eight of their poultry houses. More than 220,000 dead chickens littered the ground.

As a contract grower for Tyson, Wilkes raises chickens for 38 days or until they mature to four-and-a-half pounds. His eight aluminum- and wood-framed poultry houses held 28,500 broiler chickens apiece.

On April 28, 2014, twenty tornadoes went through Mississippi causing agriculture- and forestry-related damage and destroying a number of poultry houses. More than one million chickens and turkeys died from the tornadoes and subsequent power outages.

Other growers in the area also lost birds.

Ray Ables, a production manager for Tyson, says the company has more than 1,500 contracted chicken houses in Mississippi. Thirty were destroyed in the April tornado and 10 more were badly damaged.

Consumer Impact

Weather events such as this one can have a ripple effect all the way to the consumer, causing food shortages and higher prices. Fortunately, this one did not.

"We lost 400,000 broilers and 40,000 hens because of the storm," Ables says. "These birds were at various stages of production and age and would have been processed at different weeks later on. There was a gap in processing when it came time to process those birds because they weren't there. But because the ages and processing times were spread out over several weeks, we were able to maintain service to our customers with the help of our other locations' supply."

The hen houses that were destroyed meant a shortened local egg supply, but Tyson was able to get hatching eggs from other locations and hold their other hens longer to make up for the weekly eggs needed.

"If the tornadoes in April had picked 30 hen houses to destroy, our hatching egg supply would have been cut drastically," Ables says.

Chicken and Eggs...A Tasty Combination

Chicken with Garden Fresh Vegetables

- 1 broiler-fryer chicken, cooked, skinned, boned & cut in strips
- 3 large tomatoes, cut in chunks
- 1 large green bell pepper, cut in 1-inch strips
- 1 cucumber, sliced
- 4 green onions, sliced
- 1 12-ounce jar marinated artichoke hearts, chopped
- 2 tablespoons wine vinegar
- 1/2 cup sliced black olives
- 1/4 cup sesame seeds, toasted

While chicken is still warm place it in a large mixing bowl. Add tomatoes, green bell pepper, cucumber and green onions. Drain artichoke hearts and reserve marinade. Add artichoke hearts and black olives to chicken-vegetable mixture; toss gently to mix well. Mix reserved marinade with wine vinegar; pour over chicken. Cover and refrigerate until well chilled. When ready to serve, top with toasted sesame seeds. Makes six generous portions.

Herbed Egg Salad

- 24 large hard-cooked eggs, peeled
- 1 1/2 cups chopped red onion
- 1 1/2 cups chopped celery
- 3 cups mayonnaise
- 1/3 cup Dijon mustard
- 3 tablespoons chopped fresh thyme
- 3 tablespoons chopped Italian parsley
- 3 tablespoons chopped fresh dill
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 12 slices multi-grain bread, toasted
- 8 cups mixed green salad

Using a box grater, grate eggs across the coarsest section. Add eggs, onion, and celery to a bowl. In a separate bowl, blend mayonnaise, mustard, thyme, parsley and dill. Combine eggs and mayonnaise mixture; season to taste with salt and pepper. Refrigerate until serving.

Portion about 3/4 cup egg salad onto each slice toast. Serve open-face with 2/3 cup favorite mixed greens. Serve immediately.

Apple-Glazed Chicken Drumsticks

- 4 chicken drumsticks, skin-on or skinless
- 1/4 cup apple butter
- 1/4 cup molasses
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 2 apples, cored and sliced into eighths

In a medium bowl, stir together apple butter, molasses, ground ginger, salt and pepper. Add the drumsticks to the marinade and toss to coat. Cover and refrigerate for 15 minutes. Preheat the broiler. Line a broiler pan with aluminum foil and place the marinated drumsticks in the pan. Broil for 20-30 minutes; turn the drumsticks occasionally and brush them with the marinade. These drumsticks are delicious cooked on the grill too. Serve with apple slices.

Heirloom Tomato, Arugula, Egg and Goat Cheese Salad

- 1/4 cup balsamic vinegar
- Sea salt, as needed
- Freshly ground black pepper, as needed
- 3/4 cup extra-virgin olive oil
- 4 pounds heirloom tomatoes, any size and variety
- 6 cups arugula lettuce
- 1/2 cup parsley, chopped
- 2 cups basil, whole or torn
- 2 medium red onions, thinly sliced
- 1 medium jalapeno pepper, julienned
- 12 large hard-cooked eggs, peeled and cut into quarters
- 1 pound, 8-ounces goat cheese or fresh buffalo mozzarella cheese, sliced

Combine vinegar with 1/4 teaspoon each sea salt and pepper. Whisk in oil until fully incorporated; reserve. Slice, dice or wedge tomatoes, as desired. Dress tomatoes with 1/4 cup vinaigrette. In a large bowl, combine arugula, parsley, basil, red onion and jalapeno. Toss with 1/2 cup vinaigrette. To serve, arrange 5 to 6 ounces of tomatoes on a luncheon plate. Top with 3/4 cup salad, 4 hard-cooked egg quarters and 2 ounces cheese. Sprinkle with additional salt and pepper. Serve immediately.

Caprese Chicken Panini

- 1 rotisserie chicken, shredded
- Juice from 1/2 of a lemon
- 1 avocado, mashed
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 handful of fresh basil, chopped
- 1 tomato, sliced
- 1 ball fresh mozzarella, sliced
- 10 thin slices of Parmigiano-Reggiano cheese
- 1 bunch arugula
- 1 whole loaf ciabatta bread
- Salt and pepper to taste

Shred meat from one rotisserie chicken and set aside. Mash avocado with lemon juice; add chopped basil, garlic, salt and pepper. Combine chicken with avocado mixture. Slice the ciabatta bread lengthwise and spread with chicken-avocado mixture. Top with tomatoes, arugula and cheese. Put sandwich into a Panini press until hot, or place in heated dry pan, flipping sandwich once, to toast.

Weather's Effect on Agriculture

Droughts and extreme temperatures also take their toll on farmers, sometimes all the way to grocery store shelves. Tom Tabler, extension professor in the Poultry Science Department at Mississippi State University, says last winter's extremely cold temperatures meant many poultry producers had to spend a lot of their income on propane to heat their chicken houses.

"Consumers don't always realize how much the food they buy is tied to the weather," Tabler says. "Droughts, for example, cause us to pay higher prices because the weather patterns cause the food supply to decrease. If people don't live closely to agriculture, they usually don't understand how much the weather affects their food - whether they'll have access to it, and if they do, can they afford it? We all depend on farmers for our food, but farmers are at the mercy of Mother Nature."

After the April tornado, Tabler helped coordinate relief efforts in Louisville, moderating informational meetings and matching up storm victims with representatives from the Federal Emergency Management Agency, Mississippi Emergency Management Agency, Mississippi Board of Animal Health, and other state and federal agencies.

"At times, it seemed like chaos. The initial shock had to wear off and people had to get their bearings," Tabler says. "I had seen chicken houses blown away by tornadoes before, but never to this extreme with whole farms gone."

The week after the storm, Tyson team member volunteers worked in shifts to prepare more than 20,000 protein-packed meals for storm victims and volunteers working in the Louisville area. Many team members who work at the Carthage facility and live in the Louisville area were directly affected.

Rebuilding a Farm

Despite all the hardships they've faced, Charlie has managed to keep a sense of humor. "I tell everybody now, 'Don't ever second-guess nature,'" he says, then chuckles. "My wife had been wishing for a remodeled kitchen. I told her, 'Be careful what you wish for.'"

The Wilkes want to thank everyone who helped with cleanup.

"There was debris everywhere, and our neighbors, community, churches, Tyson employees, and Samaritan's Purse came to help us," Charlie says.

Tabler says Mississippi farmers who suffered damage had to first assess if they even wanted rebuild.

"But they love what they do so much, and they want it to be there for future generations, so they're willing to risk it all again," Tabler says. "They're undeterred and ready to rebuild."

USDA Reminds Farmers to Certify Conservation Compliance by June 1

By USDA

Producers May Need to Take Action to Remain Eligible for Crop Insurance Premium Support

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) reminds farmers that the 2014 Farm Bill requires producers to file a Highly Erodible Land Conservation and Wetland Conservation Certification form (AD-1026) with their local USDA service center by June 1, 2015, in order to become or remain eligible for crop insurance premium support.

Most farmers already have a certification form on file since it's required for participation in most USDA programs such as marketing assistance loans, farm storage facility loans and disaster assistance. However, farmers, such as specialty crop growers who receive federal crop insurance premium support, but may not participate in other USDA programs, also must now file a certification form to maintain their crop insurance premium support.

"USDA employees are working very hard to get the word out about this new Farm Bill provision," said Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack. "While many producers will not need to take action, we want to help make sure that those who are required to act do so by the June 1 deadline. We want all eligible producers to be able to maintain their ability to protect their operations with affordable insurance."

Producers should visit their local USDA service center and talk with their crop insurance agent before the June 1, 2015, deadline to ask questions, get additional information, or learn more about conservation compliance procedures. Producers that file their form by the deadline will be eligible for federal crop insurance premium support during the 2016 reinsurance year, which begins July 1, 2015. USDA will publish a rule outlining the linkage of conservation compliance with federal crop insurance premium support. Go to <http://go.usa.gov/3Wy5J> to view a copy of the rule.

The Highly Erodible Land Conservation and Wetland Conservation Certification form is available at local USDA service center or online at www.fsa.usda.gov/AD-1026form. When a farmer completes this form, USDA Farm Service Agency and Natural Resources Conservation Service staff will outline any additional actions that may be required for compliance with highly erodible land and wetland provisions. USDA's Risk Management Agency, through the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, manages the federal crop insurance program that provides the modern farm safety net for America's farmers and ranchers.

The announcement was made possible by the 2014 Farm Bill, which builds on historic economic gains in rural America over the past six years, while achieving meaningful reform and billions of dollars in savings for the taxpayer. Since enactment, USDA has implemented many provisions of this critical legislation, providing disaster relief to farmers and ranchers; strengthening risk management tools; expanding access to rural credit; funding critical research; establishing innovative public-private conservation partnerships; developing new markets for rural-made products; and investing in infrastructure, housing and community facilities to help improve quality of life in rural America. For more information, visit www.usda.gov/farbill.

North MS Small Ruminant Field Day

Pontotoc Soil & Water Conservation District & the Grazing Lands Conservation Initiative - GLCI

"Helping People, Help the Land"

In recognition of the growing interest in sheep production within the surrounding areas along with the newly announced Small Ruminant Farmer Initiative by the Natural Resources Conservation Service, the Pontotoc County SWCD in association with the NRCS is sponsoring a field day focusing on various management aspects of grazing sheep. Forages, whether grazed or hayed, supply the major source of nutrition and are a critical component in small farm enterprises to maintain sustainability. Many small farm owners are either newcomers to farming or people living in urban areas who see themselves as "hobby" farmers. This field day is intended to address the need for education relating to the basic agricultural practices and forage utilization for small ruminant management.

The SWCD's were founded to provide a local connection to the services and program assistance available through the NRCS. The mission of NRCS is to provide high quality technical assistance along with cost shared conservation practices to address the needs of private landowners in such a way that all share in the benefits.

9:00 a.m., Tuesday, May 12th

At the Thaxton Community Center

The field day will begin with free registration at the Community Center. At 9:30 everyone will gather in the gym for presentations from MSU specialists relating to small ruminant management and forage management. NRCS personnel will be available throughout the day to answer any questions relating to cost share assistance and the different practices that are offered through current NRCS programs such as fencing, nutrient/pest management, rotational grazing, and watering facilities. After the indoor sessions BBQ will be provided for lunch. After lunch participants will travel to Sand Spur Farm to look at an example of sheep working facilities and see a working dog demonstration. From there we will travel to the farm of Harry Patterson to see a newly established sheep farm and learn about some of the obstacles faced in starting up the operation.

Please return the attached form by Friday, May 8th, 2015 to: Pontotoc County Soil and Water Conservation District, 188 Hwy 15 South, P.O. Box 119, Pontotoc, MS 38863 or call (662) 489-3563 ext. 3 to confirm your attendance and reserve your noon meal.

MDAC Accepting Applications for Marketing Improvement Program

By Chaille Clements
Communications and
Marketing Specialist - MDAC

Commissioner Cindy Hyde-Smith announced that the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce (MDAC) is now accepting proposals for USDA's Federal-State Marketing Improvement Program (FSMIP). MDAC will submit qualifying proposals to USDA on the applicant's behalf.

FSMIP provides matching funds on a competitive basis to State Departments of Agriculture, State Colleges and Universities, and other appropriate State agencies to assist in exploring new market opportunities for U.S. food and agricultural products and to encourage research and innovation aimed at improving the efficiency and performance of the marketing system. FSMIP funds a wide range of applied research projects that address barriers, challenges and opportunities in marketing, transporting and distributing U.S. food and agricultural products domestically and internationally. Eligible agricultural categories include poultry; livestock, dairy, and poultry products; food, feed, and fiber crops; fish and shellfish; horticulture, viticulture, apiary, and forest products; and processed or manufactured products derived from such commodities. Reflecting the growing diversity of US agriculture, in recent years, FSMIP accepts proposals dealing with nutraceuticals, bioenergy, compost, agroforestry products, and products made from agricultural residue.

Federal funds awarded must be matched dollar-for-dollar by non-federal funds and/or in-kind resources. FSMIP projects should benefit multiple producers or agribusinesses. Grant funds will not be awarded for projects that solely benefit one individual or one agribusiness. Applications must be submitted to the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce by 5:00 p.m. on May 1, 2015. Applications should be submitted to Michael Lasseter, MDAC, P.O. Box 1609, Jackson, MS 39215 or michaelL@mdac.ms.gov

For additional information about this program or to obtain application guidelines, contact Michael Lasseter at (601) 359-1120 or michaelL@mdac.ms.gov or visit www.ams.usda.gov/FSMIP.

USDA to Help Waterways in Mississippi River Basin

By Kavanaugh Breazeale
USDA-NRCS

Targeted conservation work in the Mississippi River basin will unite the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), farmers and local organizations to help clean waterways that flow into the nation's largest river. USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is investing $10 million this year in 27 new high-priority watersheds and 13 existing projects that will help improve water quality and strengthen agricultural operations. This investment is part of a commitment of $100 million over four years to address critical water quality concerns in priority watersheds while boosting rural economies.

NRCS worked with state agencies, farmers and other partners to identify high-priority watersheds that align with established state priorities and have strong partnerships in place. Conservation systems implemented in these areas will reduce the amount of nutrients flowing from agricultural land into waterways, curb erosion and improve the resiliency of working lands in the face of droughts and floods. This investment builds on $18.5 million already allocated to projects in the basin in fiscal year 2015.

These projects are funded through the Mississippi River Basin Healthy Watersheds Initiative (MRBI). This includes funding from the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) and Conservation Stewardship Program, to help farmers adopt conservation systems to improve water quality and other related resource concerns.

In Mississippi, NRCS is working with the Delta Farmers Advocating Resource Management (F.A.R.M), Mississippi Soil and Water Conservation Commission and the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality to improve the Tommy Bayou/Brook Bayou watersheds in Bolivar County, Christmas Lake Bayou/Stillwater Bayou watersheds in Bolivar and Washington Counties and Long Lake watershed in Sunflower and Bolivar Counties.

Mississippi's NRCS is currently taking applications within the new MRBI watersheds. This is a continuous sign-up; however, only applications received by May 15, 2015, will be considered for funding this fiscal year in the new watersheds listed above. You can locate a NRCS office near you by visiting <http://offices.sc.egov.usda.gov/locator/app?agency=nrcs>.

Mississippi State Conservationist Kurt Readus stated, "Farmers are conservation-minded individuals, and NRCS and our partners are proud to be able to offer financial and technical assistance in helping them improve the water going into the tributaries of the Mississippi River."

Conservation systems include practices that promote soil health, reduce erosion and lessen nutrient runoff. This includes systems such as cover crops, reduced tillage and nutrient management and irrigation systems that capture and recycle nutrients back to the field.

Findings from a 2014 report by the USDA's Conservation Effects Assessment Project (CEAP) show that conservation work on cropland in the Mississippi River basin has reduced the amount of nitrogen and phosphorus flowing to the Gulf of Mexico by 18 and 20 percent, respectively. CEAP models have also shown that the targeted approach of MRBI has enhanced the per-acre conservation benefit by 70 percent for sediment losses, 30 percent by nitrogen losses and 40 percent for phosphorus losses, when compared to general program activities.

Commissioner Hyde-Smith Announces Funding Available for Organic Producers

By Chaille Clements
Communications and
Marketing Specialist - MDAC

Commissioner Cindy Hyde-Smith announced that the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce (MDAC) is currently offering a cost-share program for Mississippi organic producers and handlers receiving initial certification or continuation of certification by a United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) accredited certifying agent.

Funding is available for those receiving certification between October 1, 2014, and September 30, 2015. Individual organic operators are eligible for reimbursement of 75 percent of their fiscal year 2015 certification costs up to a maximum of $750 per category of certification. The National Organic Certification Cost-Share Program currently recognizes four categories of certification eligible for reimbursement: crops, wild crops, livestock and handler.

To be eligible for reimbursement, the following must be provided to MDAC by applicants: proof of certification issued by a USDA accredited certifying agent, a reimbursement form, an itemized invoice for certification-related expenses, an IRS W-9 form, and documentation of the payment in the form of a cancelled check. Applicants must be a Mississippi organic producer and handler located within the State of Mississippi. Funds are available on a first-come, first-serve basis until the funds are depleted. Operations may receive one reimbursement per year.

For more information about this program or to obtain an application, visit <http://www.mdac.ms.gov/departments/marketing/organic.htm>, call Michael Lasseter at (601) 359-1120, or email michaelL@mdac.ms.gov.

Mississippi NRCS Accepting Applications for Agriculture Land Easements

By Kavanaugh Breazeale
USDA-NRCS

The United States Department of Agriculture/Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is accepting applications for the Agricultural Conservation Easement Program (ACEP-ALE). This program helps protect productive farm and ranch lands from being converted for commercial development. Through ACEP-ALE, private land owners, land trusts and other entities are able to obtain federal support to help preserve working farm lands and ranches and restore, enhance and protect wetlands and grasslands through a permanent easement. The deadline for applications for funding consideration for this fiscal year is May 15, 2015.

ACEP was created by the 2014 Farm Bill and divided into two components: a wetland easement component (WRE), which largely mirrors the former Wetland Reserve Program and an agricultural land easement component (ALE), which retains the purposes and functionality of the Grassland Reserve Program and Farm and Ranch Lands Protection Program.

"ACEP-ALE gives landowners and other entities an opportunity to work together to preserve working lands," stated Kurt Readus, Mississippi NRCS state conservationist. "We encourage Indian tribes, state and local governments, non-governmental organizations and private landowners to contact their local NRCS office to apply."

To enroll eligible land through agricultural land easements, partners should discuss the development of an easement proposal with their local NRCS field office staff. Applications are continuously accepted for ACEP. To find a NRCS office nearest you, please visit <http://offices.sc.egov.usda.gov/locator/app?agency=nrcs>.

Sharkey County Farmer Directs Funds to Wounded Warriors of MS

By Brittany Day
Osborn Barr

America's Farmers Grow Communities donation supports local organization

Wounded Warriors of MS has received a $2,500 donation from Sharkey County farmer Randy Darden and America's Farmers Grow Communities, sponsored by the Monsanto Fund. The donation will help the organization purchase a lift for the wheelchair of a disabled veteran, and assist in paying monthly bills that veterans are not able to pay.

"I have had the privilege of meeting some of the veterans, and I truly admire them," said Darden. "I cannot think of a more deserving organization to receive this donation."

For five years, America's Farmers Grow Communities has collaborated with farmers to donate over $16.5 million to over 7,300 community organizations across rural America. This year winning farmers will direct another $3.3 million to nonprofits to help fight rural hunger, purchase life saving fire and EMS equipment, support ag youth leadership programs, buy much needed classroom resources, and so much more.

America's Farmers Grow Communities is part of the America's Farmers initiative. Since 2010, the America's Farmers campaign and programs have advocated on behalf of farmers and their efforts to meet society's needs through agriculture. Today, consumers are more interested than ever in agriculture and how food is grown. Consider joining the conversation and helping to raise awareness about agriculture. Learn more at FoodDialogues.com.

A sister program in the America's Farmers effort, Grow Rural Education, is currently in its farmer nomination phase. Farmers interested in supporting math and science education in their communities should visit www.GrowRuralEducation.com.

Green Eggs, No Ham

By Lise Foy, Director
MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

Yes, the theme here is poultry and eggs. May is after all National Egg Month. World Egg Day is celebrated in October.

However, the 'eggs' I am focusing on here are BIG GREEN ones, and not to be confused with the grill. Okay, I am not writing about eggs at all. Watermelons are the focus at the Ag Museum this spring!

We think of watermelons in July, but the time to plant your watermelons is now. During April, the Ag Museum provided 'Wildly Amazing Watermelon Seeds' to the first 5,000 visitors through our doors. These seeds are an invitation for you to UNPLUG from the digital world and dig into real fun by planting them with your family, your school, your community.

Over the course of the spring and summer, as the watermelon crop grows and produces, participants are encouraged to take pictures, keep records, and share their watermelon patch story with us through Facebook or email. A growth chart is available on our website to help guide each group's progress. If you would like to participate, there are

DIXIE QUEEN WATERMELON SEEDS

— WOW, —
THAT'S SOME WATERMELON!

WHAT YOU HOLD IN YOUR HAND is a pack of wildly amazing watermelon seeds from the Mississippi Ag Museum.

We invite you to unplug from the usual and dig into real fun by planting them with your family, your school, your community.

When you're done digging, pop the empty pack on a stick, put it by your melon patch, and take a pic. Then plug in to go online (just for a sec) and send it to us on Facebook. While there, you'll also see that we have a Big Watermelon Contest going on!

SO WHAT ARE YOU WAITING FOR? START DIGGING!

Between now and our Small Town Country Fair on July 11, we will share these stories and experiences and connect our giant watermelon vine across the state of Mississippi through a display in the Heritage Center lobby, Facebook page, and newsletter.

At the Small Town Country Fair, the Ag Museum will host our second annual biggest watermelon contest. The winner will earn a Farm Family Membership, a $75 value and valid for one calendar year. The winning school group entry will receive a train ride voucher for their class during their next field trip to the Ag Museum.

So what are you waiting for? START DIGGING!! Unplug and rediscover real fun at the Mississippi Ag Museum!

How to grow your watermelons:

Watermelons grow on vines, and need plenty of room. They love heat and will flourish with little attention once established. To get ready, choose your variety of watermelon. There is a wide array of sizes, shapes and colors to choose from. Choose a well-drained area with a minimum of six hours of sun daily.

Plant mounds of seeds two to six feet apart, depending on your space, placing up to four seeds per mound. The seeds should germinate in seven to ten days. Keep the soil moist and thin to the two strongest seedlings to give them room to grow. Mulch each hill after the plants reach about four inches with pine straw or compost to help prevent weeds and retain moisture.

After the vines begin to bloom, watering can be reduced to every few days. Water at the base of the plant, keeping the foliage and fruits dry if possible. If vines appear limp after a hot day into the evening, water deeply.

It is thought that sweetness of the fruit can be increased by holding the water for about a week before harvest of your melons, but do not withhold water if it causes the vines to wilt. Under perfect conditions, you should have mature watermelons in about four months.

For more information, visit www.msucare.com or call your local MSU Extension Service office.

The Ag Museum is located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson and is open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. In addition to our gallery and exhibit spaces, the Ag Museum also has room for your event, whether it's a meeting, a wedding or other special event. Call (601) 432-4500 for information.

If you would like to make a donation, make checks payable to the Mississippi Agriculture Museum Foundation, 1150 Lakeland Drive, Jackson, MS 39216.

Working Dogs Help Livestock Handlers

By Linda Breazeale
MSU Ag Communications

There are many reasons dogs are Bill Rivers' best friends, and their ability to move his cattle is at the top of the list.

"If you have a good, strong Border Collie that is trained well, you've got the best farmhand that you will ever have in your life," Rivers said.

Border Collies have been working beef cattle on Rivers' farm located in Brandon, Miss. for five years. His self-described working dog "addiction" has taken him to the top platform of competitions. His dog Buz was named champion in the National Cattledog Association Intermediate Finals in Colorado last year.

"When I got my first trained Border Collie in 2010, I was amazed at what she could do. I went to my first field trial in Hazlehurst and found the people to be competitive but still anxious to help new participants," he said. "I got addicted and started breeding them for top quality working dogs."

Rivers is on the board of directors for the Southern Stock Dog Association, which is affiliated with the National Cattledog Association. Locally, trials are held each January in Monroe, Louisiana; in May and October at Stringer Farms in Seminary, Mississippi; and in November at the Rankin County Multipurpose Building in Brandon, Mississippi.

"Their instinct is to gather. Most of the time, I don't even have to go into the pasture. They move, gather and sort my cattle,"

he said. "Cows, on the other hand, have an instinct not to obey the dogs, so it is best to start your trained dog on replacement heifers, stocker calves or dry cows because they will cooperate better than cow-calf pairs."

Rivers said nursing cows have an instinct to protect their calves from predators, thus they will try to fight dogs unless they have been properly acclimated to canines.

"It is more challenging to work cows with calves, but by exposing cows to dogs before calving, they will learn to give in to the dogs' pressure and make future work more successful," he said.

Border Collies earned their reputations as sheep dogs by bringing lambs into protected areas at night where predators, such as coyotes and wild dogs, could not encroach. Rivers said all Border Collies are not the same. Some are less aggressive and work sheep better. Others have the aggression needed to work cattle better. The best dogs can do both.

"The best dogs may be the ones

Border Collies herding instinct is different than that found in most herding dogs. Most breeds of herding dogs drive the livestock away from the handler, but Border Collies circle the cattle and bring them back to the handler as seen here demonstrated by Paige, one of the Border Collies owned and trained by Bill Rivers of Brandon, Miss.

purchased straight from a trainer, but if starting with a puppy, you need to lay a good foundation -- socialize and teach basic commands -- then take to a trainer when the dog is 12-14 months old," he said. "A trainer will get more accomplished than someone with less experience or who has other distractions. Training takes a lot of time and effort."

Dr. Christine Calder, a veterinary resident at the Mississippi State University College of Veterinary Medicine, focuses much of her work on animal behavior issues.

"Border Collies and similar working dogs have higher drives that can make them prone to being anxious, especially if they are not getting enough exercise," Calder said. "As with all dogs, introducing them to a variety of situations as puppies can improve their behavior later in life."

Calder recommended socializing them with a variety of dogs and people at an early age. Carefully exposing them to loud noises or car rides can make them less fearful or aggressive when encountering those experiences later. Their keen sense of hearing can increase sensitivities to loud noises such as thunderstorms.

"Teach dogs basic commands as soon as possible," she said.

One medical challenge with working dogs is they may mask pain because of their desire to work.

"Owners or handlers need to pay close attention to any signs of discomfort and treat or provide rest as needed," Calder said.

People are becoming more aware of stock dogs and more appreciative of the skills of both the animals and their handlers.

The Southern Stock Dog Association will hold its next trials May 2-3, when Stringer Farms in Seminary hosts the Spring 2015 Cattle Dog Trial (see page 26 for trial entry form).
